

LAW AND COMPETITION IN TWENTIETH CENTURY EUROPE

Protecting Prometheus
DAVID J. GERBER

Despite the importance of competition law in the European Union, images of Europe's experience with competition law often remain vague and are sometimes dangerously distorted. This book examines that experience by analyzing its dynamics, revealing its importance, and highlighting the political and economic issues it raises.

Maury Klein

The Life and Legend of E. H. Harriman
MAURY KLEIN

An insightful biography of “the man who saved the railroads.”

“In this grand, fascinating saga [Klein] carefully sorts out fact from legend, sweeps aside a century’s worth of mythology, . . . and vividly portrays Harriman’s fierce ambition, intelligence, personal life, and strengths. No one else has written so well or so comprehensively about this major American figure.”

Sources of Industrial Leadership Studies of Seven Industries

David C. Mowery and
Richard C. Nelson, Editors

This book describes and analyzes how seven major high-tech industries evolved in the United States, Japan, and Western Europe. The industries covered are machine tools, organic chemical products, pharmaceuticals, medical devices, computers, semiconductors, and software. The focus of the book is on the key factors that supported the emergence of national leadership in each industry, and the reasons behind the shifts when they occurred.

The Ottoman City between East and West

Aleppo, Izmir, and Istanbul

Ethem Eldem, Daniel Goffman, and Bruce Masters

In a pioneering reinterpretation, the authors challenge the orientalist perception of the Islamic city. By considering the histories of three Ottoman cities in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, they depart from the piecemeal methods of previous studies to emphasize the importance of these cities and to highlight their essentially Ottoman character.

Australia in the Global Economy Continuity and Change

David Meredith and Barrie Dyster

This up-to-date volume considers Australian economic development in light of worldwide political and social developments, arguing that the Australian economy is an integral part of the world economy and subject to the same trends across the globe.

Traditional Industry in the Economy of Colonial India

Tirthankar Roy

Earlier historians of India's economic history have argued that traditional manufacturing in India was destroyed or devitalized during the colonial period, and that "modern industry" is substantially different. Exploring new material from research into five traditional industries, Tirthankar Roy's book contests these notions, demonstrating that while traditional industry did evolve during the industrial revolution, these transformations had a galvanizing rather than negative effect on manufacturing generally.

Paths of Innovation

Technological Change in 20th-Century
America

David C. Mowery and Nathan Rosenberg

"Rosenberg and Mowery are among the nation's premier historians of technical change. They relate the sagas of four technologies—the internal combustion engine, the chemical industry, electric power, and the electronics revolution that followed the invention of the transistor in 1947—and look for patterns that repeat among the details that do not."
