

RUSSIAN IMPACT ON ART

By Mikhail Alpatov

MORE THAN 1,000 years of Russian painting, sculpture, architecture, literature, music and drama are covered in this volume, set forth in comparison to those arts in other countries throughout the entire period.

During the past 25 years Mikhail Alpatov has written numerous works of wide acclaim on the development of Byzantine and Russian art, on the Kakhrie Diame frescoes of Constantinople, on Asiatic icons and miniatures, on Raphael, Rembrandt, Michelangelo, and Titian, etc. In addition, he has been lecturing actively at Moscow University, the Academy of Architecture, Higher Art and Technical Studios, Institute of Fine Arts and elsewhere.

This book, edited and with a preface by Martin L. Wolf, represents a comprehensive summary of Alpatov's lifelong work, and its scope indicates that he set and reached a goal never before undertaken in the sphere of the subject. Yet, its lively and graphic style renders it accessible to the general reader as well as to the specialist.

Includes a glossary, bibliography and index.

The Epic of Russian Literature

By MARC SLONIM

A brilliant study of Russian literature from its earliest beginnings to its flowering in Tolstoy. “The author enriches and makes more meaningful the various writers he interprets by casting them against the broad sweep and dynamic history of Russian ideas . . . Should be welcomed by the general reader interested in Russia and doubly so by the student.”
