

Association News

Name	Affiliation	Office
Thomas P. Melady	Sacred Heart University	Educational Task Force and Foreign Policy Work Group
Robert G. Neuman	Georgetown University	State Department (Team Director)
Roger B. Porter	Harvard University	Director of Planning and Evaluation and Executive Director of the Economic Policy Coordinating Committee
W. Scott Thompson	The Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy	Defense Advisory Group
John Tower	U.S. Senate	Interim Foreign Policy Advisory Board
Richard F. Staar	Hoover Institution	Office of Policy Coordination
William Van Cleave	University of Southern California	Department of Defense (Head of Team)

*Additions and/or corrections to this list are welcome.

Political Scientists in Elected Public Office—An Update

Two political scientists were elected to the United States Congress in the 1980

Dr. John P. East of the Department of Political Science, East Carolina University, who was elected to the United States Senate from North Carolina in November, 1980.

elections, John P. East of North Carolina University to the Senate from North Carolina, and Larry De Nardis, the chairman of the Department of Political Science, Albertus Magnus College, to the House of Representatives from the 3rd District of Connecticut. Earl M. Baker of Temple University was reelected as a County Commissioner of Chester County, Pennsylvania. PS will welcome names of other political scientists who have been elected recently to federal, state or local office.

Political Scientist College and University Presidents

Two political scientists have recently been named Presidents of colleges and universities. They are Nannerl O. Keohane of Stanford University, who has been named President of Wellesley College, and Albert Somit of SUNY Buffalo, who has been named President of Southern Illinois University at Carbondale. PS continues to be interested in learning of political scientists who are or have served as Presidents of institutions of higher learning.