

Research and Training Support

portion of the stipend may be exempt from federal income tax. Research facilities and support for publication may also be provided.

Candidates must submit: (1) a completed application form, and (2) a succinct description (no more than 6000 words) of the proposed research. Receipt of applications will be acknowledged. All applications must be received by December 12, 1980.

Fellows (up to five) will be selected by a committee of specialists from Columbia University and other institutions. Appointments will be announced in April 1981, and all applicants will be notified by letter.

For further information, write to: Linda Sokolski, Center for the Study of Human Rights, 704 International Affairs Building, Columbia University, New York, New York 10027; (212) 280-2479.

NEH 1981-82 Residential Fellowships for College Teachers

The National Endowment for the Humanities has announced Residential Fellowships for College Teachers that are intended for teachers in undergraduate and two-year colleges who wish to improve their teaching by increasing their own knowledge of the subjects they teach. The Fellowships are held at designated universities. Fellows participate in a seminar and undertake personal programs of study and research, of their own choosing, beyond the work of the seminar. These Fellowships offer a maximum stipend of $20,000. The deadline for applications for 1982-82 Fellowships is November 10, 1980, and notifications of awards will be made in mid-March, 1981. Further information and application forms may be obtained by writing to: Division of Fellowships and Seminars (MS 101), National Endowment for the Humanities, 806 15th Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20506.

Announcement of Awards

NSF Grant Awards in Research Initiation in the Applied Social and Behavioral Sciences

Nine political scientists were recently awarded grants by the National Science Foundation. They were among 170 applicants to a new program of research initiation in the applied social and behavioral sciences. Inaugurated in 1980, the program provides funding opportunities for assistant and associate professors who have received their doctoral degree within the past five years and have not previously been a principal investigator on a grant from the federal government. Proposals for applied scientific research on topics of the investigators choice are accepted. Details of the 1981 program may be obtained by contacting: Dr. Charles N. Brownstein, Program Manager, Division of Applied Research, National Science Foundation, Washington, D.C. 20550; (202) 357-7538.

The following is a list of awards made to political scientists in this program in 1980.

George Downs, University of California at Davis, Modeling Municipal Response to Revenue Constraints.

Donald Chamberlayne, Worcester Polytechnic Institute, A Composite Model for Mobility and Migration Analyses and Conditional Population Projections.

Peter Fisher, University of Iowa, Public Service Precision on the Urban Fringe.

Richard Hula, University of Texas at Dallas, Housing, Lending Institutions, and Public Policy.

Edward Morgan, Lehigh University, Local District Implementation of State School Finance Reform.

John Scholz, SUNY at Stony Brook, Corporate Regulatory Compliance.

James Seroka, Southern Illinois University, The Administration of Public Policy Decisions in Rural County Government Institutions.

Richard Weatherly, University of Washington, Interagency Coordination for Client Processing Implementation and Imput of the Washington State Involuntary Treatment Act.

John Witte, University of Wisconsin at Madison, The Classification and Politics of Tax Expenditures.

The International Social Science Council Stein Rokkan Prize in Comparative Research

The International Social Science Council, in conjunction with the Conjunto Universitário Candido Mendes (Rio de Janeiro) is setting up a bi-annual prize named after Stein Rokkan in homage to the memory of this great scholar, to be awarded every two years, starting in 1981, and amounting to U.S. $2,000.

The prize is intended to crown a seminal contribution in comparative social science research written in English, French or German, by a scholar under 40 years of age on December 31, 1981. It can be a manuscript or a printed book or collected works, in each case published after 1979.

Four copies of manuscripts typed double-spaced or of printed works shall be delivered together with a formal application for the prize to the International Social Science Council before March 31, 1981. Manuscripts and publications received shall not be returned.

Works submitted shall be evaluated by the International Social Science Council with the assistance of appropriate referee or referees, under the supervision of the European Consortium for Political Research (ECPR) and its chairman. The award shall be made by the ISSC General Assembly meeting in November 1981 on the recommendation of the ISSC Executive Committee. Its decision shall be final and not subject to appeal or revision.

The amount of the prize may be shared by two or more applicants, should it be found difficult to adjudicate between equally valuable works submitted.

For further inquiries, please apply in writing to: The Secretary-General, International Social Science Council, Unesco, 1 rue Miollis, 75015 Paris, France.

ACLS Grant

The American Council of Learned Societies has announced that James J. Best, associate professor of political science at Kent State University, has received a post-doctoral research grant-in-aid for post-doctoral research. His research is on "Art Editors and Illustrators, 1900-1910."

