Creole Indigeneity

Between Myth and Nation in the Caribbean

By Shona N. Jackson

During the colonial period in Guyana, the country's coastal lands were worked by enslaved Africans and indentured Indians. Jackson investigates how their descendants, collectively called Creoles, have remade themselves as Guyana's new natives, displacing Indigenous peoples in the Caribbean through an extension of colonial attitudes and policies.

Mobilizing Bolivia's Displaced

Indigenous Politics and the Struggle Over Land

By Nicole Fabricant

Landless peasants in Bolivia were central to the 2005 election of Evo Morales, the first Indigenous head of state in the Americas. Fabricant illustrates how the Landless Peasant Movement politicized indigeneity to shape grassroots land politics, reform the state, and secure human and cultural rights for Native peoples.
