Publication Policy

The role of the American Bar Foundation is to create and disseminate knowledge about law and the workings of the legal profession and legal institutions. With that purpose in mind, the American Bar Foundation Research Journal invites the submission of unsolicited articles and research notes by lawyers, legal academics, social scientists, and other scholars. The Journal publishes articles on the legal profession, the provision of legal services, the operation of legal institutions, trends and policy developments in the law, and related topics. Recognizing that a variety of disciplines and approaches can contribute to knowledge of the legal system, the Journal strives to be multidisciplinary and publishes empirical, doctrinal, and theoretical analyses. The analyses, conclusions, and opinions expressed are those of the authors and not those of the American Bar Foundation, its officers and directors, research staff, or others associated with the Foundation's work.

Manuscript Evaluation: To ensure informed publication decisions, the Journal employs a refereed publication process. Articles and research notes that the Editors deem potentially appropriate for the Journal are normally evaluated by two or more reviewers chosen on the basis of their familiarity with the subject matter and the research methods. Manuscripts produced by scholars affiliated with the Foundation are evaluated by the same process as outside manuscripts and are not accorded priority in publication.

Submission of Manuscripts: Manuscripts submitted to the Journal should be typed double spaced and be accompanied by an abstract of not more than 150 words. Because it is preferred that an author's identity not be disclosed when a manuscript is sent to reviewers, the author's name, credentials, institutional affiliation, and any acknowledgments should appear only on the cover sheet or other separate pages.

To avoid placing unnecessary burdens on reviewers, the Editors request that manuscripts be submitted only if the author is committed to publication in the Journal if the manuscript is accepted. If a manuscript is submitted that is under consideration by another journal, that fact should be disclosed to the Editors at the time of submission. The Editors will make publication decisions promptly, usually about two months after submission.

Editing of Accepted Manuscripts: All manuscripts accepted for publication will be edited for style by the Journal's professional editorial staff in consultation with the author. The editorial staff does not check citations. Authors of articles see both edited manuscript and galleys.

Reprints to Authors: Without charge, the Journal provides to authors of articles 50 reprints of each published article or research note and 5 copies of the issue in which it appears; to authors of review essays and book reviews, 25 reprints and 1 copy of the issue.

Republication Rights: The Foundation will normally permit authors to republish or use their manuscripts after publication in the Journal, but the Journal will have the right to first publication of edited manuscripts. The Journal will retain the right to republish manuscripts as reprints or as part of any reproduction of the issue or volume in which they appear, by any means, including without limit electronic means or microfilm.

Comments and Responses: comments on or responses to articles or reviews in the form of brief, scholarly statements will be published at the discretion of the Editors or Review Section Editor.
