American Government Third Edition

Alan R. Gitelson, Loyola University of Chicago
Robert L. Dudley, George Mason University
Melvin J. Dubnick, Rutgers University, Newark

With American Government, students get more than a clear, concise presentation of the essential facts—Gitelson, Dudley, and Dubnick's unique myth/reality framework helps them form their own opinions about the issues at the heart of government and politics today.

The Challenge of Democracy: Government in America Third Edition

Kenneth Janda, Northwestern University
Jeffrey M. Berry, Tufts University
Jerry Goldman, Northwestern University

Freedom, order, or equality?

Pluralist or majoritarian democracy?

By viewing American government in terms of these two themes, the best-selling Janda/Berry/Goldman text gives coherence and relevance to the facts of government. Look to the new Election Printing for the latest in election outcomes and Supreme Court appointments and decisions, as well as the outstanding support package you expect from Janda, Berry, and Goldman, including interactive software programs developed by the authors.

★ELECTION PRINTING

State and Local Government Second Edition

Ann O'M. Bowman, University of South Carolina
Richard C. Kearney, University of Connecticut

State and local governments are expected to do more for their citizens every day with less help from the federal government. With an up-to-date policy focus, this text reflects the way changing expectations have affected institutions, political behavior, and policies.

Practicing Texas Politics A Brief Survey

Eugene W. Jones, Angelo State University
Joe E. Ericson, Stephen F. Austin State University
Lyle C. Brown, Baylor University
Robert S. Trotter, Jr., El Centro College of the Dallas County Community College District
Eileen M. Lynch, Brookhaven College of the Dallas County Community College District

Keeping up with Texas politics is a challenge, particularly for beginning students. Administrations change, different players emerge, and new issues arise — and only one author team keeps making sense of it all: Jones, Ericson, Brown, Trotter, and Lynch. This brief edition, with the same text/reader format as the longer edition, contains updated coverage, including the 1992 campaign and elections.

Reasoned Freedom

John Locke and Enlightenment

PETER A. SCHOOLS

"A rare close reading of Locke's work on education, showing as well a thorough and sensitive understanding of Locke's thought on many important doctrines and issues. Schools offers a number of new interpretations of Locke on the nature of reason, rationality, the role of the passions, freedom, and learning. This study should take its place among the better books on Locke."—John W. Yolton, Rutgers University. $37.50 cloth, $13.95 paper

Rival Capitalists

International Competitiveness in the United States, Japan, and Western Europe

JEFFREY A. HART

Nowhere can the cataclysmic reversals in international competitiveness since the Second World War be traced more clearly than in the United States, Great Britain, France, Germany, and Japan. Surveying the development of the steel, automobile, and semiconductor industries in each of these countries, Hart illuminates the role of national policy in a rapidly changing world. Cornell Studies in Political Economy. $39.95 cloth, $16.95 paper

God's Peoples

Covenant and Land in South Africa, Israel, and Ulster

DONALD HARMAN AKENSON

"Superb scholarship and compelling writing."—Library Journal.

"Splendidly illuminating and enthrallingly readable."

—Conor Cruise O'Brien.

Asserting that the dominant peoples of South Africa, Northern Ireland, and Israel have based their cultural identity on a belief in a direct covenant or contract with an all-powerful God, Akenson vividly chronicles the profound effects of this conviction on each state's history. $29.95

House of Cards

Why Arms Control Must Fail

COLIN S. GRAY

"If peace breaks out, can arms control be far behind?"

According to Gray, this sardonic motto describes events of the 1990s just as well as it did those of the 1920s. Gray offers a provocative history of twentieth-century attempts at arms limitation, as he challenges the fundamental assumptions of arms control theory. Arms control has never worked, he concludes, because it never can. Cornell Studies in Security Affairs. $28.95

The Nature and Process of Law
An Introduction to Legal Philosophy

Edited by PATRICIA SMITH,
University of Kentucky, Lexington

Using the U.S. legal system as a model, this comprehensive anthology presents law as a process, part and parcel of a system of government and defined constitutional procedures. Offering relevant documents, court cases and short readings in history, law and philosophy, it establishes the basis of law in political theory, then presents substantive issues in private and public law.

