

Disasters

The Journal of Disaster Studies and Management
Edited by CHARLES MELVILLE (Faculty of Oriental Studies, University of Cambridge)

Disasters is a forum for the exchange of ideas and expertise in all forms of disaster from sudden onset disasters such as earthquakes and floods to famines and refugee migration. Recent issues have covered Famines and Food Emergencies (experience and lessons from the African Food Crises, drought in Mali, Sudan, Botswana); Disasters and Development (the impact of drought and sudden impact disasters on agriculture, and subsequent rehabilitation); Sudden Onset Disasters (earthquakes in Japan, floods in Bangladesh).

The Food of China

E. N. ANDERSON

A comprehensive, entertaining historical and ethnographic account of Chinese food, from the Bronze Age to the twentieth century. After showing how food has been central to Chinese governmental policies, religious rituals and health practices from the earliest times, E. N. Anderson turns to present-day China describing in rich and enticing detail the regional varieties in Chinese diet, food preparation, and rituals of eating and drinking.

Decolonization and African Independence

The Transfers of Power, 1960-1980
edited by PROSSER GIFFORD and
WM. ROGER LOUIS

What has independence in Africa actually meant, and what has it accomplished? In this book, some of the most distinguished authorities on Africa — many of them African historians writing about their own countries — assess the conditions in each country at the time of the transfer of political authority and analyse the consequences of the ways in which independence was achieved. 736 pp. £30.00

The Punjab under Imperialism, 1885-1947

Imran Ali

The Punjab—an area now divided between Pakistan and India—experienced significant economic growth under British rule from the second half of the nineteenth century. This expansion was founded on the construction of an extensive network of canals in the western parts of the province. The ensuing agricultural settlement transformed the previously barren area into one of the most important regions of commercial agriculture in South Asia.

Nevertheless, Imran Ali argues that colonial strategy distorted the development of what came to be called the "bread basket" of the Indian subcontinent. This comprehensive survey of British rule in the Punjab demonstrates that colonial policy making led to many of the socio-economic and political problems currently plaguing Pakistan and Indian Punjab.

The Artisans of Banaras

Popular Culture and Identity, 1880-1986

Nita Kumar

Nita Kumar offers an evocative and sensitive portrayal of rarely explored aspects of Hindu culture through her analysis of the way leisure time is used by Hindu and Muslim artisans of Banaras—the weavers, metalworkers, and woodworkers. Music, festivals, the place of physical culture, and the importance of going "to the outer side" all are examined as Kumar looks at changes that have occurred in leisure-time activities over the last century.

The discussion raises questions of the cultural and conceptual aspects of working-class life, the role of fun and play in Indian thought, the importance of public activities in terms of personal identity, and the meaning of an Indian city to its residents.

The Blue-Eyed Enemy

Japan against the West in Java and Luzon, 1942-1945

Theodore Friend

The Blue-Eyed Enemy is a comprehensive account of the interwoven histories of the three major archipelago-nations of the West Pacific during the years of the Second World War. Theodore Friend examines Japanese colonialism in Indonesia and the Philippines as an example of recurring patterns of domination and repression in that region. He depicts Japanese rule in Greater East Asia as expressive of the folly of the general who exhorted his troops "to annihilate the blue-eyed enemy and their black slaves." At the same time he clearly shows where the return of Western power aimed at new links between conqueror and conquered, or lords and bondsmen.

State and Scholars in T'ang China

D. L. McMULLEN

Dr McMullen studies the main academic agencies of the T'ang dynasty in China (AD 618-906) and shows how they provided the context for much of the scholarly writing that survives, and how the attitudes of the intellectual elite towards them changed in the three centuries of T'ang rule.
