A RESTORATION OF THE MAUSOLEUM AT HALICARNASSUS.

By J. J. STEVENSON, F.S.A.

Mr. Stevenson argues that he restores, or reconciles all the written descriptions known, and finds plans for all the remains existing in the British Museum. It is therefore of the greatest interest to antiquaries and architects.

The Architect.—"Mr. Stevenson's attempt is very well argued and has, to our mind, the appearance of probability."

The Builder.—"The author manages to accommodate a larger number of recorded measurements than any other restorer of the Mausoleum."
