

SPOTLIGHTS

Weldon Receives Violet Haas Award

S. Laurel Weldon, professor of political science, is the recipient of the 2012 Violet Haas Award at Purdue University. She will be honored at a reception this fall.

Established in 1990, the Violet Haas Award recognizes individuals, programs, or departments at Purdue that have effectively facilitated the advancement of women in hiring, promotion, education, and salary or have generally enhanced a positive professional climate for women at Purdue University.

Weldon came to Purdue's political science department in 1999; since then, her scholarly work has received substantial recognition. For example, this year, she received the APSA Victoria Schuck Award, presented for the best book published in 2011 on women and politics, for her title When Protest Makes Policy: How Social Movements Represent Disadvantaged Groups (University of Michigan Press). She was awarded the Best Paper Award for the best paper presented at the 2011 Annual Meeting in the field of women and politics from the APSA Organized Section Women and Politics Research. In 2006, she won Political Research Quarterly's award for best article published that year. Also this year, Weldon was invited to present her work, "Women Deepening Democracy," at a United Nations conference in New Delhi.

Weldon has served on the APSA Committee on the Status of Women in the Profession and is currently president of the women and politics research section of APSA. She has served on and chaired the best dissertation proposal award for the Women's Caucus of APSA, and recently finished a term on the council of the Midwest Political Science Association

Together with Mala Htun, Weldon is engaged in the final stages of a National Science Foundation-funded project to conduct a global analysis of the politics of women's rights.

Award and Fund Honor Paletz

David L. Paletz, professor, department of political science at Duke University, is the 2012 recipient of the David Swanson Award for Service to Political Communication Scholarship. Given jointly every two years by the APSA

Organized Section, Political Communication and the Political Communication Division of the International Communication Association, the award recognizes distinguished and sustained contributions to the field as planners, editors, and leaders and in roles that require time and energy, innovation, and personal dedication. Paletz is the fourth recipient.

In addition, thanks to a generous grant from two of Professor Paletz's former students (a mother and daughter), Duke University has established the David L. Paletz Innovative Teaching Fund. Every year, Duke faculty in Arts and Humanities are invited to submit proposals designed to meet some of the goals accomplished by Paletz during his teaching career at Duke:

show innovation in course subjects or design (including the use of new technologies); require original research; demand critical thinking and challenging discussion; expose students to speakers (including practitioners); provide access to research materials; and enable students to produce potentially publishable papers or other accomplishments such as public screens, exhibitions, or performances.

Heine Visiting Professor in Paris

Jorge Heine, CIGI Professor of Global Governance at the Balsillie School of International Affairs, Wilfrid Laurier University and Distinguished Fellow at the Centre for International Governance Innovation, in Waterloo, Ontario, is the Pablo Neruda Visiting Professor of Latin American Studies at the University of Paris in the fall 2012–13 semester. At La Sorbonne he will teach a course on globalization and its impact on Latin America. In the summer of 2012 he was a visiting professor of political science at the University of Konstanz in Germany. In 2011–12, he served as chair of the jury for the Luciano Tomassini Latin American International Relations Award established by the Latin American Studies Association (LASA). His recent book, Fixing Haiti: MINUSTAH and Beyond (United Nations University Press, 2011) has had nine launches in as many cities, including in Washington, Ottawa, Miami, Montreal, and Rio de Janeiro.

Johnson Wins SEC Award

Loch Johnson, a faculty member in the School of Public and International Affairs, University of Georgia, is the inaugural recipient of the Southeastern Conference's (SEC) Professor of the Year Award.

He was selected from among winners of the SEC Faculty Achievement Award presented to one faculty member from each SEC university in April 2012. The awards honor faculty with outstanding records in teaching and scholarship who serve as role models for other faculty and students.

"In his more than 30-year career at the University of Georgia, Dr. Johnson has had an extraordinary impact on generations of students and at the same time has been a prolific writer and researcher in the areas of national security and US intelligence operations," said UGA President Michael F. Adams. "We are pleased that these achievements are being recognized by the SEC through the new Professor of the Year Award."

Johnson previously has won institutional honors for his teaching and research. He holds the title of Regents Professor, an award given by the University System of Georgia to faculty whose scholarship is nationally and internationally recognized as innovative and pace setting. He also is a Josiah Meigs Distinguished Teaching Professor, UGA's highest award for teaching at the undergraduate and graduate levels.

Johnson is the author of more than 20 books on national security and foreign policy. This fall, he will teach a First-Year Odyssey Seminar for incoming UGA freshmen on "The CIA in War and Peace." In addition to his teaching and research, Johnson has served for the past decade as a mentor to undergraduate students involved in UGA's Center for Undergraduate Research Opportunities. He also played a critical role in the establishment of UGA's School of Public and International Affairs in 2001. Departments of the school are consistently ranked among the best in the nation.

Menchik Heads to Beirut, Boston

Jeremy M. Menchik, formerly a Shorenstein A/PARC Fellow at Stanford University for 2011–12, will serve as a postdoctoral research associate, American University of Beirut for 2012–13. His research focuses on the politics of the Muslim world, especially Indonesia. His dissertation examines the variation in religious and political tolerance in Indonesia during the twentieth century and is based on two years of field research including 1,000 elite surveys, 150 in-depth interviews, and 12 months of research in the archives of the world's largest Islamic institutions. Following this appointment in Beirut he joins the faculty at Boston University as assistant professor in the department of international relations and the faculty coordinator for the masters program in international relations and religion effective fall 2013.

Dolan Wins Research Award

Kathleen Dolan, professor of political science, University of Wisconsin, Milwaukee (UWM) has received the UWM Research Foundation Senior Faculty Award. This award is designed to recognize senior faculty who have a long history of significant contributions to the scholarly literature in their field of research. Recipients are nominated by their department and chosen by a committee of the UWM Distinguished Professors.

