A Coherent Splendor

The American Poetic Renaissance 1910-1950

ALBERT GELPI

In this book Albert Gelpi traces the emergence of American Modernist poetry as a reaction to, and outgrowth of, the Romantic ideology of the nineteenth century. He focuses on the remarkable generation of poets who came to maturity in the years of the First World War and whose works constitute the principal body of poetic Modernism in English.

The American Abraham

James Fenimore Cooper and the Frontier Patriarch

WARREN MOTLEY

The Abraham figure in American Frontier literature is driven westward by the will to seize authority through establishing a new community. Warren Motley examines the recurrence of the Abraham figure in the works of James Fenimore Cooper, focusing on issues of patriarchy and authority in Cooper's fiction and in his own life, and on Cooper's dual view of himself as both son of an American patriarch and the 'father' of American fiction.

Re-making It New

Contemporary American Poetry and the Modernist Tradition

LYNN KELLER

This book explores how early twentieth-century modernist poetry has influenced contemporary American writers. It compares the work of four representative poets with the work of four influential modernists: John Ashbery is discussed in conjunction with Wallace Stevens, Elizabeth Bishop with Marianne Moore, Robert Creeley with William Carlos Williams and James Merrill with W. H. Auden.

Landscape and Written Expression in Revolutionary America

The World Turned Upside Down

ROBERT LAWSON-PEEBLES

A fresh interpretation of Revolutionary culture which suggests, through analysis of the writings of such writers as Crèvecoeur, Freneau, Brackenridge, Jefferson and Brockden Brown, that the inability of Revolutionary intellectuals to construct a culture that answered European criticisms in fact gave them a clearer awareness of American terrain, and that this awareness is a central theme of American culture.

Equivocal Endings in Classic American Novels

The Scarlet Letters, Adventures of Huckleberry Finn

The Ambassadors, The Great Gatsby

JOYCE A. ROWE

An original and unique study of four classic American novels. Each work discussed has a protagonist whose sense of identity is destroyed by his personal limitations and by the effect of society; but who, in refusing, to accept this, clings in the end to an ideal and transcendent image of selfhood.

Pieces of Resistance

Selected Essays

EUGENE GOODHEART

A collection of essays and reviews written in the period 1960-1985, which respond to the political, cultural and literary changes of that time, as expressed in the writings of certain influential critics, novelists and magazines. Professor Goodheart's exemplary figures are Lionel Trilling, Phillip Rahv and V. S. Naipaul among others, whom he believes share his resistance to those ideological tendencies which distort understanding of literary and cultural life.

Religious Diversity and Social Change:

American Cities, 1890-1906

KEVIN J. CHRISTIANO

An analysis of the effects on the American religious community of the powerful forces of social change in the form of mass immigration and urbanisation at the turn of the century. These changes forced the American Churches and their members to confront, for the first time, the issue of religious toleration and either to accept or repel a level of religious diversity unimagined by the architects of American liberty.

BUILDING DOMESTIC LIBERTY

Charlotte Perkins
Gilman's Architectural Feminism

Polly Wynn Allen

Gilman (1860-1935) was a noted feminist philosopher who lectured widely throughout Europe and the United States. She stressed the importance of the design of domestic architecture to gender relationships and campaigned for the development of shared kitchens and dining rooms run by trained personnel and other housekeeping facilities to help the working wife and mother. Allen examines Gilman's proposals for spatial design against the backdrop of Gilman's project of writing social ethics. Allen shows how Gilman's skill as a writer enabled her to convey in fiction ideas she considered too radical to express outright.

ALL THE RIGHT ENEMIES The Life and Murder of Carlo Tresca

Dorothy Gallagher

Carlo Tresca, an internationally known anarchist, died on January 11, 1943, shot by Carmine Galante, a paroled convict carrying out a contract murder.

This the first biography of Tresca recreates the energy and intensity of the life and times of this courageous, romantic man who was a folk hero in his own time.

Gallagher concludes this biography with an investigation into Tresca's murder, and an exploration into connections between Fascism, the Mafia, the O.S.S., Lucky Luciano and factional infighting in post war Italy.

NOTES FOR CONTRIBUTORS

- 1 All contributions and editorial correspondence should be sent to: The Editor, Journal of American Studies, School of English and American Studies, University of Sussex, Falmer, Brighton, BN1 9QN, England.
- 2 Articles should generally contain about 5,000 words. Longer or shorter articles, or articles in two or more parts, may be accepted by arrangement with the Editors.
- 3 Submission of an article is taken to imply that it has not previously been published, and is not being considered for publication elsewhere.
- 4 Contributions should be clearly typed in double spacing (including footnotes), preferably on A4 paper, with a wide left-hand margin. Diagrams, maps and illustrations may be included.
- 5 Spelling may conform either to British or American usage, providing it is consistent throughout.
- 6 Footnotes should be used sparingly: in general, to give sources of direct quotations, references to main authorities on disputable questions, and evidence relied on for a new or unusual conclusion. They should be numbered consecutively, and may most conveniently be placed, in double spacing, at the end of the article.
- 7 For guidance on matters of style, contributors should refer either to The Chicago Manual of Style (13th edition, 1982) or to the Journal of American Studies Style Notes, copies of which may be obtained from the Editors.
- 8 Contributors should keep one copy of the typescript for correcting proofs.
- 9 Notes intended for the Editors or Printer should be on a separate sheet.
- 10 First proofs may be read and corrected by contributors provided that they can give the Editor an address through which they can be reached without delay and can guarantee to return the corrected proofs to the Editor, by airmail where necessary, within three days of receiving them.
- 11 Corrections should be kept to an absolute minimum. They should be confined to errors of the typist or printer unless the Editor authorizes otherwise.
- 12 Contributors of articles and review essays receive 25 free offprints. Extra copies may be ordered according to a scale of charges.
- 13 Contributors need not be members of the British Association for American Studies. Unsolicited typescripts can only be returned to overseas contributors who send International Reply Coupons (not postage stamps).
- 14 Contributors of accepted articles will be asked to assign their copyright, on certain conditions, to Cambridge University Press, to help protect their material, particularly in the USA.

Books for review should be sent as follows: History, Political Science and Social Studies to Dr Michael Heale, Department of History, Furness College, University of Lancaster, Bailrigg, Lancaster LA1 4YG. Literature, the Fine Arts and other books to Professor Stephen Fender, School of English and American Studies, University of Sussex, Falmer, Brighton BN1 9QN.
