

NEWS AND NOTES

PERSONAL AND MISCELLANEOUS

Compiled by the Managing Editor

The forty-first annual meeting of the American Political Science Association will be held at Philadelphia, March 28-30, with headquarters at the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel. A preliminary program will be mailed to members about March 1.

Professor Quincy Wright has returned from his service as technical advisor to Mr. Biddle, American member of the International Military Tribunal, and has resumed his duties at the University of Chicago.

Professor Taylor Cole, of Duke University, has recently accepted the editorship of the Journal of Politics, published by the Southern Political Science Association.

Professor Graham H. Stuart is on leave from Stanford University for a period of three months and is in Tangier drawing up a new charter for the International City, as a representative of the Department of State.

Professor Clarence A. Berdahl, of the University of Illinois, lectured at St. Olaf College in November on "The San Francisco Conference and Some Problems of the United Nations Organization."

Professor Floyd Reeves has returned to the University of Chicago from a tour of duty in Italy in connection with the Army Educational Program.

Dr. John D. Tomlinson, formerly professor of political science at Wabash College, was appointed in September, 1945, chief of the Social and Economic Section of the United Nations Preparatory Commission in London.

Mr. John M. Payne, who holds degrees from Pomona College and the University of Cincinnati, has been appointed director of the Citizens' Research Institute of Los Angeles as of January 1, 1946.

Professor Simeon E. Leland is on leave from the University of Chicago during the winter quarter in order to advise the government of Panama concerning the reorganization of its tax system.

Professor Lloyd M. Short, of the University of Minnesota, has been made a member of the Committee on Education and Social Security of the American Council on Education.

Mr. Robert Strausz-Hupé, of the University of Pennsylvania, addressed the Army Industrial College on December 11 in Washington on the subject of "Atomic Energy and Its Political Implications." He also lectured on "National Resources and Foreign Policy" at the Franklin Institute in Philadelphia during December.

Mr. Hubert H. Humphrey, Jr., a former teaching assistant in the department of political science at the University of Minnesota, is now serving as mayor of Minneapolis. His secretary is Mr. Arthur Naftalin, also a former teaching assistant in the department.

At the University of Pennsylvania, Associate Professor Bradford W. West has returned from service with the Wage Administration Agency of the War Department, and Assistant Professor John P. Horlacher has resumed his teaching after serving as executive director of the Wage Stabilization Division of the Third Regional War Labor Board.

Dr. Lashley G. Harvey, executive secretary of the Bureau of Government Research at the University of New Hampshire, has returned to his duties after an absence of three years as Lieutenant Commander in the U. S. Naval Reserve. He spent seven months with the Military Government Planning Section in Hawaii and seven months in Saipan in the operational end of Military Government.

Mr. Robert Runo, who recently received his honorable discharge from the U. S. Navy, has accepted an appointment as instructor in political science at Roosevelt College, Chicago. Professor Floyd Reeves is a member of the board of trustees and Professor Leonard D. White a member of the Advisory Committee on Education.

Dr. Lynwood M. Holland, who received his degree at the University of Illinois last June, taught at Emory University last summer and is now assistant professor of political science at the University of Arizona.

Mr. Howard R. Tolley, chief of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics in the Department of Agriculture, served as alternate member, representing the United States, at the conference of the Food and Agricultural Organization of the United Nations in October, 1945, at Quebec, Canada.

Following his recent release from the U. S. Army, Dr. Andrew Gyorgy was appointed assistant professor of government at the University of New Hampshire. He is in charge of the courses on comparative government, international relations, and American foreign policy.

Dr. Richard G. Browne, associate professor of social science, Illinois State Normal University, presided at a joint section of the American Political Science Association and the National Council for the Social Studies on November 23, 1945, in Milwaukee. The subject of discussion was teaching citizenship in the Atomic Age.

Lt. William G. Torpey, on furlough from the position of head of the Civil Service Personnel Office, Third Naval District Headquarters, New York City, has been appointed Personnel Officer, U. S. Maritime Service Headquarters, Washington, D. C. Prior to his recent appointment, Lt. Torpey served as administrative assistant to the Assistant Commandant, U. S. M. S. Headquarters.

Professor Harvey Pinney, on leave of absence from the department of government, Washington Square College, New York University, died in Washington on November 22, 1945. In September, Professor Pinney was appointed head of the History Branch of the Office of Price Administration, with which organization he had been connected since the spring of 1942.

Dr. Marbury B. Ogle, Jr., formerly with the Research and Analysis Branch of the Office of Strategic Services, Washington, D. C., has been appointed to an associate professorship in the department of history, economics, and government at Purdue University.

Dr. Spencer D. Albright, formerly lecturer in political science at the University of Washington, has recently been promoted to the grade of captain in the Army Air Corps and has been transferred from Santa Ana, California, to the A. A. F. Training Command Headquarters, Fort Worth, Texas. Captain Albright is assigned to the Historical Section.

At the University of Pennsylvania, Dr. Philip E. Jacob has been appointed assistant professor and Dr. Lincoln Smith instructor.

Dr. Roland G. Usher, Jr., has been added to the staff of Butler University as assistant professor of history and political science.

Dr. Richard H. Heindel, formerly of the University of Pennsylvania, has been made acting chief of the new Division of Libraries and Institutes in the Office of International Information and Cultural Affairs of the Department of State.

After service in England with the Office of War Information and later with the Office of Strategic Services, Dr. Irwin M. Tobin, assistant professor of political science at Rhode Island State College, has been appointed a specialist on the British Commonwealth of Nations in the new Division of International Labor, Health, and Social Affairs in the Department of State.