Dolan's work is in political behavior and gender politics. She is the author of "Voting for Women: How the Public Perceives Women Candidates" and numerous journal articles and book chapters. She is a former co-editor of the Politics & Gender and is currently a member of the American National Election Studies board.

Holden Acknowledged in Congress

In the official Congressional Record of the proceedings and debates of the United States Congress on June 6, 2012, Congressman Bennie G. Thompson honored and "celebrates the achievements and accomplishments of Dr. Matthew Holden, Jr., Academician." Holden is a former president of APSA and of the Policy Studies Organization.

In his recognition remarks, Thompson outlined Holden's career highlights, extensive publication record, and his many activities outside the academy. These include congressional testimony on D.C. government organization, energy policy, and constitutional and historical information on presidential impeachment. He also held appointments as Commissioner of the Public Service Commission of Wisconsin and Commissioner of the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission. He has been a member of the Electricity Advisory Board and Task Force on Electric System Reliability, both for the US Department of Energy.

Matthew Holden, Jr. is currently the Wepner Distinguished Professor in Political Science, University of Illinois, Springfield, a position he has held since August 2009. He is the convener of the Wepner Symposium on the Lincoln Legacy and Contemporary Scholarship.

Curtis Awarded Doctorate

Mark Curtis, a TV journalist, author, as well as a 1992–93 APSA Congressional Fellow, has earned his Doctor of Education in Educational Leadership degree from St. Mary's College of California.

Curtis, who was a congressional fellow to then Rep. Charles Schumer (D-NY) and Sen. Herb Kohl (D-WI), completed his dissertation in a study of how voters in generational age groups made different media choices in how they gained information about politics in the 2008 presidential election and beyond.

"People are very much creatures of habit," said Curtis. "They gravitate toward what they grew up with or used all their lives in terms of news coverage." The study found that voters over age 60 still gravitate to traditional media of newspapers, radio, and television. The youngest voters—under age 30—are completely opposite, using Internet-based news and social media, almost to the exclusion of newspapers and TV.

Curtis is the morning co-anchor and chief political reporter for WLNE-TV ABC 6 in Providence, Rhode Island. In addition, Curtis is an adjunct lecturer in the communication department at Rhode Island College. He is also the owner of MarkCurtisMedia.com, a communications and political consulting firm in Danville, California.

New Appointment for Sheldon Goldman

The University of Massachusetts Amherst Board of Trustees has appointed long-time political science faculty member Sheldon Goldman a Distinguished Professor. This appointment recognizes Professor Goldman's outstanding research, service, and teaching in the department of political science.

For nearly 50 years at UMass Amherst, Goldman has become one of the nation's top experts on the politics of judicial selection and confirmation. In the 1960s, he was one of the first scholars who sought to expand traditional public law approaches to the study of the judiciary, and his research shifted the focus of federal court scholarship from a singular examination of the Supreme Court to a broader and more inclusive study of Law and the Courts. In the 1970s, Goldman began a series of articles in Judicature on federal judicial selection, which he continues to write.

Goldman is the author of Picking Federal Judges, which was selected Outstanding Academic Book for 1998 by Choice Magazine and received Honorable Mention for the 1997 C. Herman Pritchett Award given by The Law and Courts Organized Section of APSA. He is recipient of a Woodrow Wilson Fellowship and Harvard Fellowship, and he has received grants from the NSF, Social Science Research Council, LBJ Foundation, Harry S. Truman Library Institute, and the Ford Library, as well as University grants.

In 2004, Professor Goldman was recognized with a Chancellor's Medal, and in 2006 he received the Lifetime Achievement Award from the APSA's Law and Courts Organized Section. Professor Goldman has appeared on or been interviewed by NBC Nightly News, Bill Moyer's Journal, CBS, Voice of America, CNN, Rolling Stone, the Wall Street Journal, and the New York Times, among countless other regional and national media outlets.

Goldman's numerous teaching honors including Pi Sigma Alpha's Outstanding Teacher in 1988 and 2002. He continues to be a tireless advocate for political science students and acted as the department's honors coordinator for several years.

Paul Volcker Receives Moynihan Prize, Fellows Named

The American Academy of Political and Social Science (AAPSS) presented its Daniel Patrick Moynihan prize for 2011 to APSA member Paul A. Volcker in a ceremony at the Ronald Reagan Building in Washington, DC. Volcker was introduced by the first recipient of the Moynihan Prize, Alice Rivlin, former director of the Office of Management and Budget and now a Senior Fellow in Economics at the Brookings Institution.

The Academy honored Volcker for his long career in government starting at the New York Federal Reserve Bank in 1952. He also served at the Treasury Department and as the two-term chairman of the Federal Reserve System from 1979 to 1987. As Fed Chairman, Volcker receives credit for ending the stagflation that plagued the Carter Administration and restoring the US economy while sending it on the low-inflation path that continues to this day. He has also received plaudits for his work leading various civic activities: a Commission on Public Service; another panel charged with finding dormant accounts and other assets in Swiss banks for victims of Nazi persecution; and a Board of Inquiry that examined the scandal-plagued United Nations Oil-for-Food program. From 2008 to 2011 he was chairman of President Obama's Economy Recovery Board.

AAPSS also honored, by naming them Fellows, other APSA members whose work has influenced public policy. Columbia Professor Michael Doyle was named the Daniel Patrick Moynihan Fellow for his work with the UN. Robert Jervis, also of Columbia, was honored as the Robert Dahl Fellow for his work on the political psychology of international relations. Beth Simmons of Harvard, and a former COSSA congressional seminar speaker, was honored as the Edward Kennedy Fellow for her work on human rights and international law.