Prosperity Versus Planning
How Government Stifles Economic Growth
 DAVID OSTERFELD, St. Joseph's College,
Washington, DC

"Lively and interesting. Osterfeld's political economy framework, his discussions of important issues such as corruption, property rights, the environment, and the legal context, and the attention he pays to the key variables in development—food, resources, and population—also distinguish this book from most of the others in the field."—Anil B. RETHINKING AIDS

The Tragic Cost of Premature Consensus

Robert Root-Bernstein,
Michigan State University

Since 1983 it has been held that HIV is the cause of AIDS. In this path-breaking book, Root-Bernstein reviews the entire existing body of AIDS research, and—focusing on a number of anomalies—challenges the HIV hypothesis, showing how the spread of AIDS has not followed the predictions of the HIV-only model, and how sometimes even HIV positive patients seem to have rid themselves of the virus. Debunking the conventional wisdom about AIDS, he refocuses attention on specific controllable factors that may determine, rather than increase our risk of AIDS. He also offers hope to those with HIV that they may yet survive infection.

THE CATHOLIC ETHIC AND THE SPIRIT OF CAPITALISM

Michael Novak,
American Enterprise Institute

Drawing on the works of modern Papal social thought, Novak demonstrates how the Catholic tradition has strengthened the meaning of contemporary capitalism. Novak shows how, in the face of a century’s conflict with communism, the Church has forged a new and fuller conception of free markets and commercial society as humane institutions. It is this ethically invigorated notion of capitalism that Novak sees as the greatest resource for the new and emerging nations of Eastern Europe and Russia, the Third World, and the spiritual restoration of civil institutions in the West.

Merchant Capital and the Roots of State Power in Senegal: 1930–1985

Catherine Boone

In most post-colonial regimes in sub-Saharan Africa, state power has been used to structure economic production in ways that have tended to produce economic stagnation rather than growth. In this book, Catherine Boone examines the ways in which the exercise of state power has inhibited economic growth, focusing on the case of Senegal.

Social Choice

A Framework for Collective Decisions and Individual Judgements

John Craven

This textbook provides a survey of the literature of social choice. It integrates the ethical aspects of the subject (discussing potentially desirable conditions for social judgments), with positive aspects of decision mechanisms that center on the revelation of true preferences. The book draws together the work of a great many papers in a common notation, pointing out interrelations that are often missing in specialist papers.

Institutions and Social Conflict

Jack Knight

Many of the fundamental questions in social science entail an examination of the role played by social institutions. Why do we have so many social institutions? Why do they take one form in one society and quite different ones in others? In what ways do these institutions originally develop? And when and why do they change. Institutions and Social Conflict addresses these questions.

Adam Michnik

Edited, translated, and with an Introduction by David Ost

Years in advance of the collapse of communism in Eastern Europe, Poland underwent one of the most radical and painful social and political upheavals of our century. In The Church and the Left, Michnik gives full expression to the ideas that have shaped the drama of Poland and of our time.

"Michnik is one of those who bring honor to the last two decades of the twentieth century."—Nobel laureate Czeslaw Milosz

The Politics of Truth

FROM MARX TO FOUCAULT

Michèle Barrett

In this book, about the dramatic eclipse of one of Marxism's major theoretical and political weapons, the theory of ideology, the author shows how the problems of ideology are symptomatic of the difficulties now besetting the Marxist tradition of thought. 208 pp. Cloth, $37.50; paper, $12.95

Arms Control by Committee

MANAGING NEGOTIATIONS WITH THE RUSSIANS

George Bunn

Written by a participant in many of the negotiations, this book is essentially a series of case studies of U.S.-Soviet nuclear arms control negotiations. It also looks to the future: What changes will occur in the arms control process given the end of the Cold War? 360 pp. $39.50

CONSTITUTIONAL GOVERNMENTS

AMONG THE CHEROKEE, THE CHOCTAW, THE CHICKASAW, AND THE CREEK

Duane Champagne

This book analyzes the conditions in which democratic governments are formed and become stable through examining in detail the history of four American Indian societies, in the process documenting a general theory of politics and constitutional government. 368 pp. $45.00

Ronald Dworkin

Stephen Guest

A lucid and comprehensive introduction to, and critical assessment of, Dworkin's seminal contributions to legal and political philosophy, this book aims to make his theories clear and accessible and to give a sympathetic yet rigorously argued overall picture of his thinking. 320 pp. Cloth, $42.50; paper, $14.95

