OXFORD REPORTS ON INTERNATIONAL LAW

Oxford Reports on International Law (ORIL) brings together important decisions on public international law from international courts and tribunals, domestic courts and ad hoc tribunals. For the first time, the full scope of international case law is available in one place, accompanied by expert analysis and powerful navigation. New cases are added every two weeks, making this service the first stop for up-to-date information on international case law. In addition to offering extensive coverage and frequent updates, ORIL provides users with case reports featuring high-quality commentary and analysis collated and edited by a team of distinguished experts.

This service consists of five content modules defined by subject focus, available as standalone or multi-module subscriptions:

- Oxford Reports on International Law in Domestic Courts
- Oxford Reports on International Criminal Law
- Oxford Reports on International Human Rights Law
- Oxford Reports on International Investment Claims
- Oxford Reports on International Courts of General Jurisdiction (FREE access is included with a subscription to any Oxford Reports on International Law service)

Cyber Law and Cyber Security in Developing and Emerging Economies

Zeinab Karake Shalhoub and Sheikha Lubna Al Qasimi

This timely and important book illuminates the impact of cyber law on the growth and development of emerging and developing economies. Using a strong theoretical framework firmly grounded in resource-based and technology diffusion literature, the authors convey a subtle understanding of the ways public and private sector entities in developing and emerging countries adopt cyberspace processes.

Corruption and its Manifestation in the Persian Gulf

Hossein Askari, Scheherazade Sabina Rehman
and Noora Arfaa

There has been much attention in the popular media paid to corruption in the oil-exporting countries of the Persian Gulf. This book investigates various forms and measures of corruption, considers whether it is more acute in Gulf countries than elsewhere and outlines the special forms it takes in oil and natural gas rich economies. The authors also examine the major factors that promote corrupt practices, the impact on economic growth and social development and the controversial issues around the role of Islam.

Peace and Justice at the International Criminal Court

A Court of Last Resort

Errol P. Mendes

Scholars, students, civil society groups, government officials and those working with international justice organizations and tribunals will find in this book a unique analysis of the greatest challenge facing the International Criminal Court: a reconciliation of the demands for justice for the most serious crimes known to humanity with the promotion of sustainable peace in the conflict areas of the world. The author argues that the Court is a product of centuries of efforts to reconcile peace with justice, and the cases now before it are part of those ongoing efforts. He also discusses the need for greater international cooperation with the Court as well as other issues that threaten its work into the future.

Civil Forfeiture of Criminal Property

Legal Measures for Targeting the Proceeds of Crime

Edited by Simon N.M. Young

'Once called "the monster that ate jurisprudence" civil forfeiture is now an established weapon in the fight against organized crime, terrorism, drug trafficking and corruption. This fine collection of essays covering civil forfeiture regimes in ten diverse jurisdictions, written by leading practitioners, provides a comprehensive and detailed overview of the jurisprudential, legal, political and practical dimensions of the new generation of these powerful and controversial laws.'

Terrorism, Organised Crime and Corruption

Networks and Linkages

Edited by Leslie Holmes

'This book is multidisciplinary, as it contains contributions from criminology, politics and international relations scholars. It includes a wide variety of fascinating papers with a dominant focus on the conceptual broadening of security. This is a noteworthy research agenda which, hopefully, will be followed by many more scholars ... a very stimulating book which will attract the interest of a large audience in different disciplines. It deals with a variety of cases around the globe and contributes to a range of intellectual debates across several disciplines. Consequently, it should be read by many scholars.'

GEORGETOWN LAW

Georgetown Law offers one of the largest transnational legal education programs in the world. With an ideal location and a campus of major new buildings that include an international and comparative law library, Georgetown Law is one of the leading global law schools.

The array of courses dealing with transnational, international, and comparative law is extraordinarily comprehensive, numbering over 150. This curriculum is generated and sustained by over 110 full-time faculty members, more than 30 of whom are currently focused on transnational and international curriculum subjects. These full-time faculty members are joined by over 90 distinguished Washington, D.C. practitioners from inside and outside the government. In addition, faculty exchanges bring several foreign law professors to visit each year.

Additional Transnational Initiatives:

Center for Transnational Legal Studies: In Fall 2008, Georgetown inaugurated the new London-based Center for Transnational Legal Studies (CTLIS). Georgetown students study alongside classmates drawn from over a dozen select partner schools, located in almost as many countries around the globe. A truly transnational faculty, drawn from many of the same schools, offers a curriculum specifically designed for those students intent on transnational careers. With this diversity of perspectives, and no "host" school or jurisdiction, students have a unique, semester-long opportunity to study transnational legal topics in a truly transnational setting.

