

The $1,000 award was made in Washington, D. C., November 30, 1962.

SENATOR MARVIN E. STROMER has joined the faculty of Nebraska Wesleyan University, Lincoln, Nebraska as a visiting lecturer.

RICHARD W. VAN WAGENEN, professor of international organization and dean of the graduate school at the American University, has taken leave of absence from November 1962 to summer 1964 to serve the World Bank as special assistant for training.

EARLE WALLACE, assistant professor of political science, received the 1962 Tanner Award for excellence in undergraduate instruction at the University of North Carolina.

STAFF APPOINTMENTS

C. G. ALEXANDRIDES has been appointed coordinator of the United Nations program at the New York School for Social Research.

JABIR A. ABBAS of Iraq and Indiana University has been appointed instructor at Marshall University.

SAMIR N. ANABTAWI, formerly assistant professor at Dartmouth College, has been appointed assistant professor of political science at the University of California, Davis.

HANS BAERWALD, formerly of Miami University, Ohio, has accepted an appointment as lecturer at the University of California, Los Angeles.

LEROY BENNETT, formerly chairman of the political science department at Drake University, has been appointed as professor of political science and chairman of the department at the University of Delaware.

THOMAS J. BENNETT, who completed his Ph.D. in political science at the University of Illinois, is teaching at Marquette University.

LEWIS BOWMAN, recently at the University of North Carolina, has been appointed joint instructor in political science at Amherst and Mount Holyoke Colleges.

LOUIS F. BRAKEMAN joins the staff of Denison University as assistant professor, coming from Carroll College.

RICHARD A. BRODY, formerly of Northwestern University, has been appointed assistant professor at Stanford University. He also serves as a research director of Stanford studies in international conflict and integration.

MACALISTER BROWN was recently promoted to associate professor of political science and part-time administrative assistant to the president at Williams College.

ROGER CARASSO, formerly of the University of Wisconsin, Fox Valley center, has been appointed an instructor in political science at Northern Illinois University.

DOUGLAS A. CHALMERS has been promoted to assistant professor of political science at Douglass College of Rutgers University.

DOUGLAS DALGLEISH, receiving his Ph.D. at the University of Colorado, has been appointed assistant professor at Arizona State University.

SEBASTIAN DE GRAZIA has received a joint appointment at the Eagleton Institute and Douglass College of Rutgers University.

P. ALLAN DIONISOPOULOS, formerly of the University of Wisconsin, Milwaukee, has been appointed an associate professor of political science, at Northern Illinois University.

HEINZ EULAU has been appointed research associate of the institute of government studies, University of California.

RICHARD R. FAGEN has been appointed assistant professor at Stanford University. He also serves as a research associate in the university's institute for communication research.

LEE FARNSWORTH has been appointed assistant professor of government at Florida State University.

GEORGE FEAVER who has recently completed work for the Ph.D. at the London school of economics and politics has been appointed instructor in political science at Mount Holyoke College.

MILLARD L. GIESKE has been appointed instructor at the University of Minnesota, Morris.

RUDOLPH GOMEZ, a doctoral candidate at the University of Colorado, has joined the department of political science at Colorado College as an instructor.

LEONARD E. GOODALL upon the completion of his Ph.D at the University of Illinois has been appointed assistant professor at Arizona State University.

H. GAYLON GREENHILL has completed his Ph.D. at the University of Illinois and has accepted a position as assistant professor at Wisconsin State College at River Falls.

JEAN GROSSHOLTZ has been promoted to assistant professor of political science at Mount Holyoke.

ALEXANDER J. GROTH, formerly assistant professor at Harpur College, has been appointed assistant professor of political science at the University of California, Davis.

SAMUEL HALPERIN, formerly of Wayne State University, has been promoted to director of legislative services branch, U. S. Office of Education, and professorial lecturer at the American University.

HOWARD D. HAMILTON is the coordinator of the political science division of Indiana State College, for 1962-63.

ROBERT W. HATFERY, formerly assistant director of the institute for world affairs education and assistant professor of political science, extension, at the University of Wisconsin, has been appointed director of the bureau of public discussion, division of university extension, and assistant professor of government at Indiana University.

C. LEONARD HOAG, has joined the political science department at Middlebury College in Vermont after returning from Korea where he had been teaching for a year on a Fulbright grant. Dr. Hoag has previously been chairman of the department of contemporary civilization at Middlebury.

WARING HOPKINS has been promoted to a full professor at Berea College, Berea, Kentucky.

JOHN W. HOPKIRK was promoted to associate professor at Pennsylvania Military College.

