

MECCA

A Literary History of the Muslim Holy Land
F. E. Peters

For the non-Muslim, Mecca is the most forbidden of Holy Cities—and yet, in many ways it is the best known. Muslim historians and geographers have studied it, and countless pilgrims and travelers have left behind lively and well-publicized accounts of life in Mecca and its associated shrine-city of Medina. The stories of all these figures, holy men and heathens alike, come together in this book to offer a remarkably revealing literary portrait of the city's traditions and urban life and of the surrounding area.

Closely following the publication of F. E. Peters's The Hajj, which describes the perilous pilgrimage itself from the travelers' perspectives, this collection of writings and commentary completes the historical travelogue.

THE HAJJ

The Muslim Pilgrimage to
Mecca and the Holy Places
F. E. Peters

Whatever its outcome—spiritual enrichment, cultural exchange, financial gain or ruin—the road to Mecca has long been an exhilarating human adventure. By collecting the first-hand accounts of travelers and shaping their experiences into a richly detailed narrative, F. E. Peters here provides an unparalleled literary history of the central ritual of Islam from its remote pre-Islamic origins to the end of the Hashimite Kingdom of the Hijaz in 1926.

Peters has enhanced his presentation with an abundance of rare nineteenth-century photographs of pilgrims and the Islamic Holy Places from the unique collection of the Harvard Semitic Museum, annotated by the curator, Dr. Carney Gavin.

CULTURES IN CONFLICT

Christians, Muslims, and Jews in the Age of Discovery

BERNARD LEWIS

One of the world's foremost historians of Islam examines three pivotal events of 1492—the defeat of the Muslims in Grenada, the expulsion of the Jews from Spain, and the discovery of the New World. With elegance and erudition, Lewis portrays these events as a clash of civilizations—a clash not only of the New World and the Old, but also of Christendom and Islam, of Europe and the rest of the globe—and he uses these events to illuminate the nature of the European-Islamic conflict. This far-reaching discussion of the encounters between Islam, the West, and the globe provides a new understanding of the distant events that gave shape to the modern world.

THE RIVERS OF EDEN

The Struggle for Water and the Quest for Peace in the Middle East

DANIEL HILLEL

"A fascinating account of the enormously complex water situation in the Middle East."

—H.E. Dregne

"Skillfully weaving together the insights of science, history, and ancient lore, Daniel Hillel convincingly demonstrates why peace, development, and environment are inextricably linked. This masterful study...is essential reading for policy makers."

—Steven C. Rockefeller

"Hillel reminds us of a critical natural resources problem in the Middle East that has serious political, economic, and environmental consequences.... Drawing on his own background experiences, and on an extensive discussion of the work of others, he not only reviews the background leading to the present difficulties, but offers sound advice as to what could and should be done to solve them."

Manufacturing in the Ottoman Empire
and Turkey,
1500-1950
Donald
Quataert, editor

This book provides the first comprehensive history of manufacturing in the Ottoman Empire and its Turkish successor state.

Suraiya Faroqhi, Mehmet Genç, Donald Quataert, and Çağlar Keyder, experts on different phases of the manufacturing trajectory, provide here exceptional case studies of manufacturing activities in their social and political contexts, integrating first-hand research with surveys of the literature. This work offers rich material for historians, economists, and other social scientists, including those interested in the origins of underdevelopment and development in the contemporary world.

"I found this book particularly interesting because it showed in a vivid, imaginative, and analytical way the internal workings of the Ottoman/Turkish economy and society, as it concerned manufacturing, and its interaction with and reaction to the West on the level not only of the state but also of the private entrepreneur."

NOMADS AND THE OUTSIDE WORLD

ANATOLY M. KHAZANOV

Translated by Julia Crookenden
Second Edition

With the author's new Introduction and an updated Bibliography

“Magisterial. . . . Combining a phenomenal erudition, a candid judgement, and a subtle sense of irony, Khazanov sets out to challenge the orthodox view of nomadic feudalism and, in the process, has produced the first comparative survey of pastoral societies that can claim to be truly comprehensive, covering their history in Eurasia, the Middle East, and Africa from the origins of pastoralism to the dawn of the modern era.”

—Tim Ingold, Current Anthropology

“Khazanov’s book on pastoral nomadism is a heroic endeavor of a kind no one has seriously attempted before. . . . The insights provided by this book are too numerous to list.”

—Caroline Humphrey,
Times Literary Supplement

“This is the best study on pastoral nomadism that [I have] ever read. At last we have a major attempt to present the whole phenomenon in historical, ecological, spatial and structural perspective. . . . Superb scholarship. It is the kind of work that can only be produced as a result of years of specific research, much deep thinking. . . and a determination to reject cant.”
