

Letter to the Editor

Sir,
Talwar and colleagues raise very valid points, and we agree with all of them. The need for worldwide trials of antibiotics is obvious, as we suggested in our manuscript. Adjustment for local epidemiologic and demographic conditions will be important for making informed and useful recommendations. A recent visit we made to the very impressive home institution of the authors confirms that they will be well positioned to contribute to future studies of this type.

*Nelson Alphonso, Petros V. Anagnostopoulos
Sarab Scarpace, Peggy Weintrub
Anthony Azakie, Gary Raff, Tom R. Karl Pediatric Cardiac Surgical Unit
University of California at San Francisco
Children's Hospital, 505 Parnassus Ave, Room S549
San Francisco, CA, USA*

Correspondence to: Tom R. Karl, MD, Pediatric Cardiac Surgical Unit, University of California at San Francisco Children's Hospital, 505 Parnassus Ave, Room S549, San Francisco, California 94143-0118, United States of America. Tel: +1 415 476 3501; Fax: +1 415 476 9678; E-mail: karlt@surgery.ucsf.edu