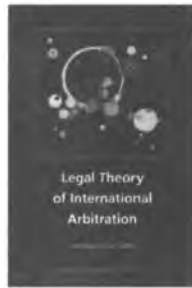

Semester Study Abroad: As an alternative to the Center for Transnational Legal Studies, J.D. students at Georgetown may choose to study abroad for a semester at one of a number of outstanding foreign law schools including: Universidad Torcuato di Tella in Buenos Aires, Argentina; Tsinghua University Law School in Beijing, China; Bucerius Law School in Hamburg, Germany; Hebrew University of Jerusalem in Israel; National Law School in Bangalore, India; the University of Leiden in The Netherlands; National University of Singapore Law School; and ESADE Law School in Barcelona, Spain.

Global Law Scholars: Georgetown created the Global Law Scholars Program in response to the changing nature of legal practice and in recognition of the Law Center's prominent positioning—both academic and geographic—with regard to many of the most important cross-border legal institutions. The program offers access to a special curriculum as well as invited speakers and networking opportunities. Participation is limited to a select group of students who have a demonstrated commitment to the international sphere and who are interested in a particularly intensive preparation for the increasingly global nature of law practice, in the United States and abroad.

For more information on Georgetown's vast array of International and Transnational programs, please see visit the Office of Transnational Programs website at www.law.georgetown.edu/otp.

Professor Cançado Trindade develops his Leitmotiv of identification of a corpus juris increasingly oriented to the fulfillment of the needs and aspirations of human beings, of peoples and of humankind as a whole. With the overcoming of the purely inter-State dimension of the discipline of the past, international legal personality has expanded, so as to encompass nowadays, besides States and international organizations, also peoples, individuals and humankind as subjects of International Law. The growing consciousness of the need to pursue universally-shared values has brought about a fundamental change in the outlook of International Law in the last decades, drawing closer attention to its foundations and, parallel to its formal sources, to its material source (the universal juridical conscience). This volume is an updated and revised version of the General Course on Public International Law given by the Author at the Hague Academy of International Law in 2005.

- Ocean Yearbook, 24

Devoted to assessing the state of ocean and coastal governance, knowledge, and management, the Ocean Yearbook provides information in one convenient resource. As in previous editions, articles provide multidisciplinary expert perspectives on contemporary issues. Each new volume draws on policy studies, international relations, international and comparative law, management, marine sciences, economics, and social sciences. Each volume contains key legal and policy instruments and an annually updated global directory of ocean-related organizations. The Yearbook is a collaborative initiative of the International Ocean Institute (www.ioinst.org) in Malta and the Marine & Environmental Law Institute (www.dal.ca/law/MELAW) at the Schulich School of Law, Dalhousie University, Halifax, Canada.

Promoting Sustainable Fisheries

The International Legal and Policy Framework to Combat Illegal, Unreported and Unregulated Fishing

- Legal Aspects of Sustainable Development, 6

Illegal, unreported and unregulated fishing, or IUU fishing, is considered one of the most significant threats to the sustainability of fisheries resources. Since the adoption of the International Plan of Action to Prevent, Deter and Eliminate Illegal, Unreported and Unregulated Fishing (IPOA-IUU), States and regional fisheries management organisations have made sustained efforts to address the problem. This book analyses the concept of IUU fishing and the international instruments which provide the legal and policy framework to combat IUU fishing. The book also examines the range of measures adopted by States and regional organisations to address IUU fishing. These measures include flag State, coastal State, port State, and market State measures.

law and global affairs

The Center for Law and Global Affairs at the Sandra Day O'Connor College of Law at Arizona State University seeks to teach and inspire research about new forms of transnational public-private governance that do not fit neatly into the old paradigms of public international law. To advance this vision, the Center sponsors courses, colloquia, conferences, collaborative research initiatives, and advocacy projects that emphasize not just the traditional materials of international law, but the complex webs of transnational and international law in practice, with an emphasis on qualitative empirical work and policy implementation on the ground.

Our extraordinary Center faculty includes:

Laura Dickinson

Justis

The International Law Reports

Online

It's a small world now.

