David Garrick A Critical Biography

By GEORGE WINCHESTER STONE, Jr., and GEORGE M. KAHRL. The life of this actor, manager, playwright, and 18th-century gentleman is here refracted through the voluminous correspondence and analyses of roles, plays, and performances in this – no doubt final – biography of David Garrick. Illustrated with 55 portraits and drawings. $T.B.A. (Coming in December)

The Plays of David Garrick

Edited with Commentary and Notes by HARRY WILLIAM PEDICORD and FREDERICK LEWIS BERGMANN. This new edition represents the first attempt since 1798 to publish a complete edition of Garrick's plays and the first to include all of Garrick's adaptations of Shakespeare and other English dramatists. (Coming in December)

Volume 1: Garrick's Own Plays, 1740-1766	$50.00
Volume 2: Garrick's Own Plays, 1767-1775	$50.00

(Four additional volumes in preparation.)

Thomas Betterton and the Management of Lincoln's Inn Fields, 1695-1708

By JUDITH MILHOUS. This thoroughly new investigation into the theatre management competition between the Drury Lane and Lincoln's Inn Fields companies revises the established view of Thomas Betterton's management abilities by documenting the fact that his competition with the Drury Lane company made both an immediate and a permanent change in the course of British drama.

Flamboyant Drama

A Study of "The Castle of Perseverance," "Mankind," and "Wisdom"

By MICHAEL R. KELLEY. Foreword by JOHN GARDNER. In addition to providing new readings of three anonymous morality plays different in design and texture, this book gives an overview of the 15th-century flamboyant art form – that strange mixture of artistry, moral theology, bawdy irreverence, physical action, and sermonic eloquence that succeeded the mystery plays at the end of the medieval period. $12.95

A Biographical Dictionary of Actors, Actresses, Musicians, Dancers, Managers, and Other Stage Personnel in London, 1660-1800

By PHILIP H. HIGHFILL, Jr., KALMAN A. BURNIM, and EDWARD A. LANGHANS. "This multi-volume work is one of the most important reference aids to be published on the English theatre of the Restoration and 18th-century." – American Reference Books Annual

These notes were written during the early part of the sixties (1960-1964) while I was attending the Institute for Advanced Studies in the Theater Arts and The Actors Studio in New York. At the time, they were a reaction to the sessions and to my readings. Sometimes they constituted what was being said; other times they were in contradiction.

Richard Foreman

Plays and Manifestos

Edited, with an Introduction, by Kate Davy

Playwright, director and theatrical designer—Richard Foreman is the most important theatre artist working in the avant-garde today. The texts of eight of the twelve plays he has produced for his Ontological-Hysteric Theatre appear in this new book (six of them previously unpublished) along with three manifestos on theatre art. Kate Davy's perceptive introduction examines the major influences on Foreman's work and skillfully guides the reader to an understanding of how to approach the texts. $9.75 paper; $18.50 cloth

International Directory of Little Magazines and Small Presses

1977-78 13th Edition

For a dozen years now this Directory has been used the world over by poets, writers, librarians, students of contemporary literature, creative writing classes and others as a guide to the ever-increasing community of small and independent magazines and presses. It contains such important data as name, address, editor(s), price, circulation, frequency, type of material used, payment rates, rights purchased, discount schedules, size, personal statements by editors, number of issues/titles published in the previous year and projected in the coming year, etc. The Directory has been called "the first and by far the best..." by Bill Katz in Magazine Selection (R.R. Bowker). ALA's Choice says it's "the most comprehensive and detailed listing of non-establishment periodicals...that rarity among reference books, a directory that is a delight to read." Bob Miles (Small Press Book Club) calls it "the one indispensable book", and the Wall Street Journal claims it's "the Bible of the business".

School of the Arts
Department of Drama, Undergraduate

IS OFFERING AN ALTERNATIVE PROGRAM IN:

EXPERIMENTAL THEATRE

The Department of Drama, Undergraduate, which offers a B.F.A. degree in acting, is pleased to announce an alternative program of study with the Experimental Theatre Wing. A limited number of students will have the opportunity to work intimately with leading experimental theatre groups in a two-year program designed for students who have completed two years of foundation work with one of the three professional studios associated with our Department: Stella Adler Conservatory of Acting, Circle in the Square Theatre School, and The Lee Strasberg Theatre Institute. The ETW is also open to students who have studied acting elsewhere and who wish to transfer into our Department. Students in the ETW will work in unique acting, voice and movement workshops taught from the point of view of members from each of the following experimental theatre groups: The Performance Group (best known for explorations of audience participation and environmental theatre), The Ridiculous Theatrical Company (specializing in Commedia dell'arte), Mabou Mines (known for conceptual adaptations of Beckett and experiments with new music and movement), Chi-Kanji and original members of the Open Theater—each known for uniquely experimental approaches to ensemble acting. In addition to studying with the groups, students will be expected to take dramatic literature, theatre history (including studies in the avant-garde), and performance theory courses offered through the Department. The program also includes summer workshops with the Iowa Theater Lab and the Bread and Puppet Theater.

Since the nature of the groups involves frequent international tours, the order and availability of the groups varies each semester. For each year's schedule and further information contact:

THE NEW YORK TIMES:

"Vienna's English Theatre, subsidized by the Austrian Federal Government and the City of Vienna, has become a major force in Central Europe." (May 23, 1976.)

