Hokkaido

Its Present State of Development and Future Prospects

F. C. JONES

The beginning of the Japanese settlement of Hokkaido is described and the island's importance in relation to Japan's economy as a whole is discussed. The author concludes that mass emigration, not being a practical proposition, would not solve Japan's population problem, but that Hokkaido is important to the growth of her industrial production and foreign trade. ## MICRO EDITION OF OUT-OF-PRINT R.A.S. PUBLICATIONS

Arrangements have been made for the micro recording of the Journal of the Royal Asiatic Society. The micro edition will be issued by Micro Methods, Limited, of East Ardsley, Wakefield, Yorkshire, to whom application should be made.

The micro recordings will be issued in sets of approximately ten years at a price of £2 per annum (i.e. £20 for a ten year set). The sets will cover the periods 1834-1909 and 1919-1948.

Once micro recording has been completed it will be possible to supply individual articles in photographic form. These photocopies will only be available from the publishers to whom requests must be made.

The advantages of micro recording in the saving of space are well known. Any further action about this service can be obtained from Micro Methods, Limited.

JOURNAL OF SEMITIC STUDIES

edited by

H. H. ROWLEY, Professor of Hebrew Language and Literature in the University of Manchester,

and

P. R. WEIS, Nathan Laski Senior Lecturer in Post-Biblical Jewish Studies, Manchester, published with the support of the

ISAAC WOLFSON FOUNDATION

The Journal of Semitic Studies is now in its fourth year. It is being welcomed throughout the world both for the scholarship of its articles and for the important book review section.

The field of study is a broad one, and the Journal includes articles of linguistic, literary, historical, archaeological, and cultural interest. Jewish studies are especially represented, covering the whole period of Israel's history, save that current affairs are not included. Arabic and Accadian studies have their place also.

Common Ground said of Volume I, Number 1: "This is a literary venture of the highest importance and, moreover, something in the nature of an innovation. For in this Journal Hebrew and Old Testament literature will be treated in the wider context of Studia Semitica which include Arabic and Accadian. Outstanding scholars have written articles for the early issues and, if we may judge from the standard of the present one, the Journal is assured of a warm welcome from a discerning section of the reading public. Even for the comparative layman there is much which is not only instructive but stimulating."