Founded in 1889, the AAPSS is one of the nation's oldest learned societies and is dedicated to the use of social science to address important social problems.

Ira Katznelson Named Next SSRC President

Ira Katznelson became president of the Social Science Research Council effective September 1, 2012.

Katznelson, Ruggles Professor of Political Science and History at Columbia University, is an accomplished social scientist, whose distinctive scholarship ranges across multiple fields, including American politics, comparative politics, and political theory. Prior to his position at Columbia, he taught at the University of Chicago, chairing its department of political science from 1979 to 1982, and at the New School for Social Research, where he was dean of the graduate faculty from 1983 to 1989. He was president of the APSA in 2005–2006, is a vice chair of the Academic Advisory Board of the Institute for Human Sciences in Vienna, and previously served as president of the Social Science History Association. Katznelson has been a Guggenheim Fellow and is a fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences and the American Philosophical Society. A prolific author, he was the founding editor of the interdisciplinary journal Politics & Society. His latest book, Fear Itself: The New Deal and the Origins of Our Time, is forthcoming in early 2013.

Michael Kennedy, chair of the Board's Executive Committee and of the Presidential Search Committee, reflected on the ratification of the new president:

"The Council is very fortunate to have appointed a scholar of such accomplishment, breadth, and distinction as Ira Katznelson. Our search was extensive, and we considered many candidates, several of whom would have been outstanding leaders of the SSRC.... Ira is poised to take the SSRC to the next level following Craig Calhoun's spectacular leadership."

Founded in 1923, the Social Science Research Council is an independent, non-profit international organization. It nurtures new generations of social scientists, fosters innovative research, and mobilizes necessary knowledge on important public issues.

USC Appoints 6 New Professors

The University of Southern California (USC) made major new investments in political science and international relations in 2012—six new professors have joined the faculty. The Department of Political Science added two:

Professor Dennis Chong, PhD University of California, Berkeley. Formerly the MacArthur Professor at Northwestern, Chong has published extensively about US national politics, particularly on decision making, political psychology, rationality, social norms, tolerance, and collective action. His publications have won APSA's Franklin Burdett/Pi Sigma Alpha prize and APSA Organized Section on Political Economy's William Riker and he has been elected to the APSA Council. He arrives as the department's new chair.

Assistant Professor Diana Z. O'Brien, PhD Washington University, St. Louis. Her primary interests are comparative politics and quantitative methodology, and she has published about the representation of women in political institutions.

The School of International Relations added four new faculty:

The John A. McCone Professor of International Relations, Wayne Sandholtz, PhD University of California, Berkeley. Sandholtz is a leading expert on European integration and global governance. He wrote a definitive study of why and how the EU created the Eurozone, for instance. Today he is investigating why international law and other global norms change as they do. Sandholtz has also published on the effects of globalization on domestic corruption and the conditions of women. He has won three awards for teaching and mentoring.

The Robert and Kathryn Dockson Professor of International Relations and Economics, Joshua Aizenman, PhD in Economics, University of Chicago. Aizenman is a prolific author of more than 130 peer-reviewed articles on a variety of subjects in international and development economics and an authority on international financial policies. His work has illuminated economic instability and economic development,

Keep PS Informed

Share your news and announcements with PS. Visit our website and let us know about your new appointment, new book, award, or other accomplishments at www.apsanet.org/forms/PeopleinPS.cfm. ■

Did you know...

Follow stories of political scientists in the news at Political Science News Facebook page. www.facebook.com/politicalsciencenews. ■ sovereign default, and how emerging economies protected themselves from the recent financial crisis, for example.

Assistant Professor Andrew Coe, PhD Harvard University. After earning his BS at Cal Tech, Professor Coe has developed innovative research on the political economy of war and peace using game theoretic modeling.

Assistant Professor Benjamin Graham, PhD University of California, San Diego. His specialty is the politics of the world economy and particularly how political risk affects international investment in fragile states. ■

ACTIVITIES

Jason Brownlee, associate professor, department of government, the University of Texas at Austin, received a grant from the U.S. Institute of Peace to conduct research on intercommunal relations in Egypt.

ADMINISTRATIVE APPOINTMENTS

Michael Bailey, chair, department of government, Georgetown University

Sharon Barrios, associate dean of the Office of Graduate Studies, California State University, Chico

David S. Brown, chair, department of political science, University of Colorado, Boulder

Kiki Caruson, assistant vice president for research, innovation and global affairs, University of South Florida

Rosalee Clawson, chair, department of political science, Purdue University

Bruce L. Cronin, chair, department of political science, CUNY-City College of New York

Charles Dannehl, chair, department of political science, Bradley University

Michele Deegan, chair and associate professor, department of political science, Muhlenberg College

Michael J. Ensley, graduate director, department of political science, Kent State University

John P. Entelis, chair, department of political science, Fordham University

Jocelyn Evans, chair, department of government, University of West Florida

Amy L. Freedman, chair, department of political science, Long Island University, CW Post

Steven A. Gerencser, chair, department of political science, Indiana University, South Bend

Judith Grant, chair, department of political science, Ohio University

Tamar Gutner, associate dean for faculty affairs and graduate education, School of International Service, American University

Michael Hammer, graduate director, department of government and politics, University of Maryland

Gerard Huiskamp, chair and professor, department of political science, Wheaton College (MA)

Booker T. Ingram, Jr., chair, department of political science, Presbyterian College

Shannon Jenkins, chair, department of political science, University of Massachusetts, Dartmouth

Gibbs Knotts, chair and associate professor, department of political science, College of Charleston

Brian S. Krueger, chair, department of political science, University of Rhode Island

Geoffrey C. Layman, graduate director, department of political science, University of Notre Dame