For the first time ever the full archive of the International Law Reports is available in a fully searchable form online via the award-winning Justis platform. Features include:

- ▶ Cases in English from international and national courts worldwide
- ▶ Full coverage from 1919 to the most current rulings
- ▶ Full cross-linking and cross-referencing
- ▶ Advanced search capabilities

Covering all significant cases of public international law, the collection spans from the postwar Treaty of Versailles era to a cyberspace-influenced 21st century, featuring an enormously diverse range of topics along the way, including:

- ▶ International boundaries
- ▶ Numerous treaties between states
- ▶ Refugee law
- ▶ Terrorism
- ▶ State and diplomatic immunity
- ▶ War

The International Law Reports Online is a must for all practitioners and academics specialising in international law and is the only database in the world devoted to the regular and systematic reporting of decisions on points of international law from every relevant jurisdiction - international and national.

For more information on the International Law Reports Online, please visit www.justis.com/ILM0610 or email sales@justis.com

WASHINGTON AND LEE UNIVERSITY SCHOOL OF LAW TRANSNATIONAL LAW INSTITUTE

W&L's LL.M. in United States Law is a one-year program open to a small, highly selective group of foreign-trained lawyers and other graduates of non-U.S. law schools. The program leads to a Master of Law (LL.M.) in United States Law.

- All students receive training in U.S. legal research tools and techniques.
- All other course work for the LL.M. program is elective. Students take the same classes as those offered to those enrolled in the J.D. program, and they study those areas of law of greatest relevance and interest to them. The Washington and Lee curriculum offers a wealth of beginning and advanced courses in all major areas of study, including business and commercial law, taxation, public and private international law, environmental law, and criminal and civil litigation.
- For students with an interest in international law, comparative law, transnational law and trade law, W&L offers a number of great opportunities. Courses include theoretical research seminars, participation in academic journals (including the peer-reviewed German Law Journal), and experiential courses in Cambodia and Liberia.

Interested students should consult our website for additional information at law.wlu.edu/admissions or contact us at LLMAdm@wlu.edu.

Beyond the Traditional

At GW, our international and comparative law faculty is recognized for the breadth and depth of its experience. While we offer substantial expertise in the traditional aspects of the field, our reach extends well beyond the norm. Faculty members in other areas—including intellectual property law, government procurement, and national security law—routinely examine and influence international and foreign law in their teaching and scholarship.

World Constitutions Illustrated

Contemporary & Historical Documents & Resources

Contribute to the Project!

With HeinOnline's World Constitutions Illustrated, we are bringing together constitutional documents, books, periodicals, scholarly articles, online resources, bibliographies, secondary sources and more; all related to the constitutional development of the countries of the world.

We have created a platform for scholars to collaborate and contribute their own works to create this universal collection for the constitutional development of every country. If you have a book, document, or other work that you want to contribute to the project contact us at marketing@wshein.com.

This project is in it's infancy and will only grow! We have built the framework for the project and will continue adding constitutions, books, periodicals, documents, articles, and other resources to develop the constitutional history for every country.

New Journal

TRANSNATIONAL LEGAL THEORY

Craig Scott, Osgoode Hall Law School

This is a new journal that explores how transnational contexts and forces affect debates within existing traditions and schools of legal thought. It also challenges general theories about law to consider the relevance of transnational contexts and dimensions. It offers fresh understandings of public and private international law as well as comparative law.

The International Court of Justice and Self-Defence in International Law

James A Green

'...usefully draws together the jurisprudence of the International Court of Justice on the international law governing self-defence. The work could not be more timely in light of both contemporary State practice and the Court's recent controversial judgements on the topic.'

Professor Michael Schmitt, Chairman of the American Society of International Law's Lieber Society Book Prize Committee, Chair of Public International Law, Durham University

James A Green is a lecturer in law at the University of Reading.

Foreign Currency Claims in the Conflict of Laws

Vaughan Black

This book takes a comparative look at how common law courts have addressed damages claims when foreign currencies are involved, and at statutory responses to that issue. It describes the practices of UK, Commonwealth and American courts in this field and draws both on principles of private international law and of damages assessment to analyse current practice.

Vaughan Black is a Professor in the Schulich School of Law at Dalhousie University, Halifax, Canada.

The Democratic Legitimacy of International Law

Steven Wheatley

The objective of this work is to restate the requirements of democratic legitimacy in terms of the deliberative ideal developed by Jürgen Habermas, and apply the understanding to the systems of global governance.

Steven Wheatley is a Reader in International Law at the Law School at University of Leeds.