LLOYD JENSEN, who is completing his doctorate at the University of Michigan, has received an appointment in the department of political science at the University of Illinois.

MALCOLM E. JEWELL has been appointed associate professor and is serving as acting head of the department of political science of the University of Kentucky during the 1962-1963 academic year.

DONALD BRUCE JOHNSON has been appointed chairman of the department of political science at the University of Iowa.

CHARLES A. JOINER, after serving at Michigan State University and on a project in Vietnam, has accepted a position with Temple University, Philadelphia.

ELIJAH B.-Z. KAMINSKY, has been appointed assistant professor at Arizona State University, department of political science.

THOMAS G. KARIS has been promoted to associate professor of political science at the City College of New York.

KEMAL H. KARPAT has joined the faculty of the department of government and international relations of New York University as assistant professor.

HARVEY G. KEBSCHULL has completed his Ph.D. at the University of Illinois and has accepted a position at Montana State College, Missoula.

BOYD R. KEENAN, an Illinois Ph.D., has moved from Marshall College to become associate director of the committee on institutional cooperation of the Big Ten and the University of Chicago.

MALCOLM KERR, just returned from a year in the middle east and England, has accepted an appointment as assistant professor at the University of California, Los Angeles.

SE JIN KIM, formerly a graduate student at the University of Massachusetts, has been appointed instructor of political science at Eastern Kentucky State College, Richmond, Kentucky.

STANLEY A. KOCHANEK has been appointed an instructor in the department of political science of the University of Pennsylvania.

EARL R. KRUSCHKE, formerly of the University of Wisconsin, has been appointed to the faculty of the department of political science, University of Puget Sound, Tacoma, Washington.

OLIVER M. LEE recently received his Ph.D. from the University of Chicago and resigned his instructorship at the University of Maryland to become foreign affairs analyst at the legislative reference service of the Library of Congress.

KLAUS LOEWALD, formerly of San Francisco State College, has joined the USIA as a cultural affairs officer, presently serving in Saigon.

GERHARD LOEWENBERG has been promoted to associate professor of political science at Mount Holyoke.

BRUCE B. MASON, director of bureau of government research, Arizona State University, has been named chairman, department of political science.

JUANITA MATTHEWS and ROALD MYKKELTVEDT have been appointed instructors in government at Florida State University.

DOROTHY McCULLOUGH LEE, formerly chairman, U. S. subversive activities control board, has been appointed as lecturer in political science at Portland State College.

EDWARD N. MEGAY, formerly of St. Thomas College, St. Paul, Minnesota, has accepted appointment as associate professor of political science at the University of Nebraska.

KENNETH E. MILLER has been promoted to associate professor of political science in the Newark College of Arts and Sciences, Rutgers University.

STUART NAGEL, a Ph.D. from Northwestern, has accepted an assistant professorship at the University of Illinois.

ROBERT NORTH, director of Stanford studies in international conflict and integration, has been promoted to full professor at Stanford University.

ROBERT OSGOOD, formerly of the University of Chicago, has become professor of American foreign policy at the School for Advanced International Studies of the Johns Hopkins University.

R. G. PARK was promoted to assistant professor at Pennsylvania Military College.

JAMES A. PERKINS leaves the Carnegie Corporation of New York, as of July 1, to become president of Cornell University.

SIMON PERRY of the University of Michigan has been appointed as assistant professor at Marshall University.

CHARLES E. PATTERSON, JR., who is completing his Ph.D. at the University of Illinois, has been appointed instructor in political science at Lehigh University.

FRANK B. PESCI, formerly an instructor in American government, has assumed the newly created position of dean of academic affairs at Prince George's Community College, Suitland, Maryland.

E. RAYMOND PLATIG, formerly of the University of Denver, has been appointed Director of Studies for the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace.

RAYMOND RANDALL, formerly of the United States Civil Service Commission, has assumed his duties in Djakarta, Indonesia, as chief of the Indiana public administration team.

MERTON L. REICHLER, who held a faculty fellowship in state and local government awarded by the national council for education in politics during 1961-62, has accepted the appointment as instructor in political science at the State University of New York at Stony Brook.

JAMES N. ROSENAU has been promoted to full professor of political science at Douglass College of Rutgers University.

MARTIN SCHAPIRO, formerly of Harvard University, has been appointed assistant professor at Stanford University.

ROBERT SITTING has been appointed as instructor of political science at the University of Nebraska.

WALTER A. E. SKURNIK was appointed instructor in the political science department at Pennsylvania Military College.

PETER SNOW, formerly at the University of Virginia, has accepted an assistant professorship at the University of Iowa.