Philip Mauceri, provost and vice president for academic affairs, SUNY New Paltz; formerly University of Northern Iowa

Patrick J. McGuinn, chair and associate professor, department of political science, Drew University

Steven McGuire, chair, department of political science, Eastern University

Ross Miller, graduate director, department of political science, University of Nebraska, Lincoln

Irwin Morris, chair, department of government and politics, University of Maryland

Candace Nelson, chair, department of government, American University

Mitchell A. Orenstein, chair and professor, department of political science, Northeastern University

Lori J. Owens, chair, department of political science and public administration, Jacksonville State University

Eric Patterson, dean, Robertson School of Government, Regent University

Louis Pauly, chair, department of political science, University of Toronto

Geoffrey Peterson, chair, department of political science, University of Wisconsin, Eau Claire

Brian D. Posler, executive vice president for academic affairs and dean of

College of Arts and Sciences, Baker University

Paul M. Rego, chair, department of politics, Messiah College

Philip G. Roeder, chair, department of political science, University of California, San Diego

Eve N. Sandberg, chair, department of politics, Oberlin College

Edward Schatz, chair, department of political science, University of Toronto Mississauga

Eric R. A. N. Smith, chair, department of political science, University of California, Santa Barbara

Andrea Talentino, dean, College of Liberal Arts, Norwich University; formerly Drew University

Holley Tankersley, chair, department of politics and geography, Coastal Carolina University

Steven Tauber, interim chair department of government and international affairs, University of South Florida

Rick Travis, interim associate dean, College of Arts and Sciences, Mississippi State University

Jeff VanDenBerg, chair, department of political science and geography, Drury University

NEW APPOINTMENTS

Rhonda Allen, professor, department of political science, California State University, Chico

Theodore Arapis, assistant professor, department of political science, Villanova University

Kathleen Arnn, assistant professor, School of Public Affairs, Morehead State University

Nicole Asmussen, assistant professor, department of political science, Oakland University

Laia Balcells, assistant professor, department of political science, Duke University

Quintin H. Beazer, assistant professor, department of political science, Florida State University

Curtis Bell, assistant professor, department of political science, University of Tennessee, Knoxville

Nathaniel Birkhead, assistant professor, department of political science, Kansas State University

Robert Brathwaite, assistant professor, department of political science, Northern Illinois University

- Daniel E. Bromberg, assistant professor, department of political science, University of New Hampshire; formerly Western Carolina University
- Edward M. Burmila, assistant professor, department of political science, Bradley University
- Sarah Bush, assistant professor, department of political science, Temple University
- Rosella Cappella, assistant professor, department of political science, Boston University
- Jangsup Choi, assistant professor, Texas A & M University, Commerce
- Christopher Jude Clark II, assistant professor, department of political science, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill
- Benjamin R. Cole, assistant professor, department of political science, Simmons College
- Loren Collingwood, assistant professor, department of political science, University of California, Riverside
- McKenzie Craig, assistant professor, department of political science, Marietta College
- Sara E. Dahill-Brown, assistant professor, department of political science, Wake Forest University
- Christian Davenport, professor, department of political science, University of Michigan; formerly University of Notre Dame
- Patrick J. Deneen, associate professor, department of political science, University of Notre Dame
- Jennifer M. Dixon, assistant professor, department of political science, Villanova University
- Amanda Driscoll, assistant professor, department of political science, Florida State University
- Joshua J. Dyck, associate professor and co-director, Center for Public Opinion, department of political science, University of Massachusetts, Lowell
- Margaret Edwards, assistant professor, department of political science, Truman State University
- M. Jude Egan, assistant professor, department of political science, California Polytechnic State University, San Luis Obispo
- Katherine Levine Einstein, assistant professor, department of political science, Boston University
- Benjamin Epstein, assistant professor, department of political science, DePaul University
- Jenna K. Emery, visiting professor, department of government, University of West Florida
- Michael Findley, assistant professor, department of government, The University of Texas, Austin
- Justin Fox, assistant professor, department of political science, Washington University, Saint Louis; formerly Yale University
- William Franco, assistant professor, department of political science, Auburn University
- Amanda Friesen, assistant professor, department of political science, Indiana University, Purdue University, Indianapolis
- Mark Gasirowski, professor, department of political science and international studies program, Louisiana State University
- Shamira M. Gelbman, assistant professor, department of political science, Wabash College; formerly Illinois State University
- Edward W. Gimbel, assistant professor, department of political science, University of Wisconsin, Whitewater
- Maria Agustina Giraudy, assistant professor, School of International Service, American University
- Greg Goelzhauser, assistant professor, department of political science, Utah State University
- Mario Guerrero, assistant professor, department of political science, California State Polytechnic University, Pomona
- Jennie Han, assistant professor, department of political science, Oswego State, SUNY
- Hans Hassell, assistant professor, department of political science, Cornell College
- Matthew J. Hayes, assistant professor, department of political science, Indiana University; effective January 2013
- Patrick Hickey, assistant professor, department of political science, West Virginia University
- Timothy Hildebrandt, lecturer in Chinese politics, Lau China Institute, King's College London
- Marcus Holmes, assistant professor, department of political science, Fordham University
- Ted Hopf, associate professor, department of political science, National University of Singapore; formerly Ohio State University
- Yusaku Horiuchi, Mitsui Chair for the Study of Japan and associate professor with tenure, department of government, Dartmouth College; formerly of Australia National University
- Sean Ingham, assistant professor, department of political science, University of Georgia
- Matthew C. Ingram, assistant professor, department of political science, SUNY, University at Albany
- Lucrecia Garcia Iommi, assistant professor, department of political science, Fairfield University
- Christian B. Jensen, assistant professor, department of political science, University of Nevada, Las Vegas
- Jesse C. Johnson, assistant professor, department of political science, Kansas State University
- Myung-koo Kang, assistant professor, department of political science, CUNY-Baruch College; formerly Claremont McKenna College
- Nam Kyu Kim, assistant professor, department of political science, University of Nebraska, Lincoln
- Alexander Kirshner, assistant professor, department of political science, Duke University
- Justin Kirkland, assistant professor, department of political science, University of Houston
- Gibbs Knotts, associate professor, department of political science, College of Charleston; formerly Western Carolina University
- Vladimir Kogan, assistant professor, department of political science, Ohio State University
- Sungjoo Kwak, assistant professor, department of political science, University of Alabama, Birmingham
- Carlton K. Larsen, assistant to president for institutional planning and effectiveness and associate professor, department of political science, Tusculum College; formerly Pennsylvania State University, Altoona
- Lesley Lavery, assistant professor, department of political science, Macalester College
- Anna O. Law, Herb Kurz Chair in Constitutional Rights and Civil Liberties, department of political science, CUNY-Brooklyn College

