Surrealist Love Poems

Edited by Mary Ann Caws

"Erotic, impassioned and necrophilic . . . Caws places poems by major surrealist writers like André Breton and Paul Eluard, along with the poetry of Picasso, Dalí and Frida Kahlo, side by side with 14 lushly printed and alluring b&w photos by the likes of Man Ray, Lee Miller and Claude Cahun."—Publishers Weekly

History of the Surrealist Movement

Gérard Durozoi

"With its unprecedented depth and range, this massive new history of Surrealism from veteran French philosopher and art critic Durozoi will be the one-volume standard for years to come. . . . The book discusses expertly the main surrealist artists . . . but also treats with considerable understanding the surrealist writing by Louis Aragon, Paul Eluard, Robert Desnos, Julien Gracq and, of course, the so-called 'Pope of Surrealism,' André Breton. . . . This book should turn up in all serious collections on 20th century art."

Landscape and Power

Second Edition

Edited by W. J. T. Mitchell

The first edition of this book, published in 1994, reshaped the direction of landscape studies by considering landscape not simply as an object to be seen or a text to be read, but as an instrument of cultural force, a central tool in the creation of national and social identities. This second edition adds not only a new preface, but five new essays—from Edward Said, W. J. T. Mitchell, Jonathan Bordo, Michael Taussig, and Robert Pogue Harrison—extending the scope of the book in remarkable ways.

Geography of the Gaze

Urban and Rural Vision in Early Modern Europe

Renzo Dubbini

Translated by Lydia G. Cochrane

Geography of the Gaze offers a new history and theory of how the way we look at things influences what we see. Focusing on Western Europe from the seventeenth to nineteenth centuries, Renzo Dubbini shows how developments in science, art, mapping, and visual epistemology affected the ways natural and artificial landscapes were perceived and portrayed.

The Reinvention of Obscenity

Sex, Lies, and Tabloids in Early Modern France

Joan DeJean

"Joan DeJean's new book is a fascinating study that like so much of her work identifies some of the sources of our own modernity in practices and concepts that emerged and took characteristic form in seventeenth-century France. It is masterfully written, beautifully conceived, convincingly argued, tellingly organized, and a delight to read."—Ross Chambers, author of The Writing of Melancholy: Modes of Opposition in Early French Modernism

The Wild Girl, Natural Man, and the Monster

Dangerous Experiments in the Age of Enlightenment

Julia V. Douthwaite

"The Wild Girl, Natural Man, and the Monster is powerfully argued, carefully crafted, and above all original. Through well-judged case studies Douthwaite juxtaposes questions of gender, the wild and the civilized, and nature and society in a most illuminating manner."

Ideally suited for courses emphasizing writing about literature, The Compact Bedford Introduction to Literature offers all the distinctive features of Michael Meyer's best-selling introduction to literature in a shorter, less expensive paperback format.

Stories, poems, and plays that students will read and remember are at the heart of a text that compels students to think and write critically about literature. The features that have made both editions so successful are all here, including integrated coverage of writing about literature; favorite authors treated in depth; useful tools for critical thinking about literature; fascinating critical and cultural case studies; and an extensive spiral-bound instructor's manual. The sixth edition gives students exciting new readings, more tools for thinking critically about literature, and better coverage of writing about literature — plus a fully integrated companion Web site. No other compact introduction to literature offers such a range of resources.

The companion Web site features:

The VirtuaLit Interactive Poetry Tutorial
Where constant interaction engages students in close reading.

LitLinks Online Research Links
Where pre-selected links bring literature to life.

LitQuiz Online Quizzes
Where students test themselves on every story, play, and element of poetry.

Multimedia Project Guides
Where students get help finding and evaluating online materials for innovative projects.