Democratic Values and Technological Choices

Stuart Hill

The author develops and tests (in the controversy over the Diablo Canyon nuclear power plant) a model of citizen assessment that directly challenges current methods of policy analysis and public participation in making decisions on complex technologies such as dams and nuclear power plants. 300 pp. $37.50

Letting the People Decide

THE DYNAMICS OF A CANADIAN ELECTION

Richard Johnston, André Blais, Henry Brady, and Jean Crête

This innovative study explores the dynamics of political campaigns in general by attempting to make sense of the specific events of the 1988 Canadian election campaign. It covers such topics as issues, strategy, speeches, debates, polls, advertising, and national and electoral history. 288 pp. Cloth, $37.50; paper, $12.95

The Politics of Trade in Latin American Development

Steven E. Sanderson

A unique attempt to integrate material from the literatures of international trade, development, regional economic history, and resource management to describe the historical differences between Latin American nations and the industrialized world on the virtues of free trade. 368 pp. Cloth, $45.00; paper, $16.95

U.S.-Mexico Relations

LABOR MARKET INTERDEPENDENCE

Edited by Jorge A. Bustamante, Clark W. Reynolds, and Raúl A. Hinojosa Ojeda

The papers in this volume, the product of extensive collaboration between Mexican and U.S. scholars, describe the structures of labor markets in the United States and Mexico, the framework of U.S. immigration policy, and the probable future evolution of both. 368 pp. $52.50

The Dynamics of North American Trade and Investment

CANADA, MEXICO, AND THE UNITED STATES

Edited by Clark W. Reynolds, Leonard Waverman and Gerardo Bueno

North American trade and economic relations are changing faster than anyone could have predicted even a few years ago. This wide-ranging book by scholars and policymakers from each of the three countries involved uses, for the first time, a trinational perspective to address the issues and problems posed by these changes, notably in regard to North American economic integration. 300 pp. $42.50

The Dynamics of Ethnic Competition and Conflict

Susan Olzak

Focusing on the period 1877-1914, this book puts forward and tests a new theory of ethnic conflict that sees competition by different ethnic groups for scarce jobs and other resources as the cause of higher rates of racial conflict and violence in late 19th- and early 20th-century American cities.

Technology and the Wealth of Nations

Edited by Nathan Rosenberg, Ralph Landau, and David C. Mowery

Most discussions of U.S. economic competitiveness focus on the creation of new technologies, but the abundant evidence presented in this book indicates that the key factors underpinning U.S. competitive weakness are concerned with the commercialization of technology. 400 pp. Cloth, $49.50; paper, $16.95

Bad Medicine

THE PRESCRIPTION DRUG INDUSTRY IN THE THIRD WORLD

Milton Silverman, Mia Lydecker, and Philip R. Lee

The authors show in great detail how local drug firms in the Third World have taken advantage of loose regulatory practices and unscrupulous behavior on the part of regional and national health care professionals to promote the sale of dangerous or worthless drugs. 360 pp. $29.95

Authoritarianism and the Crisis of the Argentine Political Economy

William C. Smith

This study of Argentina over the past 25 years confronts two questions: Why has Argentina, one of Latin America's wealthiest and most developed nations, failed so tragically to reconcile economic modernization and liberal democracy? Why have authoritarian regimes failed even more spectacularly than those led by civilians?

THE SOCIAL ORIGINS OF EGYPTIAN EXPANSIONISM During the Muhammad 'Ali Period Fred H. Lawson

Why do countries capture and occupy lands beyond their own borders? Focusing on Muhammad 'Ali Pasha and Egyptian expansionism after 1810, Lawson contends that domestic political conflicts directly determine foreign policy—not, as widely believed, the temperament of the leaders. The result is a groundwork for the study of expansionism.

THE POWER OF POLITICS, THE POLITICS OF POWER

IDEOLOGUES AND PRESIDENTS

From the New Deal to the Reagan
Revolution

Thomas S. Langston

How have ideologues—people drawn to politics by the force of ideas—influenced presidential administrations? For Thomas Langston, these “people of ideas” form a class of political actors distinct not only from pragmatic professional politicians but also from nonideological “experts,” with whom ideologues compete for power. Whether liberal or conservative, Langston argues, they are a creative yet destructive force in policymaking.