- Vanessa Lefler, assistant professor, department of political science, Middle Tennessee State University
- Justin Leinaweaver, assistant professor, department of political science and geography, Drury University
- Ashley E. Leinweber, assistant professor, department of political science, Missouri State University
- Jacob Leos-Urbel, assistant professor, department of politics and society, Claremont Graduate University
- Inés Levin, assistant professor, department of political science, University of Georgia
- Sarah P. Lockhart, assistant professor, department of political science, Fordham University
- Kristen E. Looney, assistant professor, department of government, Georgetown University
- Anthony C. Lopez, assistant professor, department of political science, Washington State University, Vancouver
- Pauline Jones Luong, professor, department of political science, University of Michigan
- Todd Makse, assistant professor, department of political science, Susquehanna University
- Edmund J. Malesky, associate professor, department of political science, Duke University
- Philip Marcin, college lecturer, department of political science, University of Akron
- Daniel Marien, lecturer, department of political science, University of Central Florida, Cocoa Campus
- Morgan Marietta, assistant professor, department of political science, University of Massachusetts, Lowell
- Allison M. Martens, assistant professor, department of political science, University of Northern Iowa; formerly University of Louisville
- Reo Matsuzaki, assistant professor, department of political science, Trinity College
- Frederick D. Mayhew, assistant professor, department of political science, James Madison University; formerly Northern Illinois University
- Erin S. McAdams, assistant professor, department of political science, Presbyterian College; formerly College of Charleston
- Gregory A. McBrayer, assistant professor, School of Public Affairs, Morehead State University
- Daniel McDowell, assistant professor, department of political science, Syracuse University
- Russell W. Mills, assistant professor, department of political science, Bowling Green State University
- Daniel J. Milton, assistant professor, department of political science, Arkansas State University
- Joshua Mitchell, assistant professor, department of political science, University of Arkansas, Fayetteville
- Cecelia Mo, assistant professor, department of political science, Vanderbilt University
- Shweta Moorthy, assistant professor, department of political science, Northern Illinois University
- Amanda Marie Murdie, assistant professor, department of political science, University of Missouri, Columbia; formerly Kansas State University
- Neil Narang, assistant professor, department of political science, University of California, Santa Barbara
- Mikel Norris, assistant professor, department of political science, Coastal Carolina University
- Andrea Olive, assistant professor, political science, University of Toronto, Mississauga
- Sam O. Opondo, assistant professor, department of political science, Vassar College
- Megan E. Osterbur, assistant professor, department of political science, Xavier University of Louisiana
- Douglas R. Oxley, assistant professor, department of political science, University of Wyoming
- Julianna Pacheco, assistant professor, department of political science, University of Iowa
- Carl L. Palmer, assistant professor, department of political science, Illinois State University
- Barbara Patrick, assistant professor, department of political science, Eastern Michigan University; formerly Mississippi State University
- Garrick L. Percival, assistant professor, department of political science, San Jose State University; formerly University of Minnesota, Duluth
- Ravi Kumar Perry, assistant professor, department of political science, Mississippi State University; formerly Clark University
- Zachary F. Peskowitz, assistant professor, department of political science, Ohio State University
- Margaret E. Peters, assistant professor, department of political science, University of Wisconsin, Madison
- John L. Phillips, assistant professor, department of political science, Austin Peay State University
- Jan Pierskalla, postdoctoral fellow, German Institute for Global and Area Studies for 2012-13, assistant professor, department of political science, Ohio State University; effective fall 2013
- Michael Callaghan Pisapia, assistant professor, department of political science, Wake Forest University
- Paul J. Pope, assistant professor, sociology, political science, and Native American studies, Montana State University, Billings
- Shawn L. Ramirez, assistant professor, department of political science, Emory University
- Malini Ranganathan, assistant professor, School of International Service, American University
- Jonathan Renshon, postdoctoral fellow, department of defense analysis, Naval Postgraduate School for 2012-13; assistant professor, department of political science, University of Wisconsin, Madison; effective fall 2013
- Kimberly J. Rice, assistant professor, department of political science, Western Illinois University
- Norrin M. Ripsman, professor, department of political science, Northern Illinois University
- Jon C. Rogowski, assistant professor, department of political science, Washington University, Saint Louis
- Andrew C. Rudalevige, Thomas Brackett Reed Professor of Government, department of government, Bowdoin College; formerly Dickinson College
- Christine Ledvinka Rush, assistant professor, department of political science and public administration, Mississippi State University
- Jeremiah H. Russell, assistant professor, department of political science and public administration, Jacksonville State University
- Ryan Salzman, assistant professor, department of political science and criminal justice, Northern Kentucky University

