Fitzgerald, postmodernism, American autobiography, Holocaust theatre, the Age of Johnson, and a growing world of criticism...all from WISCONSIN

THE SHORT STORIES OF E. SCOTT FITZGERALD

NEW APPROACHES IN CRITICISM

Jackson R. Bryer, editor. Fitzgerald's short stories have long remained the most seriously neglected aspect of his total work. In an effort to redress this critical imbalance, Jackson R. Bryer has gathered together a group of insightful essays which together explicate the novelist's stories, suggesting their rich and unmined critical potential.
November 1982. 384 pages. $30.00/7.95.

THE DISMEMBERMENT OF ORPHEUS

TOWARD A POSTMODERN LITERATURE SECOND EDITION — EXPANDED

Ihab Hassan. The author takes Orphic dismemberment and regeneration as his metaphor for a radical crisis in art and language, culture and consciousness, which prefigures postmodern literature. For this new edition, Hassan has added a new preface and postface on the developing character of postmodernism, a concept which he himself has done much to theorize.
August 1982. 336 pages. $25.00/8.95.

A BIBLIOGRAPHY OF AMERICAN AUTOBIOGRAPHY

1945-1980

Mary Louise Briscoe, editor. This annotated bibliography comes as a particularly welcome reference to scholars, researchers, and librarians. Providing current data on an exhaustive range of recent American autobiographies, Briscoe's work supplements and updates Louis Kaplan's long-popular listing of pre-1945 titles, and includes vastly expanded coverage of titles on women, Blacks, and numerous ethnic groups.
October 1982. Price to be announced.

THE THEATRE OF THE HOLOCAUST

FOUR PLAYS

Robert Skloot, editor. In this seminal work, Skloot sets out to identify, analyze, and present samples of the Theatre of the Holocaust, a genre whose compelling and forceful contribution to Holocaust and theatre studies has too long been neglected. The resulting volume is both a powerful testimony and a critical anthology, the first of its kind for scholars, students, and the general reader concerned with Holocaust studies.

October 1982. 416 pages, illus. $25.00/10.95.

JOHN HAWKESWORTH, EIGHTEENTH-CENTURY MAN OF LETTERS

John Lawrence Abbott. This complete biography of Hawkesworth introduces original evidence to define the life of a man who helped to shape the cultural life of Great Britain in the later eighteenth century. Without a knowledge of Hawkesworth's life, our understanding of the literary and cultural life of the Age of Johnson remains incomplete.

September 1982. 320 pages. Cloth $22.50.

THE UNKNOWN SAMUEL JOHNSON

John J. Burke, Jr. and Donald Kay, editors. The eminently quotable Johnson of Boswell's Life and popular legend has overshadowed Johnson the writer and thinker. The essays collected here corroborate that argument, revealing an engaging, provocative, and largely unknown Johnson, the literary figure we once thought we knew so well. Essential new reading for all Johnsonians.

November 1982. 224 pages. Cloth $30.00

The Will To Believe

Novelists of the Nineteen-Thirties

RICHARD JOHNSTONE, Senior Lecturer in English, Hertfordshire College of Further Education. The nineteen-thirties had a distinct literary character, dominated by writers who had in common not only their ages, but their backgrounds and education as well. This study of six novelists working during this period – Graham Greene, Evelyn Waugh, Christopher Isherwood, George Orwell, Edward Upward, and Rex Warner – reveals their powerful need for “something to believe in” in the wake of the order, continuity, and purpose lost from their lives as a result of the first world war.

1982 160 pp. $29.50

The Complete Poetical Works of Thomas Hardy

Volume I: Wessex Poems, Poems of the Past and the Present, Time's Laughingstocks

Edited by SAMUEL HYNES, Professor of English, Princeton University. This complete, definitive edition of Hardy's poems incorporates revisions he made in print, in manuscripts, and in holograph corrections he made to his own copies of books. The editor's examination of public and private book collections, manuscripts, and letters in England, France, and the United States – many never before made available to scholars – allows him to describe the complex history of Hardy's poems and to explain why a correct text never appeared during Hardy's lifetime. (Oxford English Texts)

November 1982 468 pp.; illus. $39.50

The Collected Letters of Thomas Hardy

Volume Three: 1902–1908

Edited by RICHARD LITTLE PURDY and MICHAEL MILLGATE, Professor of English, University of Toronto. Scrupulously annotated and extensively cross-referenced, the text includes more than six hundred letters supplemented by a chronology covering the whole of Hardy's career and an index to the letter's recipients. From reviews of Volume One: “A thoroughly painstaking and professional achievement.” – Choice. “The necessity of this volume for all Hardy collections cannot be overemphasized.” – Library Journal.

1982 320 pp.; 8 illus. $45.00

Tess of the d'Urbervilles

THOMAS HARDY; edited by JULIET GRINDLE and SIMON GATRELL, Lecturer in English, New University of Ulster. This edition of Tess of the d'Urbervilles presents the novel exactly as Hardy wrote it, while also giving a detailed account of its writing and revision in the introduction. Although the Wessex Edition of 1912 is the version considered to have the greatest authority, the editors of this critical edition have collated every variety of the text from its manuscript to editions published after Hardy's death.

November 1982 600 pp.; map $95.00

William Wordsworth

The Borders of Vision

JONATHAN WORDSWORTH, Fellow in English, St. Catherine's College, University of Oxford. Wordsworth's sense of man as firmly based in the actual world, yet reaching out, aspiring beyond the limits of normal human experience, is the starting point of this new book. Adopting a broadly chronological approach, the author places famous passages of Wordsworth's poems in their original context and offers a fresh view of the poet's creative process and his strange imaginative vision.

1982 464 pp. $34.95

The Rapes of Lucretia

A Myth and Its Transformations

IAN DONALDSON, Director of the Humanities Research Centre of the Australian National University, Canberra. One of the most familiar of all stories from the ancient world, the rape of Lucretia was, to the Romans, a story of great political importance. This challenging new book sees the story as a myth and examines its origins and changing fortunes, looking at some of the ways in which it has been interpreted, criticized, elaborated, and transformed.

1982 208 pp.; 20 illus. $27.50

James Joyce

New Perspectives

Edited by Colin MacCabe

Represents an appraisal of Joyce as a truly radical author—the most appropriate modern writer on whom to demonstrate a fusion of Marxist, Freudian, and post-structuralist theories of language and thought.

Archery at the Dark of the Moon

Poetic Problems in Homer's Odyssey

NORMAN AUSTIN

"I bless this volume for compelling me to think harder and to think differently about familiar passages on which after many years my views had crystallized. . . . Here is a book by a man who loves Homer, who thinks hard about Homer's magic, and who convinces one reader that he thoroughly enjoys sharing his thought with others."—Classical Outlook

The Satires of Horace

NIALL RUDD

"This happy blend of historical scholarship and literary criticism is aimed at a wide audience. It should afford profit and pleasure to students of the classical background to English literature as well as to students of Latin and to professional classical scholars."—Michael Coffey, The Classical Review

Literary Architecture

Essays Toward a Tradition—

Walter Pater, Gerard Manley Hopkins, Marcel Proust, Henry James

ELLEN EVE FRANK

"This is a complex and important book. . . . a challenging and sophisticated contribution to critical studies of the sister arts. It originates from a thoroughly considered grasp of the imaginative possibilities of the analogy between architecture and literature, and it boldly brings an innovative critical method to bear."—Modern Language Quarterly