SSRC Fellowships and Grants

The Social Science Research Council has announced the following grants to political scientists:

International Doctoral Research Fellowships Africa, China, Japan, Korea, Latin America and the Caribbean, the Near and Middle East, South Asia, Southern Asia, Western Europe

Gregory J. Kasza, Ph.D. candidate in political science, Yale University, for research in Japan on the Home Ministry and the consolidation of Japan's military-bureaucratic state, 1936-1945.

Robert Martinez, Ph.D. candidate in political science, Yale University, for research in Spain on business elites.

Grants for International Post-Doctoral Research

Africa, China, Eastern Europe, Japan, Korea, Latin America and the Caribbean, the Near and Middle East, South Asia, Southeast Asia

Mark W. DeLancey, associate professor of government and international studies, University of South Carolina, for research in western Cameroon on the origins, development, and future role of the cooperative movement.

Lawrence R. Sullivan, assistant professor of political science, Wellesley College, for research in the United States and Hong Kong on the politics of authority in China as evidenced in the 1977-78 party-building campaign.

John C. Campbell, associate professor of political science, University of Michigan, for research in Japan on governmental policy toward the elderly.

Terry E. MacDougall, associate professor of government, Harvard University, for research in Japan on Asukata Ichio and the dilemmas of socialist leadership.

Sung-il Choi, associate professor of political science, Hobart and William Smith Colleges, for research in the United States on the primacy of politics and the subversion of democracy in South Korea, 1949-1979.

Chong-Sik Lee, associate professor of political science, University of Pennsylvania, for research in the United States on political leadership in Korea, 1945-1948.

Pierre-Michel Fontaine, associate professor of political science, University of California, Los Angeles, for research in Brazil on the relationship between race and class.

Shahrough Akhavi, associate professor of government and international studies, University of South Carolina, for research in Egypt on the political culture of Egyptian workers.

Thak Chaloemtiarana, associate professor of political science, Thammasat University, for research at Cornell University on dimensions of power, leader, and legitimacy in contemporary Thai society.

1980-81 Fulbright Awards to American Political Scientists

The Board of Foreign Scholarships and the U.S. International Communications Agency have announced 1980-81 awards to American political scientists for university teaching and advanced research abroad. The individuals and their projects are as follows:

Thomas A. Baylis, associate professor of political science, University of Texas, San Antonio. Research in the ideological elite in the German Democratic Republic. Free University of Berlin, Germany, 9/80-7/81.

Lynn D. Bender, professor of political science, Inter American University, Hato Rey, Puerto Rico. Lecture on U.S. foreign relations (constitutional, political and societal variables). National Autonomous University of Mexico, Mexico City, Mexico, 9/80-6/81.

Steven R. Brown, professor of political science, Kent State University, Ohio. Lecture on political science and research in psychosocial dynamics in a transitional society. Seoul National University, Korea, 3/80-7/80.

Research and Training Support

Walker Connor, professor of political science, SUNY Brockport, New York. Lecture on the American political system. Institute of Political Science, Higher Institute of Planning and Statistics, Warsaw, Poland, 9/80-6/81.

Russell J. Dalton, assistant professor of government, Florida State University, Tallahassee. Research in political change in the 1980 German federal elections. University of Mannheim, Germany, 7/80-3/81.

Mark W. DeLancey, associate professor of government and international studies, University of South Carolina, Columbia. Lecture on international relations. University of Yaounde, Cameroon, 9/80-6/81.

Irene Diamond, assistant professor of political science, Purdue University, Lafayette, Indiana. Research in pornography and violence against women. University of Copenhagen, Denmark, 2/81-6/81.

David W. P. Elliot, assistant professor of government and international relations, Pomona College, Claremont, California, Study Seminar in Philippines, Indonesia, Malaysia, Singapore, and Thailand, 6/80-8/80.

Fred M. Hayward, professor and chairman of African studies, University of Wisconsin, Madison. Lecture on comparative and international politics. University of Sierra Leone, Freetown, 9/80-6/81.

Douglas A. Hibbs, Jr., professor of government, Harvard University, Cambridge, Massachusetts. Research on time series analysis. University of Gothenburg, Sweden, 3 months during 1980-81.

Marilyn B. Hoskin, assistant professor of political science, SUNY Buffalo, Amherst, New York. Lecture on education and political involvement. University of Mannheim, Germany, 9/80-6/81.

Ronald F. Inglehart, associate professor of political science, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor. Lecture at the 1980 Kyoto American Studies Seminar, Japan, 7/80-8/80.

Yung-Hwan Jo, professor of political science, Arizona State University, Tempe. Lecture and research on contemporary and future economic/political relations among Pacific nations. Keio University and University of Tsukuba, Japan, 10/80-7/81.

Harvery F. Kline, associate professor of political science, University of Massachusetts, Amherst. Research in Colombian energy policy. Universidad de los Andes, Bogota, Colombia, 9/80-3/81.