- Daniel Schueftan, Aaron and Cecile Goldman Visiting Israeli Professor, department of government, Georgetown University
- S. Adam Seagrave, assistant professor, department of political science, Northern Illinois University
- Jaime E. Settle, assistant professor, department of government, College of William and Mary
- Dong Chul Shim, assistant professor, department of political science, San Jose State University
- Erica S. Simmons, assistant professor, department of political science, University of Wisconsin, Madison
- James D. Slack, professor, Robertson School of Government, Regent University; formerly University of Alabama at Birmingham
- Amy Erica Smith, assistant professor, department of political science, Iowa State University
- Steven Rathgeb Smith, Louis A. Bantle Chair in Business and Government Policy, Maxwell School of Citizenship, Syracuse University
- Kyong-Min Son, assistant professor, department of political science and international relations, University of Delaware
- Geoboo Song, assistant professor, department of political science, University of Arkansas, Fayetteville
- Patricia Stapleton, lecturer, department of political science, University of New Hampshire
- Alison K. Staudinger, assistant professor, democracy and justice studies, University of Wisconsin, Green Bay
- Bethany Stich, assistant professor, department of political science, University of New Orleans; formerly Mississippi State University
- Ben Tafoya, assistant professor, department of political science, New England College
- Cole D. Taratoot, assistant professor, department of political science, University of Alabama, Birmingham
- Jennifer A. Taylor, assistant professor, department of political science, James Madison University
- Erica Townsend-Bell, assistant professor, department of political science, Oklahoma State University
- Jessica N. Trisko, assistant professor, department of political science, University of Western Ontario
- Carrie Booth Walling, assistant professor, department of political science, Albion College
- Hongying Wang, associate professor, department of political science, University of Waterloo; formerly Syracuse University
- Emily O. Wanless, assistant professor, department of political science, Augustana College
- Andrew Wedeman, associate professor, department of political science, Georgia State University; formerly University of Nebraska, Lincoln
- Jessica Lea Weeks, assistant professor, department of political science, University of Wisconsin, Madison; effective fall 2013; formerly Cornell University
- Jennifer Wilking, assistant professor, department of political science, California State University, Chico
- Abigail Fisher Williamson, assistant professor, department of political science, Trinity College
- Evren Celik Wiltse, assistant professor, department of history and political science, South Dakota State University
- Matthew D. Wright, assistant professor, Torrey Honors Institute, Biola University.
- Thorin Martin Wright, assistant professor, department of political science, Arizona State University
- Ping Xu, assistant professor, department of political science, University of Rhode Island
- Christina Xydias, assistant professor, department of political science, Clarkson University; formerly Susquehanna University
- Staci M. Zavattaro, assistant professor, department of political science and public administration, Mississippi State University
- Zhenqing Zhang, assistant professor, department of political science, Hamline University
- Jeffrey A. Becker, associate professor, department of political science, University of the Pacific
- Heidi M. Berggren, associate professor, department of political science, University of Massachusetts, Dartmouth
- Ethan M. Bernick, associate professor, department of political science, Kansas State University
- Joan M. Blauwkamp, professor, department of political science, University of Nebraska, Kearney
- Christopher P. Borick, professor, department of political science, Muhlenberg College
- Tim Bütthe, associate professor with tenure, department of political science, Duke University
- Amy L. Cavender, associate professor, department of political science, Saint Mary's College
- Terry Chapman, associate professor, department of government, University of Texas, Austin
- Giacomo Chiozza, associate professor with tenure, department of political science, Vanderbilt University
- Todd A. Collins, associate professor, department of political science, Western Carolina University
- Michele E. Commercio, associate professor, department of political science, University of Vermont
- Rose Corrigan, associate professor, department of history and politics and Earle Mack School of Law, Drexel University
- Michael J. Coyle, associate professor with tenure, department of political science, California State University, Chico
- Aurelian Craiutu, professor department of political science, Indiana University
- Michael Crespin, associate professor, department of political science, University of Georgia
- Brian F. Crisp, professor, department of political science, Washington University, St. Louis
- Rachel DeMotts, associate professor, department of politics and government, University of Puget Sound
- Robert A. Denemark, professor, department of political science and international relations, University of Delaware
- Neil Devotta, associate professor, department of political science, Wake Forest University
- David A. Dulio, professor, department of political science, Oakland University

PROMOTIONS

- Shelly R. Arsneault, professor, department of politics, administration and justice, California State University, Fullerton
- Joseph Bafumi, Jr., associate professor, department of government, Dartmouth College
- Navin A. Bapat, associate professor, department of political science, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill

