CAMBRIDGE BOOKS

The Japanese Enlightenment

CARMEN BLACKER

A critical study of Fukuzawa Yukichi, foremost advocate of modernisation for Japan in the late nineteenth century. To discipline her material advancement Fukuzawa propounded certain doctrines as a basis for a new Japanese way of life. Dr Blacker examines his concept of useful knowledge, his ethical values, his practical morality for everyday life and his theory of political obligation. University of Cambridge Oriental Publications, No. 10. 30s. net

Ancient Iraq

GEORGES ROUX

Year after year, for more than a century, archaeological excavations have brought to light monuments and texts that have enormously increased our knowledge of the events that took place and of the civilization which flourished in antiquity between the Tigris and Euphrates. Much has been published on this subject but this is the first overall political, cultural and economic history of ancient Mesopotamia. Illustrated 50s.

The God-Possessed

J. LACARRIERE

During the third century there appeared in Egypt, Palestine and Syria men who were 'God-possessed'. They took the road to the desert to free themselves of their human state, abandoning the life of the flesh in the permanent contemplation of God. This is an attempt to answer the surrounding mystery of their motives and achievement. Illustrated 35s.

Japanese Rainmaking

GEOFFREY BOWNAS

The ritual of rainmaking is one of half a dozen Japanese folk practices or festivals described. The chapters follow the year cycle, starting with the New Year and proceeding by way of the early summer purificatory festivals and rainmaking ceremonial to the Feast of Bon. As well as these public Festivals, the private family rituals of birth, marriage and death are covered. Illustrated 25s.

Love Songs of Vidyapati

Edited by W. G. ARCHER

Vidyapati was a fourteenth-century Indian poet famous for his love songs. These songs treat Radha and Krishna as ideal lovers whose idyllic romance embodies many vital phases of human experience. This book comprises 100 new translations of Vidyapati's work made by Deben Bhattacharya with an introduction and notes by W. G. Archer. Illustrated 28s.