INTERNATIONAL COOPERATION AND PUBLIC GOODS

Opportunities for
the Western Alliance

Mark A. Boyer

“This book makes an important contribution to international relations theory. Boyer demonstrates that the theory of public goods, as applied to alliances, is weak, both logically and empirically. U.S. Foreign Policy toward Latin America and the Caribbean

Robert A. Pastor

In every generation the United States has been drawn into the Latin American whirlpool, where it becomes obsessed with small nations like Nicaragua and defiant dictators like Manuel Noriega. Has the end of the Cold War liberated the United States from the whirlpool of recurring interventions in Latin American politics?

“Robert Pastor has written yet another brilliant book on the U.S. and Latin America. Again, he interprets the future against the background of the past. His proposals for future policy are creative, imaginative and intellectually sound. This book is required reading for everyone concerned with U.S.-Latin American policy in the years ahead. He is right on target.”

Making Democracy Work

Civic Traditions in Modern Italy

Robert D. Putnam

With Robert Leonardi and Raffaella Y. Nanetti

Taking advantage of a unique experiment begun in 1970 when Italy created new governments for each of its regions, Robert Putnam and his collaborators spent two decades analyzing the efficacy of these governments in such fields as agriculture, housing, and health services. Their findings were surprising: regions that enjoy effective government in the 1990s have inherited a legacy of civic engagement that can be traced back to the early Middle Ages. Putnam and his colleagues draw broad lessons for democratic theory from their twenty-year journey through Italy.

“The word ‘classic’ needs to be used sparingly, and I do. This work by Robert Putnam and his colleagues will be a classic in political inquiry and political theory. By the rare opportunity of studying Italian regional experiments from birth, it widens out to explore the way institutions shape political behavior. And that exploration, beautifully and lucidly written, is used to analyze the enduring questions about the nature of representative government.”—Daniel Bell

A Phoenix in the Ashes

The Rise and Fall of the Koch Coalition in
New York City Politics
John Hull Mollenkopf

In the years following its near-bankruptcy in 1976 until the end of the 1980s, New York City came to epitomize the debt-driven, deal-oriented, economic boom of the Reagan era. John Mollenkopf explores why a city with a large minority population and a long tradition of liberalism elected a conservative mayor who promoted real estate development and belittled minority activists. Through a careful analysis of voting patterns, political strategies of various interest groups, and policy trends, he explains how Mayor Edward Koch created a powerful political coalition and why it ultimately failed.

Labor Visions and State Power

The Origins of Business Unionism in the United States
Victoria C. Hattam

Why has labor played a more limited role in national politics in the United States than it has in other advanced industrial societies? Victoria Hattam demonstrates that voluntarism, as the American labor policy was known, was the American Federation of Labor's strategic response to the distinctive structure of the American state.

In the three decades following the Civil War, when labor's legislative victories were continually eroded by the courts, the AFL developed a deep mistrust of politics and eventually devised other means of advancing workers' interests through the dual tactics of collective bargaining and industrial militance on the shop floor.

"Hattam approaches an important subject in an extremely interesting and provocative manner."

Regulating Labor

The State and Industrial Relations Reform in Postwar France
Chris Howell

In May and June of 1968 a dramatic wave of strikes paralyzed France, making industrial relations reform a key item on the government agenda. French trade unions seemed due for a golden age of growth and importance. Today, however, trade unions are weaker in France than in any other advanced capitalist country. How did such exceptional militancy give way to equally remarkable quiescence?

To answer this question, Chris Howell examines the reform projects of successive French governments toward trade unions and industrial relations during the postwar era, focusing in particular on the efforts of post-1968 conservative and socialist governments.

"This is an important and at times brilliant analysis—the first significant and comprehensive book on the French trade union movement in English since . . . the 1950s."—Martin Schain, New York University

Hegel's Political Philosophy

Interpreting the Practice of Legal Punishment
Mark Tunick

To scholars of Western intellectual history Hegel is one of the most important of all political thinkers, but politicians and other "down-to-earth" persons see his speculative philosophy as far removed from their immediate concerns. Put off by his difficult terminology, many believe that Hegel's idealism unduly legitimates the status quo. By examining his justification of legal punishment, this book introduces a Hegel quite different from these preconceptions: an acute critic of social practices. Mark Tunick draws on recently published but still untranslated lectures of Hegel's philosophy of right to take us to the core of Hegel's political thought.