- Todd A. Eisenstadt, professor, department of government, American University
- Gerald Andrews Emison, professor, department of political science and public administration, Mississippi State University
- Rodolfo Espino, III, associate professor, department of political science, Arizona State University
- Jan L. Feldman, professor, department of political science, University of Vermont
- Christopher J. Fettweis, associate professor, department of political science, Tulane University
- Jeffrey A. Fine, associate professor, department of political science, Clemson University
- Amy L. Freedman, professor department of political science, Long Island University, CW Post
- Teena Gabrielson, associate professor with tenure, department of political science, University of Wyoming
- Denise Garcia, associate professor, department of political science, Northeastern University
- Rogelio Garcia-Contreras, associate professor, Center for International Studies, University of Saint Thomas
- Anthony Gierzynski, professor, department of political science, University of Vermont
- Amy D. Gossett, associate professor, department of history, political science, and philosophy, Lincoln University
- Michael W. Hail, professor, School of Public Affairs, Morehead State University
- Rebecca J. Hannagan, associate professor, department of political science, Northern Illinois University
- Andrea C. Hatcher, associate professor, department of political science, University of the South
- Timothy Hellwig, associate professor, department of political science, Indiana University
- Erik S. Herron, professor, department of political science, University of Kansas
- Tom Hoffman, associate professor, department of social sciences, Spring Hill College
- Lise Morjé Howard, associate professor, department of government, Georgetown University
- Melinda S. Jackson, associate professor, department of political science, San Jose State University
- Patrick Thaddeus Jackson, professor, and associate dean for undergraduate education, School of International Service, American University
- Robin D. Jacobson, associate professor, department of politics and government, University of Puget Sound
- Matthew Jarvis, associate professor, department of politics, administration and justice, California State University, Fullerton
- Neovi M. Karakatsanis, professor, department of political science, Indiana University, South Bend
- Myunghee Kim, associate professor, department of political science, University of Central Florida
- Carl E. Klarner, associate professor, department of political science, Indiana State University
- Douglas L. Kriner, associate professor, department of political science, Boston University
- Brian S. Krueger, professor, department of political science, University of Rhode Island
- Jonathan McDonald Ladd, associate professor, department of government, Georgetown University
- Andrew Latham, professor, department of political science, Macalester College
- Kathryn C. Lavelle, professor, department of political science, Case Western Reserve University
- David Lazer, professor, department of political science, Northeastern University
- Anika Cornelia Leithner, associate professor with tenure, department of political science, California Polytechnic State University
- Jennifer M. Lind, associate professor, department of government, Dartmouth College
- Zihua David Liu, associate professor, department of political science, Presbyterian College
- Jinee Lokaneeta, associate professor, department of political science, Drew University
- Allyson Lowe, associate professor, department of political science, Carlow University
- Clarence Lusane, professor, School of International Service, American University
- Jason A. MacDonald, associate professor, department of political science, West Virginia University
- Satoshi Machida, associate professor, department of political science, University of Nebraska, Kearney
- Gary Lee Malecha, professor, department of political science, University of Portland
- Mary Fran T. Malone, associate professor, department of political science, University of New Hampshire
- Kenneth L. Manning, professor, department of political science, University of Massachusetts, Dartmouth
- Pamela Martin, associate professor, department of political science, Coastal Carolina University
- Kevin J. McMahon, professor, department of political science, Trinity College (CT)
- Philip A. Michelbach, associate professor, department of political science, West Virginia University
- Jennifer Mitzen, associate professor with tenure, department of political science, Ohio State University
- Joanna Mosser, associate professor, department of political science, Drake University
- Rani D. Mullen, associate professor, department of government, College of William & Mary
- Michael Neblo, associate professor with tenure, department of political science, Ohio State University
- Candace Nelson, professor, department of government, American University
- Amy Oakes, associate professor, department of government, College of William & Mary
- Mariya Y. Omelicheva, associate professor, department of political science, University of Kansas
- Tracy Osborn, associate professor, department of political science, University of Iowa
- Binnur Ozkececi-Taner, associate professor, department of political science, Hamline University
- Joshua Ozymy, associate professor, department of social sciences, Texas A & M University, Corpus Christi
- Catherine Paden, associate professor, department of political science, Simmons College
- Ryan Patten, associate professor with tenure, department of political science, California State University, Chico
- Victor A. Peskin, associate professor, department of political science, Arizona State University
- David A. M. Peterson, professor, department of political science, Iowa State University

- Daniel E. Ponder, professor, department of political science and geography, Drury University
- Gabriel Popescu, associate professor, department of political science, Indiana University, South Bend
- Dasha Radin, associate professor, department of political science and public administration, Mississippi State University
- Jacqueline C. Reich, associate professor, department of history and political science at Chestnut Hill College
- Catherine C. Reese, professor, department of political science, Arkansas State University
- William Reno, professor, department of political science, Northwestern University
- Ali Riaz, University Professor, department of politics and government, Illinois State University
- Brian D. Roberts, professor, department of political science, Principia College
- Lawrence Saez, professor, department of politics, School of Oriental and African Studies (SOAS), University of London
- Josephine Gatti Schafer, assistant professor, department of political science, Kansas State University
- Scot Schraufnagel, associate professor, department of political science, Northern Illinois University
- Lisa Boswell Sharlach, associate professor, department of political science, University of Alabama, Birmingham
- Alexei Shevchenko, associate professor, department of politics, administration, and justice, California State University, Fullerton
- Oxana Shevel, associate professor, department of political science, Tufts University
- Jonathan Slapin, associate professor with tenure, department of political science, University of Houston
- Mitchel A. Sollenberger, associate professor, department of social science, University of Michigan, Dearborn
- Jeannie L. Sowers, associate professor, department of political science, University of New Hampshire
- Stephen J. Stambough, professor, department of politics, administration and justice, California State University, Fullerton
- Dragan Stanisevski, associate professor, department of political science and public administration, Mississippi State University
- Atiya Kai Stokes-Brow, associate professor, department of political science, Bucknell University
- Heather Stoll, assistant professor, department of political science, University of California, Santa Barbara
- Zeynep Taydas, associate professor, department of political science, Clemson University
- Erin N. Taylor, associate professor, department of political science, Western Illinois University
- Dale E. Thomson, associate professor, department of social science, University of Michigan, Dearborn
- Rick L. Travis, professor, department of political science and public administration, Mississippi State University
- Robert B. Urbatsch, associate professor, department of political science, Iowa State University
- Mark D. Ungar, professor, department of political science, CUNY-Brooklyn College
- Catherine Warrick, associate professor, department of political science, Villanova University
- Catherine E. Wilson, associate professor, department of political science, Villanova University
- Jeffrey Winters, professor, department of political science, Northwestern University
- David S. Yamanishi, professor, department of politics, Cornell College

