Chopin: Pianist and Teacher

As Seen by his Pupils

JEAN-JACQUES EIGELDINGER

Translated by KRYSIA OSOSTOWICZ with NAOMI SHOHET and ROY HOWAT
Edited by ROY HOWAT

This unique collection of documents edited and annotated by Jean-Jacques Eigeldinger, and translated here into English for the first time, reveals Chopin as teacher and interpreter. From the accounts of Chopin's pupils, acquaintances and contemporaries, together with his own writing, we gain valuable insights into Chopin's pianistic and stylistic practice, his teaching methods and his aesthetic beliefs.

Brahms 2

Biographical, Documentary and Analytical Studies

Edited by MICHAEL MUSGRAVE

This second volume of Brahms studies contains twelve essays by leading international authorities on various but inter-related aspects of Brahms and his music. The essays discuss the analysis of the music itself, the influence of earlier music on Brahms, the reception of his music, and Brahms's view of his own historical position.

Revolution and Religion in the Music of Liszt

PAUL MERRICK

This new study of a hitherto neglected aspect of Liszt and his music aims to restore a balanced view of both man and artist, demonstrating much of his music, secular and sacred, to be inspired by the same religious conviction that also governed his private life from an early age.

Music and Theatre

Essays in Honour of Winton Dean

Edited by NIGEL FORTUNE

This volume of eleven essays, compiled as a tribute to Winton Dean on his seventieth birthday, focuses on that area which has absorbed Winton Dean's interest throughout his career: opera and other theatre music. The first half of the book covers the period from the late seventeenth century to the mid eighteenth, and the second half ranges over late opera, from opéra comique to Britten's first two major operas.

The British Journal of Music Education is now established in the field as a key publication, nationally and internationally. The aims of the BJME are to provide clear, stimulating and readable accounts of curriculum development and research in music education. Editorial policy is to encourage careful reflection on teaching in schools, colleges and studios.

Articles are invited from those in any way concerned with music education, and, where appropriate, can be of substantial length, though shorter contributions are also acceptable. Potential authors are referred to the notes for contributors (see inside back cover).

Once a year a cassette of music examples accompanies the Journal and contributors may wish to take advantage of this. Photographs and other illustrations are welcomed.

Notes for Contributors

1. All contributions (3 copies) and correspondence should be sent to either Editor: Professor John Paynter, Department of Music, University of York, Heslington, York YO1 5DD, or Professor Keith Swanwick, Department of Music, University of London Institute of Education, 20 Bedford Way, London WC1H 0AL.
2. All material for review, and text of reviews, should be sent to the Review Editor, Andrew Pegg, 11B Tregothnan Road, Stockwell, London SW9 1JU. Only one copy of the review need be sent.
3. Articles should be of interest to teachers of music, clearly written without unnecessary jargon and show evidence of careful and critical enquiry. Writers should avoid all forms of gender and racial stereotyping.
4. Articles should be normally within the range 3,000–10,000 words, although longer or shorter articles may be accepted by arrangements with the Editors.
5. Reviews and surveys will have their lengths prescribed by the Review Editor, at the time of commissioning.
6. Contributions (articles, review articles, reviews) should be clearly typed on one side of the paper only (preferably A4 size). All material should be typed double spaced with generous margins. In addition to the three copies submitted (one, in the case of reviews), contributors should keep a further copy of the typescript for correcting proofs.
7. Articles should be accompanied by a summary of approximately 100 words, together with information about the position/s held by the author/s and giving full details of any acknowledgements. In long articles, subheadings are encouraged.
8. All quotations and references should be identified in the text by author and date to link with the full references listed alphabetically at the end of the article. E.g. in the text, bracketed thus: (Self, 1976); in the alphabetical reference list thus: Self, G. 1976. Make a New Sound. London, Universal Edition.
9. The full list of references should be typed, double spaced, on a separate sheet of paper at the end of the article. They must include the names and initials of all the authors cited (arranged in alphabetical order of the authors' surnames) and followed by (in the case of books) the date of publication, the title (underscored), the place of publication and the name of the publisher, or (in the case of articles cited) the date of publication, the full title of the article (not underscored), the name of the journal in which the article appeared (underscored), the volume number, issue number, and page number/s. Reference to an article which appears in a book should be made thus: the author's name, date of publication (in brackets), title of the article (in inverted commas), 'In' followed by author/s name(s) and title of the book (underscored), place of publication and name of publisher. E.g. Pollard, M. (1978). 'Folk Music in junior and middle schools'. In Leach, R. and Palmer, R., Folk Music in School. Cambridge, Cambridge University Press.
10. Notes other than bibliographical references should be given only when absolutely essential. These should be referred to in numerical order throughout the text and the number shown as superscript. The notes should then appear on a separate sheet of paper at the end of the article.
11. All necessary illustrations should accompany the typescript but should not be inserted in the text. All photographs, drawings and diagrams should be referred to as "figures" and should be numbered consecutively in the order in which they are referred to in the text. A list of captions should be provided on a separate sheet. Photographs should be well-contrasted prints with glossy finish (preferably 10" x 8"), if possible mounted on thin card. Each should have, lightly written on the back with felt-tipped pen, the author's name and the figure number. Authors to whom first-class photographic facilities are not available are encouraged to send both marked contact prints and the negatives under registered cover. Drawings and diagrams should be done in indian ink on strong paper, white card, or good-quality tracing paper.
12. A cassette tape of 40 minutes maximum duration will be available once a year, normally accompanying every third issue of the British Journal of Music Education. Contributors may wish to avail themselves of this opportunity to present musical examples, even if these refer to articles which have appeared in either of the two previous issues. Recorded material must be submitted in its final edited form (on cassette or open-reel). To facilitate transfer to the published tape, it will be helpful if contributors could ensure that the master tapes are of the highest possible quality. Individual items on the tape should be identified by aural cues which will correspond with a typewritten list. The author's name should be clearly written on each tape and tape box.
13. Proofs of all articles accepted will be sent to authors for correction of typographical errors only. Failure to return proofs within the specified deadline may lead to the Editors sending their own corrected proofs to the printer without further reference to the author.
14. Twenty-five offprints will be supplied free of charge to authors on publication of a paper. These must be shared in case of joint authorship. Additional offprints may be purchased if ordered at proof stage.
15. Authors will be requested to assign their copyright to Cambridge University Press to protect their rights and those of the Journal. Authors are responsible for obtaining any necessary permissions to quote copyright material in their article.