"This lively and engaging book treats Hegel in a lucid, conversational way that has the desirable result of demystifying his often formidable jargon."—Steven B. Smith, Yale University

Enclaves of America

The Rhetoric of American Political Architecture Abroad, 1900-1965
Ron Robin

Whether determining the style of its embassies or the design of overseas cemeteries for Americans killed in battle, the U.S. government has greatly valued architectural symbols as a way of conveying its power abroad. In order to explain the political significance of American monuments on foreign soil, this illustrated book explores the efforts made by the United States from 1900 to 1965 to enhance its image as a military and economic force with displays of artistic achievement. Ron Robin also examines American political values during the radical change brought on by the growing entanglement of the United States in the affairs of other nations.

Of Kennedys and Kings

Making Sense of the Sixties

HARRIS WOFFORD
U.S. Senator, Pennsylvania
Introduction by Bill Moyers

“Unforgettable and chilling . . . Wofford delves into [the sixties]; pulling memories together with fresh evidence to wrest the logic from dark events. . . . The temptation is great to cite a hundred passages from this book; to demonstrate—rather than merely assert—that it makes sense of the sixties.”

—Eric Redman, The Washington Post

“Wofford is at his anecdotal best in this memoir of the New Frontier when he is writing about the fabled campaign or describing the Peace Corps. . . . The major events of the Kennedy Administration are chronicled in detail . . . and this makes the book particularly useful for anyone too young to remember Kennedy’s Presidency or too busy to have consumed any of the shelfful of JFK books that have already appeared.”

—Charles Kaiser, Newsweek

“Of Kennedys and Kings is a splendid navigational aid to the Kennedy era.”

—Alan L. Miller, Christian Science Monitor

Harris Wofford served in the Kennedy White House as Special Assistant to the President and chair of the subcabinet group on civil rights. While on the White House staff, he also helped Sargent Shriver form the Peace Corps and from 1962 to 1964 served in Ethiopia as the corps’ Special Representative to Africa. During the decade of struggle from Montgomery to Memphis, he was an advisor to Martin Luther King, Jr.

Wofford in 1966 became founding president of the State University of New York’s College at Old Westbury and was president of Bryn Mawr College from 1970 to 1978. In May 1991 he was appointed to fill the seat of the late Senator John Heinz and in November, when he defeated former Governor and U.S. Attorney General Dick Thornburgh, he became the first Democrat elected to the U.S. Senate from Pennsylvania since 1962.

No social scientist can afford to be without
THE MACMILLAN BOOK OF
Social Science
Quotations

WHO SAID WHAT, WHEN, AND WHERE

Edited by DAVID L. SILLS, Social Science Research Council, and ROBERT K. MERTON, Columbia University

Here, collected in one volume for the first time, are the essential quotations from anthropology, economics, history, law, philosophy, political science, psychiatry, psychology, sociology, and statistics, plus many quotations from education, literature, and the natural sciences.

Over 2,500 quotations from a wide range of social scientists and other scholars are included, alphabetically arranged by author. The original date and the exact source of each quotation are given. The volume includes an extensive bibliography and a comprehensive index.

Here's what social scientists are saying...

"Summum opus. A dazzling, momentous achievement... Everything important that has been said in the social sciences will be found here."

—Daniel Patrick Moynihan, U.S. Senator

"A treasure house of insight and wisdom, Social Science Quotations (SSQ) is also an altogether delightful book for browsing in the idle hours."

—Arthur Schlesinger, Jr.,
The City University of New York

"As an economic man, I cheer when SSQ comes out in paperback. Now both home and office can afford a copy. Just another illustration that demand is elastic with respect to price."

—Paul A. Samuelson,
Massachusetts Institute of Technology

"What better combination than to browse and be instructed at the same time. These are the joys of SSQ and its precise scholarship, unexampled in books of quotations."

