Whose Ideas Matter?

Agency and Power in Asian Regionalism

AMITAV ACHARYA

“Acharya has led the way in thinking not only about the international relations of Southeast Asia but also about how to conceptualize international security more generally.”

—Stephan Haggard, UC San Diego

200 pages / $39.95 cloth

Cornell Studies in Political Economy

Distributed for Cornell Southeast Asia Program

Dependent Communities

Aid and Politics in Cambodia and East Timor

CAROLINE HUGHES

Dependent Communities offers a searing analysis of contemporary international aid strategies based on Hughes's years of fieldwork in Cambodia and East Timor.

275 pages / $23.95 paper

Networked Politics

Agency, Power, and Governance

EDITED BY MILES KAHLER

“This pathbreaking volume generates a set of exciting research questions about the role of networks in world politics and offers some innovative methodologies to facilitate their empirical investigation.”

—Robert O. Keohane, Princeton University

280 pages / $22.95 paper

Hierarchy in International Relations

DAVID A. LAKE

“Lake effectively and convincingly argues that international politics is characterized not by anarchy, as the received wisdom and theory in the field hold, but rather by hierarchical relations among states.”

—James D. Morrow, University of Michigan

272 pages / $39.95 cloth

Cornell Studies in Political Economy

Federations

The Political Dynamics of Cooperation

DAVID A. LAKE

“This book represents an important new and distinctive voice in the burgeoning literature on federalism's origins. Rector's careful case analysis places federalism firmly on the agenda of International Relations scholarship. Federations is a real contribution to the study of the important nexus of domestic and international politics.”

—Daniel Ziblatt, Harvard University

International Theory

A Journal of International Politics, Law and Philosophy

journals.cambridge.org/int

Editors

Duncan Snidal, University of Chicago
Alexander Wendt, The Ohio State University

Launching in 2009, International Theory invites papers on theory of all varieties and from all disciplines, provided it addresses problems of politics, broadly defined and relates to the international.

International Theory welcomes scholarship that uses evidence from the real world to advance theoretical arguments. However, it is intended as a forum where scholars can develop theoretical arguments in depth without an expectation of extensive empirical analysis.

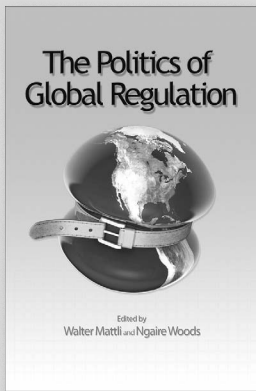

Full instructions for contributors can be found here: journals.cambridge.org/int/ifc

Manuscripts for consideration or any queries should be sent by email to the Editors at it.mershon@osu.edu

The Politics of Global Regulation

Edited by Walter Mattli & Ngaire Woods

“This is an important book. The financial crisis that began in 2007–2008 is the worst since the 1930s and the failure of global regulation is all too apparent. This book explains systematically the conditions that make global regulatory capture possible and demonstrates through a wide range of case studies how it might be averted.”

—Joseph Stiglitz, Nobel Prize–winning economist

Cloth $65.00 978-0-691-13960-9

Rules for the Global Economy

Horst Siebert

With a foreword by Gary Hufbauer

“The global collapse frames our choice: either design new rules or risk disintegration. In this masterful volume, Horst Siebert explains why new rules must emerge ‘bottom-up’ from afflicted countries, not imposed ‘top-down’ by international bureaucrats.”

—Gary Clyde Hufbauer, Peterson Institute for International Economics

Cloth $49.50 978-0-691-13336-2

How Wars End

Dan Reiter

“A very fine book. How Wars End is the first serious attempt to integrate the information and commitment perspectives on war termination, and the first book that I am aware of to focus so systematically on the connection between war termination and war aims. It is hard to imagine how any course with a substantial focus on rationalist explanations of war could neglect to assign this book.”

The Political Economy of the World Bank The Early Years

MICHELE ALACEVICH

“Alacevich offers a fascinating account of the evolution of the World Bank’s loan operations in its early years and of the theory of economic development that informed its judgments and that of its advisers. The study shines very important light on changing World Bank priorities as between commercial and social sector loans, on project versus programme loans, and on the practical experiences that shaped the early thinking of some highly influential development economists. The lessons have continuing relevance today.”

Bankrupt Global Lawmaking and Systemic Financial Crisis

TERENCE C. HALLIDAY and
BRUCE G. CARRUTHERS

Through the lens of the Asian Financial Crisis, this book documents how international organizations—including the IMF, the World Bank, the United Nations, and international professional associations—and national governments crafted legal responses, through corporate bankruptcy reforms, to the fragility of financial markets in East Asia and worldwide.

The Association for Asian Studies Call For Papers

SOCIAL SCIENCE and POLICY-ORIENTED TOPICS
FOR THE 2010 MEETING
MARCH 25-28, PHILADELPHIA, PA

---

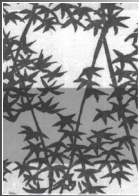

DEADLINE FOR RECEIPT OF ALL PROPOSALS:
AUGUST 7, 2009

The Association for Asian Studies (AAS) seeks to expand coverage of contemporary, social science, and policy-oriented issues at its 2010 meeting, with a critical mass of 50 high-profile panels.

Panels in currently underrepresented areas such as political science, sociology, economics, law, geography, and business are desired. Given the proximity to Washington, D.C., the participation of specialists in the government and think tanks there is likewise encouraged.

Please submit proposals for Organized Panels, Roundtables, Workshops, and Individual Papers for sessions to be created by the Committee.

The Committee seeks sessions that will engage panelists and audiences in the consideration of ideas, information, and interpretations that will advance knowledge about Asian regions and, by extension, will enrich teaching about Asia at all levels.

AAS looks forward to your collegueship at the Philadelphia meeting and to a program that reflects the dynamism of Asian studies and the AAS.
