Co-Publisher: A. W. Sijthoff, Leiden

1974
ISBN: 379-00031-8

Demography
$12.50/B

This volume brings together the resolutions that have been the subject of debate and concern of the U.N. as a body and in its separate agencies for nearly 30 years. The whole spectrum of problems confronting the individual—not just the statistical and demographic aspects—are covered: health, aging, food, housing, children's needs, work, discrimination, marriage.

West, Ranyard

INTERNATIONAL LAW AND PSYCHOLOGY

1974
ISBN: 379-00029

International Relations
$17.50/B

A trained Freudian analyst and astute political analyst, West uses his double perspective to elucidate international problems and to gather new insights into his field. He devotes the first part of his book to actual international case studies (Italian invasion of Abyssinia, Munich, the Korean War). Part II, Conscience and Society (originally published in Britain) is a study of political philosophy in general.

The Strategy of Treaty Termination

Lawful Breaches and Retaliations

Arie E. David

This is a study of the ways in which states handle the problem that arises when one party to an international agreement wishes to amend or terminate it and the other party does not agree. Mr. David analyzes the behavior of states in the light of both legal principles and political realities. $20.00

The Thin Blue Line

International Peacekeeping and Its Future

Indarjit Rikhye, Michael Harbottle, and Bjørn Egge

As international conflicts continue in the Middle East and in Southeast Asia, and new disputes threaten to erupt around the world, the need for an effective international peacekeeping system is clear. Drawing from their own experiences as leaders of United Nations peacekeeping operations and from the history of international conflict control, both within and outside the United Nations, the authors outline how such a system could be created, structured, and implemented. $12.50

PUBLICATION ANNOUNCEMENT

The growing internationalization of government and business activities has resulted in an ever increasing confrontation with foreign law. Hence the insight into foreign regulations is a vital necessity in the field of company law. This urgent need has now been satisfied by the publication of a reference work about company liability in 35 countries, entitled:

The company limited by shares— an inquiry of comparative law

From these 35 countries, experts have contributed to articles dealing with each country. These articles, written in French, German, English, Spanish, Portuguese and Italian, are all arranged in the same sequence under the headings of legislation, jurisprudence, philosophy. Attention has been given to purely juridical problems as well as to practical questions such as: the foundation of a company, shares, shareholder rights, protection of minorities in shareholders' meetings, bond issues, financial reports, increasing or decreasing capital, liquidation, mergers and transformation of company statutes, government participation, etc.

This handbook of comparative law was edited by Professor Dr. Mario Rontondi, Director of the Istituto di Diritto Privato Italiano e Comparativo, University of Milan. Professor Rotondo, an authority on comparative law, is world famous for his many publications on the subject.

Complete in 3 bound vols., about 2500 pages, $98(US) (delivery included).

INTERNATIONAL MONETARY REFORM AND THE DEVELOPING COUNTRIES

The Rule of Law Problem
GILBERT P. VERBIT

In this pioneering study of the non-economic effects of foreign exchange rates, the author examines various alternatives for distributing exchange and tests them against the rule-of-law/corruption standard. The study is based on extensive field work in sources not generally available and on many fugitive materials never before analyzed. $20.00

Published by Lerner Law Book Co.
53 E Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20001
(202) 628-5585

This is a new book from Professor Malawer. It is a collection of 17 separate studies written by Professor Malawer on various topics in transnational and international law. Studies range from treaty interpretation, domestic litigation against foreign countries, to the law of the European Communities (tax, trade agreements and antitrust). Several of these studies previously have appeared only in foreign periodicals. The book is invaluable to the practitioner, scholar and student of law, politics and business.

Professor Malawer has studied law at Cornell, Oxford and Harvard law schools and has studied international politics and business at Princeton University and the University of Pennsylvania. He practices with an international law firm and has been a Lecturer at the Johns Hopkins University.