—Daniel Bell, Harvard University

UNION AND LIBERTY: THE POLITICAL PHILOSOPHY OF JOHN C. CALHOUN

Edited by Ross M. Lence

"This is the finest collection in a single volume of Calhoun's important works enunciating all aspects of his political philosophy, a philosophy that profoundly influenced the course of American history. Calhoun's ideas continue to influence political discourse, and no doubt always will. All his major speeches are here. . . . Most important, all the selections are complete and unabridged. This is truly an editorial triumph." Robert V. Remini, Professor Emeritus, University of Illinois

This outstanding collection begins with Calhoun's two most significant works, the Disquisition and Discourse. They are followed by twelve other important speeches, letters, and political essays.

National Policies and the North American Auto Industry — edited by Maureen Appel Molot

The auto industry in North America is in serious trouble. The papers collected in the book examine this industry that is critical to the economies of the United States, Canada and Mexico at a time when the three countries are taking steps to be much more closely linked. As we prepare for the implementation of the North American Free Trade Agreement it is important to understand how past government policies in the three countries have promoted, protected and shaped the auto industry, and how the industry might respond to the NAFTA. THE PRICE OF PEACE
The Future of the Defense Industry and High Technology in a Post-Cold War World
 William H. Gregory

The end of the cold war, the dissolution of the Soviet Union, the wane of communism world-wide, and the quick victory in the Gulf have all led to calls for a smaller defense budget, reduced levels of military personnel, and fewer expensive high-tech weapons. The result of these cutbacks, Gregory argues, is not a peace dividend, but a further burden on the already shaky economy. Gregory explains the little-known and far-reaching effects of the defense cutbacks and calls for a new national technology policy that will ensure our military, technological, and economic survival.

THE INTERNATIONAL ARMS TRADE

Edward J. Laurance

The events of the past year in the Persian Gulf, which saw Iraq import enough armaments to defy the major powers, have brought the question of arms trading to the head of the international agenda. In the first book to address the arms trade in a truly global context, Laurance applies international relations theory to an issue at the heart of the contemporary state system—the transfer of military capability for the purpose of fortifying the national security of sovereign states. Laurance examines past patterns of arms transfer, and the influences of international factors on national policymakers, in order to show that the arms trade has gone far beyond the control of individual nation-states.

The Storming of Panama

Thomas Donnelly, Margaret Roth, and Caleb Baker

“This will not only be the standard work on our Panama intervention but on how the U.S. Army fights the ‘little wars’ that punctuate our times. It reads like a superb thriller...It belongs in the hands of our service academy students and those citizens who wish to gain a better understanding of what the men and women in uniform do to earn their pay.”

WHAT CAUSES WAR?

An Introduction to Theories of International Conflict

Greg Cashman

If one of the central goals of our time is the avoidance of war, then, as author Greg Cashman points out, one of the foremost challenges of our time is to understand its causes. In What Causes War?, Cashman provides students with a comprehensive examination of the theories of international conflict. He breaks them down into five categories, including those theories which seek to explain whether man is naturally warlike; small group-level theories which focus on political processes within states; theories which address national and international-level conflict; and, finally, theories which examine the world order itself and attempt to explain the big picture of global conflict.

THE U.S. ECONOMY DEMYSTIFIED

The Meaning of U.S. Business Statistics and What They Portend for the Future
 Third Edition

Albert T. Sommers with Lucie R. Blau, both of The Conference Board

“Every academic, business and government economist concerned with the course of the economy from month to month and year to year has learned to respect Al Sommers. He knows the numbers thoroughly and interprets them with perception and wisdom, based on his own understanding of the mechanisms at work, born of long experience. He tells stories with great clarity, grace, and humor—also with the humility becoming any economic pundit.”

THE SCIENTIFIC STUDY OF PEACE AND WAR

A Text Reader

John A. Vasquez and Marie T. Henehan

In this comprehensive overview, Vasquez and Henehan bring together the best scientific work on peace and war over the last twenty-five years—by leading scholars including Jack Levy, Bruce Bueno de Mesquita, Steven Rosen, Organski and Kugler, Ressler and Thompson, Randolph Siverson, and others. Together these pieces constitute an ample body of evidence illuminating the causes and consequences of war, and reflect the real progress that has been made towards a comprehensive explanation of war and peace.

“This book fills a significant void by providing a tangible guide to the scientific analysis of war as well as offering a basis for undergraduates to read and understand qualitative studies.”

THE PLACE OF MORALITY IN FOREIGN POLICY

Felix E. Oppenheim

Provides a thought-provoking examination of an all-too-often overlooked question central to any discussion of international relations and ethics: to what extent is morality relevant in foreign policy decisions? Written to challenge students and experts to explore in what instances morality and moral commitments really matter in international politics.

