

NEWS AND NOTES

PROFESSIONAL CONFERENCES

The Midwest Conference of Political Scientists held its twenty-second annual meeting April 30 to May 2 at the University of Wisconsin, with over 500 persons in attendance. General sessions of the conference were addressed by President C. Herman Pritchett of the American Political Science Association on the topic, "Political Questions and Judicial Answers," and by Dean James F. Crow of the University of Wisconsin Medical School on "Some Possible Human Consequences of New Knowledge in Genetics."

Panel sessions were devoted to a wide variety of topics covering such areas as the United Nations, Judicial decision making, civil rights, party leadership and organization, the radical right, Latin America and many others.

Special sessions were held for the organization of a midwest division of the International Studies Association and for the orientation of new members to the profession.

New officers of the organization are: John E. Stoner, Indiana University, president; Clara Penniman, University of Wisconsin, vice-president; and as members of the executive council, Clark F. Norton, DePauw University and David Spitz, Ohio State University.

The 1965 meeting of the Conference will be held at Indiana University on April 22-24. The program chairman is John E. Turner, University of Minnesota.

The Iowa Conference of Political Scientists held its 1964 annual meeting at Iowa State University, Ames, Iowa, on April 11.

The Conference discussed Iowan county finances, anti-Americanism in Latin America and the academic preparation of Iowan high school teachers of government.

The new officers of the organization are: president, Erma Plaehn, State College of Iowa; secretary, Charles Clark, Upper Iowa University; members of the executive committee, James Magee, Grinnell College; Rev. Robert Ferring, Loras College; George Reynolds, Buena Vista College; Samuel Patterson, State University of Iowa; Donald Hadwiger, Iowa State University; Paul Willis, Drake University; Joseph Board, Cornell College; Stuart Ringham, Luther College; and Dean Yarwood, Coe College.

The annual meeting of the Southern Political Science Association will be held at the Jack Tarr Hotel, Durham, North Carolina, on November 12, 13 and 14, 1964.

The fortieth session of the Institute of World Affairs was held December 1-4, 1963 in Pasadena, California, under the direction of James T. Watkins IV of Stanford University.

The theme of the Institute was the Grand Design and the daily programs dealt with the subjects: The Grand Design: Atlantic or European, The Grand Design and the Seven Seas, and the Grand Design in the United Nations.

Ross N. Berkes of the University of Southern California, the director of the forty-first session has selected "Power and Responsibility" as the theme of the meeting to be held December 6-9, 1964 in Pasadena.

OTHER ACTIVITIES

The Ford Foundation has awarded a grant to the Africa Studies Association for the production of a comprehensive descriptive guide to Africa-related archival and manuscript sources extant in this country. Complete in itself, the Guide will serve as the United States' national volume of the projected "Guide to the Sources of African History" outside of Africa, sponsored by the UNESCO-affiliated International Council on Archives. The Guide will cover the archive holdings of American government agencies, commercial concerns, religious and missionary groups and other non-commercial organizations. Africa-related papers of private individuals or families will be covered if they have been retired to depository custody. There will be no chronological limitations on coverage. For the purposes of the Guide, Africa is defined as the entire continent, plus the adjacent coastal islands, including Madagascar and the Mascarenes.

Persons having knowledge of archive and manuscript sources on Africa in this country are asked to contact Mr. Morris Rieger, Director, National African Guide Project, National Historical Publications Commission, National Archives and Records Service, Washington, D. C. 20408.

The Society for Religion in Higher Education is offering a number of post-doctoral fellowships to encourage the growing interest in the relation of scholarship in religion to scholarship in other fields of study. These fellowships are made possible through a grant from The Danforth Foundation.

Grants are available to: (1) Scholars in the humanities, social and natural sciences for a year of study in religion and (2) scholars in religion for a year of study in another discipline.