RETIREMENTS

- Larry Arnhart, professor, department of political science, Northern Illinois University
- Lawrence Baum, professor, department of political science, Ohio State University
- Paul Allen Beck, professor, department of political science, Ohio State University
- Sally Avery Bermanzohn, professor, department of political science, CUNY-Brooklyn College
- Barbara C. Burrell, professor, department of political science, Northern Illinois University
- Edouard Bustin, professor, department of political science, Boston University
- Terry Christensen, professor, department of political science, San Jose State University
- Walter Clemens, professor, department of political science, Boston University
- Richard T. Conboy, professor, department of political science, Lake Superior State University
- William R. Daniel, professor, department of government & politics, Humboldt State University
- Robert E. DiClerico, professor, department of political science, West Virginia University
- D. Elwood Dunn, Alfred Negley Professor of Political Science, department of political science, University of the South
- JeDon A. Emenhiser, professor, department of government and politics, Humboldt State University
- Tucker Gibson, professor, department of political science, Trinity University (TX)
- Leslie Friedman Goldstein, professor, department of political science and international relations, University of Delaware
- George W. Grayson, Class of 1938 Professor Emeritus, department of government, College of William & Mary
- Richard Gunther, professor, department of political science, Ohio State University
- Anne M. Hallum, professor, department of political science, Stetson University
- Carol Hardy-Fanta, professor, McCormack Graduate School of Policy Studies, University of Massachusetts, Boston
- Susan Hunter, associate professor, department of political science, West Virginia University
- John Higley, professor, department of government, The University of Texas, Austin
- Robert Jackson, professor, department of political science, Boston University
- Alfred G. Killilea, professor, department of political science, University of Rhode Island
- HeeMin Kim, professor, department of political science, Florida State University
- Richard Ned Lebow, professor, department of government, Dartmouth College
- Paul Lermack, professor, department of political science, Bradley University
- William Lyons, professor, department of political science, University of Tennessee
- Aruna N. Michie, professor, department of political science, University of Tennessee

Marian Lief Palley, professor, department of political science and international relations, University of Delaware

David Scott Palmer, professor, department of political science, Boston University

John Petersen, professor, department of political science, Western Kentucky University

Patrick Plumlee, associate professor, department of political science, University of North Florida

Phyllis Farley Rippey, professor, department of political science, Western Illinois University

Goldie Shabad, professor, department of political science, Ohio State University

Mark Silverstein, professor, department of political science, Boston University

Otis H. Stephens, professor, department of political science, Kansas State University

Mary Ann Reed Tetreault, Una Chapman Cox Distinguished Professor, department of political science, Trinity University (TX)

Gordon J. Tolle, professor, department of history and political science, South Dakota State University

Michael A. Unger, associate professor, department of political science, Ramapo College of New Jersey

Richard F. Winters, professor, department of government, Dartmouth College

John Witte, professor, department of political science, University of Wisconsin, Madison

VISITING

Jack L. Amoureux, visiting professor, department of political science, Wake Forest University

Andrew J. Bloeser, visiting assistant professor, department of political science, Northern Illinois University

Ryan Burge, visiting professor, department of political science, Eastern Illinois University

James D. Buthman, visiting professor, department of political science, Stetson University

Cyril Ghosh, visiting professor, department of political science, Wagner College

John Wagner Givens, postdoctoral fellow, Center for Asian Democracy, University of Louisville

Gary Hollibaugh, postdoctoral scholar, Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions, Vanderbilt University

Saul Jackman, postdoctoral scholar, Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions, Vanderbilt University

Fred Lee, visiting professor, department of political science and fellow, Center for Faculty Diversity, Denison University

Mark Major, visiting instructor, department of political science, Case Western Reserve University

Luis F. Mantilla, visiting assistant professor, department of government, Georgetown University

Kate T. Martin, visiting professor, department of political science, St. Mary's College of Maryland

Josh Murray, postdoctoral scholar, Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions, Vanderbilt University

Sarah E. Niebler, postdoctoral scholar, Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions, Vanderbilt University

Meredith-Joy Petersheim, visiting professor, department of political science, Clemson University

Matthew CJ Rudolph, visiting assistant professor, department of government, Georgetown University

Peter Sandby-Thomas, visiting professor, department of political science, University of Massachusetts, Dartmouth

Shan Sappleton, visiting professor, department of political science, St. Mary's College of Maryland

Drew Seib, visiting professor, department of political science, Murray State University

Bann Seng Tan, visiting professor, department of government, College of William & Mary

Adam W. Ziegfeld, visiting assistant professor, department of government, Georgetown University

AWARDS

Paul F. Diehl, Henning Larsen Professor of political science, University of Illinois and, Daniel Druckman, professor of public and international affairs, George Mason University, won the International Association of Conflict Management's 2012 Outstanding Book Award for their book Evaluating Peace Operations.

Liesbet Hooghe, professor, department of political science, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill named the W.R. Kenan Jr. Distinguished Professor of Political Science

Konstantinos Kourtikakis, lecturer, department of political science, University of Illinois, and Ekaterina Turkina, assistant professor, department of international business, HEC Montréal European Community Studies Association-Canada Biennial Conference Best EU Governance Paper award for "Inter-Organizational Networks in the EU's External Relations with the Mediterranean and Post-Soviet States"

Fabrice Lehoucq, associate professor, department of political science, University of North Carolina, Greensboro, residential fellowship at the Helen Kellogg Institute for International Affairs, University of Notre Dame

Cameron G. Thies, professor, department of political science, University of Iowa, named the Harlan E. McGregor Faculty Fellow

Matthew Winters, assistant professor, department of political science, University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, named an Edmond J. Safra Network Fellow by Harvard University's Safra Center for Ethics in connection with his study of institutional corruption and citizen's attitudes toward corrupt political leaders ■