Germany from Napoleon to Bismarck 1800–1866

Thomas Nipperdey

Translated by Daniel Nolan

In this important book, widely praised in its German edition, Thomas Nipperdey offers readers insights into the history and the culture of German nationalism, bringing to light much-needed information on the immediate prenational period of transition. The beginnings of German nationalism here receive a thorough-going exploration, from the dissolution of the Holy Roman Empire to Bismarck's division of the German-speaking world into three parts: an enlarged Prussian state north of the Main, an isolated Austria-Hungary in the south, and a group of Catholic states in between. This altering of power structures, Nipperdey maintains, was the crucial action on which the future of the German state hinged.

Praise for the German edition:

"Nipperdey has produced a history of German unification for the 1980s and 1990s and, one suspects, beyond. . . . Essential reading."—The Times Literary Supplement

Freud, Race, and Gender

Sander L. Gilman

"Gilman synthesizes the work of psychoanalysts, Freud biographers, literary critics, and historians to provide this impressive new reading of the meanings of 'race' and 'gender' in Freud's time. With admirable scholarship, the author tackles numerous assumptions about the manner in which Freud's Jewish male identity shaped his scientific stance in and against antisemitic culture. . . ."

—Choice

"This book contains astonishing morsels of European cultural and medical history, the sort of thing you find yourself reading aloud over the breakfast table on a Sunday morning."—The Boston Book Review

Austria in the Age of the French Revolution, 1789-1815

Edited by Kinley Brauer and William E. Wright

Contains twelve papers presented at the Center's annual symposium, May 1989. The essays examine the development of Austrian diplomacy, warfare, society, and culture in the period and the impact of the Enlightenment and French Revolution on Austrian art, literature, music, drama, and journalism. Includes such essays as: "The Call to Revolution in the Boudoir: A New Look at Mozart's Susanna in The Marriage of Figaro" by Doris P. Tishkoff, "Antonio Canova and Austrian Art Policy" by Christopher M. S. Johns, and "Female Self-determination in the Early Dramas of Franz von Weissenthurn" by George W. Reinhardt, as well as historical essays by Ernst Wangermann, Karl A. Roeder, Jr., and Alan J. Reinerman.

Austria Since 1945

Edited by William E. Wright

This volume contains the papers presented at the first annual symposium hosted by the Center in May 1977. They deal with political, economic, and cultural developments in the Second Republic of Austria. The main theme is the stark contrast between Austria's ill-fated evolution after 1919 and her political stability and rapid growth after World War II. Includes articles by William Johnston, Fritz Fellner, Helga Leitner, and Egon Schwarz.

150 + viii pages. 1982.

Working Papers in Austrian Studies

The Center for Austrian Studies serves scholars who study the politics, society, economy, and culture of modern Austria and of Habsburg Central Europe. It encourages comparative studies involving Austria or the Habsburg lands and other European states. The working paper series seeks to stimulate discussion in the field and to provide a vehicle for circulating work in progress. It is open to all papers prior to final publication, but gives priority to papers by affiliates of the Center or by scholars who have given seminars or attended conferences at the Center.

If you would like to have a paper considered for inclusion in the series, please contact David Good at the Center for Austrian Studies.
