Globalisation and Natural Resources Law

Challenges, Key Issues and Perspectives

Elena Blanco and Jona Razzaque, University of the West of England, UK

'This book is a very welcome addition to publications on globalisation and natural resources management. It adopts a very broad approach to this important subject-it includes the general issues, such as trade and investment. It deals with very complex questions of permanent sovereignty over natural resources; the right to development; the role of indigenous peoples in resource management. This publication also provides the reader with general underlying principles and approaches to natural resources management, such as sustainable use; the precautionary principle; the principle of common but differentiated responsibilities and the ecosystem approach, regulatory approach etc. The book is very analytical and gives a lot of food for thought for readers.'

Disaster Law

Edited by Daniel A. Farber, University of California, Berkeley, US and Michael G. Faure, Maastricht University and Erasmus University Rotterdam, The Netherlands

'By bringing together these groundbreaking papers on legal issues of disasters, Farber and Faure construe a proper research domain of "disaster law". They convincingly juxtapose disaster prevention, mitigation, response, compensation and insurance. As a result, the editors show the intricate relationship between legal issues that were usually left isolated in the past.'

Reconciling Trade and Climate

How the WTO Can Help Address Climate Change

Tracey Epps, New Zealand Ministry of Foreign Affairs and Trade and Andrew Green, University of Toronto, Canada

'This book provides a comprehensive examination of the legal and policy interactions between international trade and measures to forestall climate change. Epps and Green cover all major aspects of the current debate and are especially attentive to the connection to economic development and poverty alleviation. The last chapter provides a creative and thoughtful menu of policy initiatives that could be undertaken in the World Trade Organization or in the UN Climate Change regime.'

Handbook on Trade and the Environment

Edited by Kevin P. Gallagher, Boston University and Tufts University, US

In this comprehensive reference work, Kevin Gallagher has compiled a fresh and broad-ranging collection of expert voices commenting on the interdisciplinary field of trade and the environment. The editor's well worked introduction synthesizes the emerging themes of the collection, which is divided into three sections: trade and environmental quality, trade and environmental politics, and trade and environmental policy. In addition to in-depth overviews of the field, the Handbook includes case studies on East Asia, Africa, Latin America, Europe, and the United States.

Finding Solutions for Environmental Conflicts

Power and Negotiation

Edward Christie, Queensland Bar, Australia, formerly of Griffith University and Administrative Appeals Tribunal, Commonwealth of Australia

'Edward Christie's Finding Solutions for Environmental Conflicts does more than just analyze the processes through which environmental conflicts can be resolved. The text takes its readers through the basic principles of the environmental decision-making process and explains how litigation, in addition to alternative dispute resolution techniques such as negotiation, can be used to address environmental problems. What makes Christie's text unique is that it helps readers to understand the legal system of not only the United States, but of the United Kingdom and Australia as well, providing readers with a broad sense of the interactions of law and environmental decision-making processes in other common law nations.'