INTERNATIONAL HERALD TRIBUNE:

"Vienna's English Theatre's esteem was built painstakingly upon 15 years of hard work and ruthless professionalism... without ever relaxing the standards that have made it the only theatre of its kind." (Focus on Austria, March 1, 1978.)

"Chalk up another hit for Vienna's English Theatre, a venture that might be imitated to advantage elsewhere... The secret of its success lies in its intelligent script and casting judgments, catholic taste, orderly management, and, above all, the maintenance of high professional standards. It is a model for ambitious theatre groups today." (Thomas Quinn Curtiss reviewing Dame Anna Neagle in Noël Coward's RELATIVE VALUES, April 14, 1978.)

DER SPIEGEL:

"The little theatre has only 250 seats and no Iron Curtain. But international stars perform on its stage and domestic eminences crowd into its auditorium. Vienna's English Theatre — the last of some 30 Anglo-American theatres founded on the Continent of Europe since 1945 — is the 'greatest little theatre wonder of Vienna' (according to DIE PRESSE)... Sometimes at the Burgtheater you see a Cabinet minister; on special nights at the Vienna Opera you catch a glimmer of nobility. But at every Vienna's English Theatre opening you meet the cream of Vienna." (Five-column spread, entitled "Creme komplett", in leading German newsmagazine Nr. 24/1978.)

The Economic Dilemma Within the

WHO SHOULD BE READING P. A. R.?

Bosley Crowther (Former film critic, N.Y. Times) said:

"I have found your publication . . . most knowledgeable, thorough and broad-minded in covering the heretofore neglected areas of the management, legal and corporate structural aspects of the performing arts industries. I do recommend it to anyone interested in these fields, and as good collateral reading for those who are concerned about the continuation of the arts."

Bill Katz (MAGAZINES editor for Library Journal) said:

". . . There is a nice balance between the nuts and bolts approach and such things as interviews, poetry, book reviews and literary comment. Contributors are experts who are as deliberate and straightforward as commentators in the WALL STREET JOURNAL . . . is invaluable for the social sciences and the business and law collection. HIGHLY RECOMMENDED."

APPLAUSE FOR THE

"It is always exciting when a new theatre magazine appears on the market. We are doubly gratified when it devotes its space to the gamut of theatrical experience—highlighting the excitement of the Off and Off-Off-Broadway experience while also giving the main stem endeavors its just regard."

Joseph Papp

"How exciting to have a new theatre magazine at last, and one with such a broad scope, truly representing theatre, not only in New York but over the whole country—beautifully presented and with fascinating articles by people I really wanted to read."

Beatrice Straight

"The New York THEATRE Review makes an important contribution to the professional theatre and its audience because it covers a wide range of theatre topics with seriousness and intelligence. It is of interest to anyone with more than a passing interest in theatre."

Liv Ullman

"A bright, new, and important magazine for all of us who love theatre."

Lynn Redgrave

GRADUATE DRAMA

Theodore Hoffman, Chairperson

A New Approach To Graduate Drama

Theatre changes. So do standards and methods of research, publication, teaching and employment. The Graduate Department of Drama, which offers masters and doctoral research exclusively, regularly revises its curriculum to emphasize responsible study of the performing arts. It now offers new courses and concentration in these areas:

DANCE PERFORMANCE

Dance study, in the context of the performing arts, is designed for independent-minded dance scholars concerned to explore new methods of research which deal responsibly with present dance conditions and put the past in a useful perspective. Seminar courses are led by leading dance scholars and critics who organize study and discussion to cover particular figures, movements and periods. The area is expanding to provide increased doctoral concentration. Applicants should write the Chairperson for full details and new course offerings.

POPULAR PERFORMANCE

Folk and popular entertainment (including modern media) have constituted a culturally and artistically vital alternative theatre. The need to study such forms is now emphasized by their influence on contemporary performance. This concentration studies the history of traditional forms, the relating of such practice to theatre history, and the place of folk and popular entertainment in contemporary performance.

PERFORMANCE THEORY

Theatre and social science scholars are increasingly concerned with the continuum from human action and ritual to formal performance in all societies. Extensive interdisciplinary study includes field work and theory that relate to concepts of social and theatrical performance, in the dimensions of ritual, public ceremony, and "life events." Courses are planned in the roots of art, liminality, and collective performance methods, as well as workshops in converging techniques of performance and therapy.

PERFORMANCE WRITING AND RESEARCH

Acquired knowledge in performing arts may be published in a variety of media. Research courses cover bibliography, archival documentation, textual study and interview methods, as well as description of performance practice. Applied courses emphasize editorial methods and standards for reviewing, criticism, features, scholarly articles, books and media.

CONTEMPORARY PERFORMANCE

Contemporary theatre has been shaped more significantly through performance theory and practice than through dramatic literature. Courses cover the practice, theory and methods, and institutional structure of contemporary performance in the fullest possible range, including commercial theatre, experimental and alternative theatre, and related study in dance and popular entertainment.

PERFORMING ARTS ARCHIVES

Research in performing arts extends beyond published materials. Archives and collections exist in theatre, dance, film, broadcasting, recording. Folk and popular entertainment require particular research and curatorial techniques, rarely available through graduate study. Professional instruction will be offered in the acquisition, cataloguing, and curatorial maintenance of performing arts collections.
