HARVARD THEOLOGICAL STUDIES

I. The Composition and Date of Acts

By CHARLES CUTLER TORREY of Yale University. 8vo. Paper. 72 pages. 75 cents.

This investigation makes it possible, through the demonstration of an Aramaic document and its translation by the same writer who composed its sequel, to establish a degree of probability never before attainable in regard to the authorship and composition of Acts; and at the same time the question of date is considerably simplified.

II. The Pauline Idea of Faith in its Relation to Jewish and Hellenistic Religion

By WILLIAM HENRY PAINE HATCH of the Episcopal Theological School, Cambridge. 8vo. Paper. 92 pages. $1.00.

The author examines in detail Paul's idea of faith, which was so fundamental in his conception of Christianity, and seeks to answer certain questions as to its content, its relation to trust in Jahveh, and its analogy, if any, to current Græco-Roman thought and the Oriental mystery cults which enjoyed such great popularity in the West just before and after the advent of Christianity.

III. Ephod and Ark: A Study in the Records and Religion of the Ancient Hebrews

By WILLIAM R. ARNOLD of Andover Theological Seminary. 8vo. Paper. 170 pages. $1.50.

A most interesting investigation of the "ark of the covenant" and the "ephod," those mysterious objects which were so important a part of Hebrew ritual but which have given rise to divergent interpretations on the part of theologians and folk-lorists.

IV. The Gospel Manuscripts of the General Theological Seminary

By CHARLES CARROLL EDMUNDS of the General Theological Seminary, and WILLIAM HENRY PAINE HATCH of the Episcopal Theological School, Cambridge. 8vo. Paper. 68 pages. 8 double-page reproductions. $1.25.

The authors have collated and studied three minuscule codices of the Gospels belonging to the General Theological Seminary. The first of these was presented to the Seminary by Mr. Samuel Verplanck Hoffman in 1911; the second is said to have been brought to America from the Laura on Mt. Athos; the third was given to the Seminary in 1913 by the Rev. W. L. H. Benton, whose grandfather obtained it during his missionary labors in Crete.

V. Macarii Anecdota: Seven Unpublished Homilies of Macarius

Edited by G. L. MARRIOTT of the University of Birmingham. 8vo. Paper. 48 pages. $1.25.

As far back as 1721 it had been noticed that a manuscript in the Bodleian contained seven homilies of Macarius not included in the sixteenth and seventeenth century editions of his works. These homilies are now published for the first time (Greek text), with a few introductory remarks on the light which they throw on some of the critical problems connected with "Macarius."

VI. The Style and Literary Method of Luke: I. The Diction of Luke and Acts

By HENRY J. CADBURY of Haverford College. 72 pages. $1.25.

Professor Cadbury here makes a careful examination of each word in Luke and Acts that begins with one of the first five letters of the Greek alphabet, showing which are Attic, which belong to the post-classical period, and which are probably Jewish-Christian. The theory of Hobart and Harnack that the use of medical terms proves that Luke, the Physician, must be the writer, is examined critically by a comparison with Lucian's vocabulary.

The Harvard Theological Review is an undenominational theological quarterly, established by the aid of the bequest of Miss Mildred Everett, daughter of Reverend Charles Carroll Everett, D.D., Bussey Professor of Theology in the Harvard Divinity School, 1869–1900, and Dean of the School, 1878–1900.

The Review aims to include discussions in the various fields of theological study, and also in the history of religions, ethics, education, economics, and sociology, in their theological and religious aspects. It is designed to serve the needs not only of clergymen and scholars, but of all who are interested in religious thought and in the place and function of religion in modern life.