These fellowships are open to scholars in any institution of higher learning in the United States or Canada without respect to discipline, religious affiliation or non-affiliation. Scholars applying for these fellowship grants must have a Ph.D. degree or its equivalent plus at least three years of teaching experience. Preference will be given to scholars under 50 years of age.

Maximum stipend is $8,500. Stipends will be based on experience, present salary and availability of other resources.

Completed applications must be received by December 1, 1964. Application forms and additional information may be secured from: Lawrence P. DeBoer, Executive Director, The Society for Religion in Higher Education, 400 Prospect Street, New Haven, Connecticut 06511.

Scholars interested in collaborating with each other in political and social studies of China and Japan between 1900 and 1945, are invited to associate themselves with the Collaborative Studies of China and Japan. Inquiries should be directed to Donald G. Gillin, Department of History, Duke University, Durham, N. C., or to Tamatsu Takase, Hoover Institution, Stanford University, Stanford, California.

For publication in the 1965 issue of its Research Bulletin on Intergroup Relations, the Society for the Study of Social Problems and a number of other cooperating organizations are conducting a census of research underway in 1964 in the general area of their interest. If you are engaged in any such research and wish to be included in the census, address a request for the questionnaire form to Mr. Morton J. Sobel, Director, National Department of Colleges and Universities, Anti-Defamation League, 315 Lexington Ave., New York, N. Y. 10016.

SSRC GRANTS FOR RESEARCH ON INTERNATIONAL ORGANIZATION

In this program initiated in 1963-64 support is offered to social scientists possessing the Ph.D. or its equivalent for field studies of multilateral processes in international affairs, with emphasis on change in activities of agencies, in relationships between agencies and governments, and in organizational patterns. The committee administering the program will welcome proposals for research, for example, on changes over time in objectives and roles of international organizations; new multilateral arrangements for the advancement of common purposes; political or technical interaction among international organizations or between organizations and governments or regional groups; and the experience of organizations in attempting to influence policies of governments in such areas as public health, economic integration, or political development. The committee wishes to encourage comparative studies of relationships and agencies, and research that may contribute to the development of theory; it is especially interested in proposals for studies of regional organizations and relevant movements and forces in Latin America, Asia, Africa and the Middle East.

Prospective applicants are invited to write to the Social Science Research Council, 230 Park Avenue, New York, N. Y. 10017, by December 1, 1964. Letters should describe the substance and method of the proposed research in some detail. Previous research in the field of international organization is not required of applicants. The committee may invite qualified persons in the United States or abroad to undertake research under this program in order to broaden the range of comparative studies.

Stipends may provide for maintenance in lieu of salary for a year or longer, and for travel expenses. Research may be undertaken in 1965-66, or 1966-67.

SSRC PROGRAMS

The Social Science Research Council's programs of Research Training Fellowships, Faculty Research Fellowships, and Grants-in-Aid of Research have been under review, and it was not yet certain in June what form these would take for 1965-66.

The Council will again offer grants to mature scholars, not candidates for degrees, on essentially the same basis as before, for research on American Governmental and Legal Processes, and for Research on International Organization.

Under joint sponsorship of the SSRC and the American Council of Learned Societies, several programs of Fellowships and grants for training and research on certain foreign areas will be continued; inquiries concerning these should be directed respectively to the offices indicated:

Grants to mature scholars for research on Africa, Contemporary China, Latin America, and the Near and Middle East are administered by the SSRC; for research in Asian Studies and in Slavic and East European Studies, by the ACLS

345 East 46th Street, New York, N. Y. 10017.

Fellowships for training in foreign area studies are administered by the Foreign Area Fellowship Program, 444 Madison Avenue, New York, N. Y. 10022.

Inquiries, and requests for a final announcement to be issued in late September, should be addressed to Social Science Research Council Fellowships and Grants, 230 Park Avenue, New York, N. Y. 10017.

To avoid missing deadlines, prospective applicants should correspond with the appropriate office by early October.
