

Editorial Note

Leicester University Press intends to continue to publish the Yearbook as a research tool and forum of discussion for urban historians, and hopes to maintain its international coverage. The Editorial Board are particularly concerned to encourage the publication of articles and invite contributions on methodological problems, wide-ranging bibliographical surveys, and discussions of major themes in urban history. Intending contributors should contact Dr D. A. Reeder, School of Education, 21 University Road, Leicester. For this issue, the editorial work was shared in the normal way: apart from the named contributions, Joyce Ellis updated the register of research, David Reeder was again responsible for putting the review section together, and Diana Dixon and Anthony Sutcliffe composed the bibliography as before. Diana Dixon also compiled the list of writings to accompany the appreciation of the late Professor H. J. Dyos.

Urban History Yearbook 1978: Correction

In the Urban History Yearbook 1978 there was a printing error in the article by Paul Laxton on p. 76. The heading to table 2 should read:

Table 2 The relative size of Anglican church registers in Liverpool from Bills of Mortality
1777-1787 1810-1812