ALVIN D. SOKOLOW, who is completing his Ph.D. at the University of Illinois, has been appointed to a position in the institute of public administration and the department of political science at Michigan State University.

FRED A. SONDERMANN, associate professor of political science at Colorado College has been appointed associate dean of the college and director of special studies.

GEORGE STAMBUK has been appointed associate professor of international affairs at the George Washington University. He is teaching at the University's center at the Naval War College.

LELAND STAUBER, a doctoral candidate at Harvard University, has been appointed assistant professor of political science at Indiana State College.

RICHARD STEELE of Marshall University has resigned to accept a position at Antioch College.

KURT STEINER has resumed his teaching duties at Stanford University after a sojourn to Japan. He has been promoted to full professor and serves as associate executive head of the department of political science.

HIRAM M. STOUT has been appointed professor of international affairs at the George Washington University and director of the University's center at the Naval War College.

ALBERT LEE STURM has been appointed professor of government and director of the institute of governmental research at Florida State University.

JOSEPH L. SUTTON, professor of government and chairman of the Asian studies committee, has been appointed associate dean of the college of arts and sciences at Indiana University.

HUNG-CHAO TAI, who completed his Ph.D. at the University of Illinois, has moved from Montana State University to the University of Detroit.

TANG TSOU has been promoted to associate professor in the department of political science, University of Chicago.

CHARLES L. TAYLOR, formerly a Ph.D. candidate at Yale has been appointed an instructor at the College of William and Mary.

MORTON TENZER, assistant to the dean of students and lecturer on politics at Brandeis University, will serve this year as visiting lecturer in political science at Mount Holyoke.

EARLE WALLACE, assistant professor of political science, has been appointed associate dean of the graduate school at the University of North Carolina.

CHARLES WARREN VAN CLEVE, a recent graduate of Indiana University Law School, has been appointed assistant professor of political science at Eastern Kentucky State College, Richmond, Kentucky.

C. SYLVESTER WHITAKER, formerly of Princeton University, has accepted an appointment as assistant professor at the University of California, Los Angeles.

GARY L. WILHELM, who is completing the work for his doctorate at the University of Illinois, has accepted an appointment at Ohio State University.

CLYDE J. WINGFIELD, formerly of Pennsylvania State University, has been appointed an associate professor in the department of political science at Northern Illinois University.

FREDERICK M. WIRT has been appointed to a three year term as chairman of the department of government at Denison University.

RAYMOND E. WOLFINGER, formerly of Yale University and a fellow of the center for advanced study in the behavioral sciences in 1960-61, has been appointed assistant professor at Stanford University.

MANFRED R. WOLFSON, formerly of the University of California, Berkeley, has been appointed as assistant professor of political science at Portland State College.

DEIL S. WRIGHT has been promoted to the rank of associate professor at the University of Iowa.

CHARLES E. YOUNG, assistant professor at UCLA, has been promoted from assistant to the chancellor to assistant chancellor.

EDWARD A. ZIEGENHAGEN, who is working on his doctorate in political science at the University of Illinois, has accepted a position at Skidmore College.

J. K. ZAWODNY joined the political science department of the University of Pennsylvania, with the rank of associate professor.

IN MEMORIAM

Dr. Cortez A. M. Ewing, Research Professor of Government at the University of Oklahoma, died suddenly on March 5, 1962. He had been hospitalized briefly a few days before, but had been released and had expected to return to work.

He was born at Carthage, Indiana, in 1896 and took his bachelor's degree at Earlham College in 1924, his Ph.M. (1925) and Ph.D. (1927) at the University of Wisconsin. After teaching a year at Pennsylvania State College he came to the University of Oklahoma, where he remained, except for a year (1931-32) as visiting professor at the University of Texas, and summer school appointments at various campuses.

He was the author of Judges of the Supreme Court, 1789-1937 (1938), Presidential Elections (1940), Congressional Elections, 1896-1944 (1947),

Primary Elections in the South (1953), American National Government (1958); and with J. B. Cheadle and H. O. Eaton, No More Unemployed (1934); with R. J. Dangerfield, A Documentary Source Book in American Government and Politics (1931); and with J. C. Phillips, Essentials of American Government (1962). He also published numerous articles in this REVIEW, The Southwestern Social Science Quarterly, The Political Science Quarterly, and others. He was a member of the American Political Science Association, the Southern Political Science Association, the Southwestern Social Science Association, the Western Political Science Association, and the American Academy of Political and Social Science. He was a past President of the Southwestern Social Science Association and for several years a member of the