Announcing a major reference source!

The first fully comprehensive international index to current design and design-related journals

'...bound to become one of the most valuable library tools not just for the designer and design student but also for the more general reader and researcher'. (Anthony Coulson, Art Libraries Journal)

'...for the coverage of a broad range of design and applied arts fields, it is long overdue, moderately priced, and extremely welcome'. (Carol S. Terry and Laurie K. Whitehill, Art Documentation)

'...an index to which all libraries, where design is a consideration, should subscribe and which individuals will find invaluable as a helpful reference'. (Jonathan Woodham, Design History Society Newsletter)

Design and applied arts index is the first fully comprehensive international index to current design and design-related journals. It is published twice a year, covering January-June and July-December.

Since publication of the first issue in February 1988 we have made a number of important changes to design and applied arts index. As from Volume 2 (1988) we have significantly increased the type and range of material indexed. This includes:

- * A substantial increase in the number of journals indexed.
- * The retrospective indexing of certain journals, including Craft Arts (Australia) from 1984, Design World (Australia) from 1983, DesignWeek (UK) from 1986, The Journal of Decorative and Propaganda Arts (USA) from 1986, and Blueprint (UK) from 1983. Other titles will follow.
- * The inclusion of books, exhibition catalogues, theses and dissertations, and film and video material.

Daai is set up as a database and can, if required, provide subscribers with key word search facilities. Although not yet available on-line, we can respond to users' enquiries either by post, telephone or fax.