AMERICAN FEDERALISM Competition Among Governments

Thomas R. Dye,
Florida State University

According to Dye, a competitive federalism encourages rivalry among state and local governments. Arguing that “eighty thousand governments are better than one,” Dye explains why competitive government is better for the citizenry than a single, dangerously powerful, centralized government.

THE INTERNATIONALIZATION OF HUMAN RIGHTS

David P. Forsythe,
University of Nebraska

This fascinating exploration of the campaign on behalf of human rights since 1945 shows that this issue, once considered the province of states, has now become an integral part of international relations. Forsythe provocatively probes such hotly-debated questions as what constitutes a human right, whether international action for human rights is a form of cultural imperialism, and whether there can be international standards for human rights but variation among states in implementing them.

THE GLOBAL PHILOSOPHERS World Politics in Western Thought

Mark V. Kauppi and Paul R. Viotti

In this fresh reassessment of the intellectual sources of world politics, Kauppi and Viotti introduce readers to the work of many of those thinkers who, since classical antiquity, have influenced our understanding of international relations. Kauppi and Viotti reveal how writers from Thucydides to Weber framed the vital questions which still dominate the debate over global events.

DEATH IN THE BALANCE The Debate Over Capital Punishment

Donald D. Hook and Lothar Kahn

“Capital punishment, perhaps more than any other perennial issue of public argument, teaches intellectual humility. No matter which side of the issue you are on, if you do not feel the weakness of your position and see the strengths of the other side, you fully understand neither...if you doubt this is true, read this valuable volume. It is a fine guide to the broad gray areas of argument.”

Eric Voegelin and the Politics of Spiritual Revolt

The Roots of Modern Ideology

Michael Franz

In Eric Voegelin and the Politics of Spiritual Revolt, Franz provides the first sustained examination of Voegelin's contentions that the various and diverse ideologies of the modern age are rooted in a common pattern of consciousness. Based on painstaking research in a wide range of sources, the volume contains extensive notes that refer the reader to Voegelin's publications and also provides the most impressive bibliography of secondary works yet to appear in print. $27.50

Americanism

Revolutionary Order and Societal Self-Interpretation in the American Republic

Jürgen Gebhardt

Translated by Ruth Hein

Gebhardt's Americanism analyzes the origins of the American public philosophy. Through careful scrutiny of the writings of the Founding Fathers—and with a special emphasis on those of John Adams—Gebhardt studies the philosophical and Christian roots of the American ideas of republicanism and revolution. The keen and observant eye he casts on the structure of the American republic makes this a first-rate work.

POLITICS IN WESTERN EUROPE: United Kingdom, France, Germany, Italy, Sweden, and European Community

M. Donald Hancock, Vanderbilt University, et al.

"Excellent work! Up-to-date and analytical . . . a quality seldom found in a single text. I especially appreciate the detailed coverage of the Italian and Swedish politics which makes this book both unique and truly comparative."

THE POLITICS OF THE ADMINISTRATIVE PROCESS

James W. Fesler, Yale University, and Donald F. Kettl, University of Wisconsin-Madison

"An eclectic and valuable book that looks at public administration from a variety of explanatory perspectives. Readers will find that any one of the several chapters in this volume provides the best overview of the subject currently available."

Francis E. Rourke, The Johns Hopkins University

THE POSTMODERN PRESIDENT 2d ed.

Richard Rose, University of Strathclyde

"The Postmodern President offers much to students and teachers alike, much to ponder, much to argue with, much to reexamine in the light of a rapidly changing world. It is a very good book."

THE PRESIDENT AS INTERPRETER-IN-CHIEF

Mary E. Stuckey, University of Mississippi

"Stuckey's perceptive study of presidential rhetoric is essential reading for presidency watchers, media scholars, and everyone who cares about the quality of American politics."

Doris A. Graber, University of Illinois at Chicago

THE WORLD OF THE POLICY ANALYST

Robert A. Heineman, Alfred University, William T. Bluhm, University of Rochester, et al.

"A valuable contribution to a literature that ought to grow on how we can build bridges between scholarship and practice in public affairs."

Richard P. Nathan, SUNY at Albany
