Brazil and the Great Powers, 1930–1939 The Politics of Trade Rivalry

By Stanley E. Hilton

Foreword by José Honório Rodrigues

"Hilton has greatly enlarged our understanding of the way in which policy was determined in the Brazil of the 1930's. He shows clearly the relationship between President Vargas and his principal ministers, as well as the important role played at several junctures by domestic pressure groups."—Thomas E. Skidmore

The Ideal of the Practical Colombia's Struggle to Form a Technical Elite

By Frank Safford

The Ideal of the Practical is the first in-depth historical study of the problems involved in infusing technical knowledge and technical orientations into an aristocratic Latin American society. Frank Safford describes the efforts of Colombia's nineteenth-century political elites to introduce technical knowledge, skills, and value orientations into its aristocratic society, founded on a static agrarian economy. $15.00

The Prehistory of the Tehuacan Valley

Volume Five: Excavations and Reconnaissance

Richard S. MacNeish, General Editor

Excavations and Reconnaissance, the fifth volume in this distinguished series, gives the contextual interpretations of the basic raw data that led to this history of the Tehuacan region in one of the four pristine centers of plant domestication and primary civilizations—Mesoamerica. Although it describes, for chronological purposes, the contexts of many raw data utilized in the four previous volumes, Volume Five is the synthesis to which all the previous volumes have been gradually leading. It gives the final set of information derived from various techniques of data collection and attempts to interpret all the basic facts. $29.50

Markets in Oaxaca

Edited by Scott Cook and Martin Diskin

Foreword by Sidney W. Mintz

Markets in Oaxaca is an analysis of the regional peasant marketing system in the Valley of Oaxaca, Mexico. It relates the marketing system to other aspects of the regional economy, to the economy of neighboring regions, and to the Mexican national economy. $9.95

The Mexican Kickapoo Indians

By Felipe A. Latorre & Dolores L. Latorre

In their straightforward ethnographic description of the Kickapoo Indians of Coahuila, the Latorres discuss the Kickapoos' survival of geographical change, warfare, exploitation by inhabitants of neighboring regions, and the accelerating shock of mechanical progress. $15.95

Fields of the Tzotzil

The Ecological Bases of Tradition in Highland Chiapas

By George A. Collier

Here is the first study of social processes in contemporary highland Maya communities to encompass a regional view of the highlands of Chiapas as a system. The author views tradition as a dynamic process of adaptation by local systems to their placement in larger social and economic systems. $9.75

The Yanoama Indians A Cultural Geography

By William J. Smole

This is the only book to focus on the Yanoama highland core area—the Parima massif—and it is the first to analyze Yanoama horticulture as an integral part of their ecosystem. William J. Smole is concerned with the spatial dimension as developed in Yanoama culture and spatial patterns of functioning systems. $10.95

The Peruvian Experiment

Continuity and Change under Military Rule

Edited by ABRAHAM F. LOWENTHAL

Peru's self-proclaimed "revolution"—surprisingly extensive reforms initiated by the military government—has aroused great interest all over Latin America and the Third World. This book is the first systematic and comprehensive attempt to appraise Peru's current experiment in both national and regional perspective. Among the issues considered are the military regime's policies regarding income distribution, foreign investment, education, urbanization, worker-management relations, and land reform. "An extremely important and provocative analysis of one of the most interesting experiments in the Third World."—Alfred Stepan, Yale University

LATIN AMERICA IN THE YEAR 2000

Edited by noted Latin American expert Joseph S. Tulchin, this relevant new text offers the student a broad introduction to contemporary issues in Latin America and a detailed look at prospects for her future. A wide interdisciplinary coverage is achieved through the translation of the work of several distinguished Latin American authors, some of whom are appearing in English for the first time.

The articles discuss Latin America's perspective on development and give a realistic appraisal of dependence (without polemic) and its implications for the future.

To facilitate classroom use, the papers are grouped by theme and in increasing order of complexity. Taken together, these papers are an ideal introduction to contemporary and tomorrow's Latin America for either the beginning or advanced student.

Simply contact us and we'll send you an examination copy of this timely new text.

THE BRAZILIAN PEASANTRY

SHEPARD FORMAN

In this multilevel analysis, Dr. Forman investigates the sociocultural and economic context of Northeast Brazil from a peasant perspective. Among the topics covered in this exhaustive study are the economic, social, and political life of the Brazilian peasants, religious participation and fanaticism, the place of the peasant in the broader context of Brazilian society, and impediments to change in twentieth-century Brazilian society.