Dr. Charles G. Fenwick, formerly of Bryn Mawr College, and now with the Inter-American Juridical Commission in Rio de Janeiro, has been nominated by Venezuela for membership in the United Nations International Court of Justice.

Dr. James L. McCamy has been appointed director of the Office of World Trade Policy in the Department of Commerce. He returned to the United States in September after nine months as economic adviser to the United States Forces in the occupation of Austria, having been stationed in Italy before entering Austria in early June. Until assuming his present post, he worked on the reorganization of that part of the Commerce Department which deals with international affairs.

At the Johns Hopkins University, V. O. Key, Jr. has been advanced to the rank of professor and Malcolm Moos has been promoted to an associate professorship. Mr. Key recently returned to the University after three years' service with the Bureau of the Budget.

Dr. Kimon A. Doukas, on temporary service with the State Department, was appointed to the staff of the American Section of the Inter-Allied Mission which has gone to Greece at the invitation of the Greek Government to observe the elections of March 31.

For five weeks during November and December, Professor John G. Herndon, of Haverford College, was in London as a member of the Philadelphia delegation urging upon the Preparatory Commission the selection of Philadelphia as the permanent seat of the United Nations Organization. During his absence, his classes were met by Professors Frank D. Watson, of Haverford College, and W. Brooke Graves, of Bryn Mawr College.

After serving as an economist with the Foreign Economic Administration at Washington for three years, Dr. Eric Dale has received an appointment by the War Department to serve in the same capacity with the U. S. Military Government for Germany and left for Berlin at the beginning of January.

A Philippine Foreign Affairs Training Program designed to assist the Filipinos in preparing for the conduct of their own foreign relations when independence is achieved on July 4, 1946, is now functioning within the Department of State. Mr. Frank P. Lockhart, chief of the Division of Philippine Affairs, is in over-all charge, and Mr. E. W. Mill, acting assistant chief of the Division, is supervising the day-to-day work of the trainees.

At Hunter College of the City of New York, Dr. Ruth G. Weintraub has been promoted to an associate professorship and Dr. Ellen E. Brennan to an assistant professorship. In November, Dr. Brennan was admitted to the Bar of the State of New York.

Mr. Clarence Senior has left the Pan American Branch of the Foreign Economic Administration to become visiting professor at the University of Puerto Rico and acting director of the Social Science Research Center. In addition to his teaching, he will study the land redistribution program.

Dr. Paul A. Palmer has returned to his duties at Kenyon College after an absence of a year as visiting lecturer on government at Harvard University.

On August 30, 1945, the Association of Los Alamos Scientists was formed to promote the attainment and use of scientific and technical advances in the best interests of humanity and to influence constructively the achievement of the best possible form of international control of atomic energy. Mr. W. Higinbotham was elected chairman and Mr. J. H. Manley, secretary. The organization invites correspondence from political scientists regarding its objectives. The address is P. O. Box 1663, Santa Fé, New Mexico.

At Bryn Mawr College, a number of changes in the teaching staff in political science have occurred. Professor Charles G. Fenwick, on leave for several years with the Inter-American Juridical Commission, and now at Rio de Janeiro, has been retired. Dr. Helen Dwight Reed has resigned. Professor Roger H. Wells is on leave as adviser on local government to the American army of occupation in Germany, and his place is being taken by Dr. W. Brooke Graves, who recently completed three and one-half years of service in the Third Regional Office of the United States Civil Service Commission. Dr. D. Beatrice McCown, formerly of Vassar College, has been appointed assistant professor; and Dr. Bryce Wood, of Swarthmore College, is offering a course on international organization.

Dr. Clifford J. Hynning recently returned to Washington from a tour of service as a U. S. Treasury Representative with the Office of Military Government for Germany (and its predecessor agencies), Finance Division. In addition to his duties as a policy adviser on financial directives and field instructions, he collaborated with military intelligence in effecting the large-scale detention of German financiers and industrialists under SHAEF and later in the American zone. He was in charge of the financial interrogations of high Nazis, financiers and industrialists, and the resulting data on Schacht and Funk were turned over to Mr. Justice Jackson's staff for use in the Nuremburg trials. At present an attorney on the staff of the General Counsel, U. S. Treasury Department, Dr. Hynning was formerly an enforcement attorney with the Office of Price Administration.

Hon. Jesse H. Jones, former Secretary of Commerce, has given $300,000 to create at the University of Virginia a Woodrow Wilson School of International Affairs, aimed at promoting in "coming generations of young Americans a livelier appreciation of the vital interests and heavy responsibilities of the United States in the outside world." The gifts come from a corporate foundation which Mr. and Mrs. Jones established in Texas some years ago for educational and philanthropic purposes.

In 1945, five United States libraries were established in various parts of the British Empire by the British Division of the Office of War Information in close coöperation with the Division of Cultural Relations of the Department of State and with the Library of Congress. The new libraries follow the pattern of the American Library in the Embassy in London, and are located at Sydney and Melbourne, Australia; Wellington, New Zealand; Johannesburg, Union of South Africa; and Bombay, India.

The establishment of the Samuel S. Fels Professorship of Governmental Administration in the Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania, in recognition of Mr. Fels' pioneering activities in the improvement of local government, was recently announced by President McClelland of the University. In addition to honoring Mr. Fels, the creation of the professorship recognizes the permanent and increasing importance of the research and training program of the Institute of Local and State Government. The first incumbent of the new chair will be Dr. Stephen B. Sweeney, a member of the Wharton School faculty since 1922 and director of the Institute of Local and State Government since its foundation.

An Institute of National Governmental Reorganization was held at the University of Minnesota on December 10 and 11 under the auspices of the University's Center for Continuation Study and the Minnesota League of Women Voters. Participants included Professors William Anderson, Lloyd M. Short, and A. N. Christensen