GRANTS FOR RESEARCH ON INTERNATIONAL ORGANIZATION

A New Program Offered by the Social Science Research Council

In this new program, support is offered to social scientists possessing the Ph.D. or its equivalent for field studies of multilateral processes in international affairs, with emphasis on change in activities of agencies, in relationships between agencies and governments, and in organizational patterns. The committee administering the program will welcome proposals for research, for example, on changes over time in objectives and roles of international organizations; new multilateral arrangements for the advancement of common purposes; political or technical interaction among international organizations or between organizations and governments or regional groups; and the experience of organizations in attempting to influence policies of governments in such areas as public health, economic integration, or political development. The committee wishes to encourage comparative studies of relationships and agencies, and research that may contribute to the development of theory.

Prospective applicants are invited to write to the Social Science Research Council, 230 Park Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10017, by February 1, 1964, and preferably as early as possible in the academic year 1963-1964. Letters should describe the substance and method of the proposed research in some detail. Previous research in the field of international organization is not required of applicants. The committee may invite qualified persons in the United States or abroad to undertake research under this program in order to broaden the range of comparative studies.

Stipends may provide for maintenance in lieu of salary for a year or longer, and for travel expenses. Research may be undertaken in 1964-1965 or 1965-1966.