Linda M. La Rue, assistant professor of political science, SUNY Purchase, New York. Lecture on political theory and American black experience. University of Yaounde, Cameroon, 9/80-7/81 (renewal).

Robert Leonardi, assistant professor of political science, De Paul University, Chicago, Illinois. Lecture on institutionalization of the Italian Republic legislative outputs, 1948-1979. University of Catania, Italy, 2/81-6/81.

Ronald H. McDonald, professor of political science, Syracuse University, New York. Lecture on social science and methodology trends and techniques. University Republic, Montevideo, Uruguay, 4/80.

Eusebio M. Mujal-Leon, Silver Spring, Maryland. Research on PCE party issues, policies, organizational strategy. Spain, 5/80-9/80.

Richard A. Nuccio, assistant professor of political science, Williams College, Williamstown, Massachusetts. Research on world economy. Centro de Investigaciones y Docencia Economicas, Mexico City, 1/81-6/81.

Walter C. Opello, Jr., assistant professor of political science, University of Mississippi, University. Lecture on public administration. Instituto Nacional de Administracao, Lisbon, Portugal, 2/81-6/81.

Robert L. Rau, associate professor of political science, U.S. Naval Academy, Annapolis, Maryland. Study seminar in Philippines, Indonesia, Malaysia, Singapore, and Thailand, 6/80-8/80.

Mark S. Schneider, associate professor of political science, SUNY Stony Brook, New York. Lecture on American government, public administration and urban policies. Osmania University, Hyderabad, India, 10/80-12/80.

James Seroka, assistant professor of political science, Southern Illinois University, Carbondale. Research on implementation of secondary school reform program. University of Belgrade, Yugoslavia, 9/80-1/81.

Don C. Shin, associate professor of political studies/public affairs, Sangamon State University, Springfield, Illinois. Lecture on political science and research in the quality of life in Korea. Institute of Social Sciences, Seoul National University, Korea, 9/80-7/81.

W. Phillips Shively, professor of political science, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis. Lecture on comparative politics and contemporary research methodology. University of Oslo, Norway, 7/80-1/81.

Josef Silverstein, professor of political science, Rutgers University, New Brunswick, New Jersey. Study seminar in Philippines, Indonesia, Malaysia, Singapore, and Thailand, 6/80-8/80.

William C. Smith, Center for Latin American Studies, Stanford University, California. Lecture and research on political science, emphasis on comparative politics of Latin America. Federal University Minas Gerais, Brazil, 5/80-4/81.

Robert H. Trudeau, assistant professor of political science, Providence College, Rhode Island. Courses in political science and international politics and collaborative research at the Center for Political and Social Research. Rafael Lindivar University, Guatemala City, Guatemala, 2/80-12/80.

Richard F. Weisfelder, associate professor of political science, University of Toledo, Ohio. Lecture on African politics and international relations. University of Botswana and Swaziland, Gaborone, 8/80-7/81 (renewal).

1980-81 German Politics Group Interns

The interns listed below have been appointed by the Conference Group on German Politics (CGGP), an independent voluntary organization of scholars, for the 1980-81 period. Interns serve for varying periods as work-study interns in German governmental or quasi-governmental offices. This innovative program was begun in 1965 through arrangements in Berlin with the West Berlin Senate, and later has been extended to other offices as time and finances permit. At present, interns are funded by the offices concerned or through travel and other subsidies—as available—from the Deutscher Akademischer Austauschdienst.

The programs have been successful in identifying and encouraging a new generation of scholars interested in German affairs. Former interns are now in the U.S. foreign service, teaching at various institutions in the United States or Canada, holding positions in international organizations or foundations (e.g., as assistant director of the Aspen Institute Berlin) or in the world of politics and business.

The 1980-81 interns are:

Sharon Kegrreis, B.A. candidate, history, Yale University. Informationszentrum Berlin, summer 1980.

Susan Murbay, B.A. candidate, German and international studies, University of New Hampshire. Informationszentrum Berlin, two months, autumn 1980.

Thomas Buckley, M.A. candidate in international affairs, University of Pittsburgh. Informationszentrum Berlin, two months, autumn 1980.

David Detweiler, Ph.D. candidate, international affairs, Johns Hopkins University. Deutsche Gesellschaft für Auswärtige Politik, Bonn and Haus Rissen, Hamburg, beginning summer 1980, indefinite period.

Carolina Deuerling, B.A. candidate, political science, Pomona College, California. Regierungspräsidium Köln, two months (tentative).

Sylvia Schatz, B.A. candidate, German and political science, University of Michigan. Deutscher Bundestag, Bonn, summer 1980 (Büro der Präsidentin).