

DEVELOPMENT & REFORM

*"A stunning contribution
by a master of the sources
who approaches the history of the sciences of the human mind in an entirely fresh way, and finds there much to instruct us."*

— Mary O. Furner

ROBERT COHEN, University of Georgia, Athens

Adding to the emerging portrait of political life in the 1930s, this book offers the first comprehensive history of the first American mass student insurgency, led primarily by young Communists, which was both an anti-war campaign and a movement championing a broader and more egalitarian vision of the welfare state than that of the New Dealers.

ROGER L. GEIGER, Pennsylvania State University

With this book, Roger L. Geiger completes a two-volume study of American research universities in the twentieth century. This book describes how the federal government first relied on university scientists during World War II, and how the resulting relationship set the pattern for the postwar mushrooming of academic research. Although the vicissitudes of federal-university relations are one crucial element of this history, the focus is on the universities themselves, their internal aspirations to conduct research, and their adaptations to external constraints and opportunities.

CALL FOR PAPERS

The History of Education Society will hold its annual meeting in Chapel Hill, North Carolina, 3–6 November 1994, at the Carolina Inn. The Program Committee welcomes proposals for individual papers or complete sessions consisting of several papers with a chairperson and a commentator. Proposals should include the theme and conclusions of each paper (1–3 pages) and a short (1-page) vita of each presenter. Proposals are also solicited for research-in-progress roundtables, open panel discussions on areas of general intellectual interest, and informal sessions showcasing the work of new scholars. Send all proposals (4 copies) by 15 April 1994 to:

Professor Maris Vinovskis

THE HISTORY OF EDUCATION SOCIETY
AWARD FOR 1994

The History of Education Society awards a prize of $250 every two years for the best article in the history of education, broadly defined to include work on schools, teachers, higher education, families, and a wide range of cultural and educational institutions. The next award will be presented at the fall 1994 meeting of the Society. Articles published in 1992 or 1993 in refereed journals only (no book chapters, please) are eligible; self-nominations are welcome. The deadline for entries is 1 April 1994. Entrants should send six copies of the article to:

Professor Barbara Beatty
Education Department
Wellesley College
Wellesley, MA 02181

The Society reserves the right not to award the prize if the committee makes such a recommendation.

Erratum

In Dorothy W. Hewes's letter to the editor (Summer 1993), a date was incorrectly printed. The date in the next to the last sentence of Hewes's letter, p. 292, should be 1836, not 1863. The editors regret the error.

A Survey of Sources at the Rockefeller Archive Center for the Study of

African-American History and Race Relations

Compiled by Kenneth W. Rose, Thomas E. Rosenbaum, Pecolia Allston-Rieder and Gretchen Koerpel

Lists more than 2,200 entries describing material in the collections of the Rockefeller Archive Center, with a user's guide and an introductory essay

"This work is a splendid tool for scholars concerned with Black education and race relations in the 20th century. In short, this survey of sources provides an entree into one of the major collections in the country which is concerned with the history of the Black experience in America." —August Meier

"[This survey] is such a vital and indispensable reference guide that it should form the center of every personal library of scholars and students of African American and race relations history. The Rockefeller Archive Center houses an incomparable collection of primary sources touching on vast dimensions of African American history and culture, race relations, and white philanthropy in 20th-century America. [The survey's] accessible format and illuminating introductory essay promise to stimulate and facilitate the research of scholars for generations to come. This is truly an essential research tool that belongs in every academic library." —Darlene Clark Hine

"Few, if any, philanthropic institutions . . . have had the sustained commitment, longevity, and far-reaching impact on nearly every facet of African-American life than those . . . started by the Rockefeller family. [This survey] will be an invaluable guide to scholars concerned with deciphering the mysteries of why and how several Rockefeller philanthropies chose to support African-American organizations as the American public's attitudes towards African-Americans changed over time. This makes the survey a unique resource for not only better understanding past grantmaking, but also for gaining insights into how future grantmaking strategies might be crafted." —Emmett D. Carson
