

Doris Marie Provine presents Corwin Award to Terri Jennings Peretti.

Dissertation chairs were Stanley Hoffman and Judith N. Shklar.

Other dissertation winners were Michael B. Berkman, Pennsylvania State University, the William Anderson Award in the field of intergovernmental relations, submitted by Indiana University; Terri Jennings Peretti, Santa Clara University, the Edward S. Corwin Award in the field of public law, submitted by the University of California, Berkeley; Christopher Peter Gilbert, Washington University, the E. E. Schattschneider Award in the field of American government, submitted by Washington University; and Alan Abramson, Urban Institute, the Leonard D. White Award in the field of public administration, submitted by Yale University.

Kenneth N. Waltz, University of California, Berkeley, won the Heinz Eulau Award for the best article published in The American Political Science Review during 1990. Bartholomew H. Sparrow, University of Texas at Austin, won the Franklin L. Burdette Pi Sigma Alpha Award for the best paper presented at the 1990 annual meeting.

Book award winners included Michael Walzer, Institute for Advanced Study, who won the Benjamin E. Lippincott Award for a work of exceptional quality by a living political theorist that is still considered significant after a time span of at least 15 years since the original publication for his The Revolution of the Saints: A Study in the Origins of Radical Politics, published by Harvard University Press in 1965. Charles E. Lindblom, Yale University, won the Woodrow Wilson Foundation Award for the best book published in the U.S. during 1990 on government, politics or international affairs for his Inquiry and Change, published by Yale University Press and the Russell Sage Foundation. The Ralph J. Bunche Award for the best work exploring the phenomenon of ethnic and cultural pluralism was won by Frank R. Parker, Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights Under Law, for his Black Votes Count, published by the University of North Carolina Press. The Gladys M. Kammerer Award for the best publication in the field of U.S. national policy was won by James A. Morone, Brown University, for his The Democratic Wish, published by Basic Books. The Victoria Schuck Award for the best book on women and politics was won by Iris M. Young, University of Pittsburgh for her Justice and the Politics of Difference, published by Princeton University Press, and by Jane Sherron de Hart and Donald G. Mathews, University of North Carolina, for their Sex, Gender and the Politics of ERA, published by Oxford University Press.

Norton E. Long, Professor Emeritus, University of Missouri, St. Louis, was this year's John Gaus Distinguished Lecturer, honoring the recipient's lifetime of exemplary scholarship in the joint tradition of political science and public administration and, more generally, to recognize achievement and encourage scholarshp in public administration.

Other career awards were the Hubert H. Humphrey Award for notable public service by a political scientist, presented to Zbigniew Brzezinski, Center for Strategic and International Studies, and C. Payne Lucas, Africare and the Carey Mc-Williams Award, to honor a major journalistic contribution to our understanding of politics, presented to Molly Ivins, Dallas Times-Herald.

Editor's Note: For additional details on each award and the full text of citations, see the Gazette in this issue of PS.

APSA Organized Sections Distribute Awards at Annual Meeting

Thirteen of the twenty-six APSA Organized Sections used the 1991 Annual Meeting as an opportunity to recognize distinctive scholarship and career service within their fields of political science.

Federalism and Intergovernmental Relations Organized Section

Vincent Ostrom, of the Workshop in Political Theory and Policy, Indiana University, was the recipient of the Special Achievement Award for significant contributions to the study of federalism. The award was presented by Daniel J. Elazar of Temple University and Bar-Ilan University.

Law, Courts, and Judicial Process Organized Section

Susan E. Lawrence, Rutgers University, was awarded the C. Herman Pritchett Prize for the outstanding book published in 1990 for The Poor in Court: The Legal Services Program and Supreme Court Decision Making, published by Princeton University Press. The prize, established last year, was awarded by Professor Susan E. Lawrence, winner of the first C. Herman Pritchett Award, with C. Herman Pritchett of the Law, Courts, and Judicial Process Section.

December 1991

Association News

Pritchett, University of California, Santa Barbara.

Gary C. Jacobson receiving the CQ Press Award from Richard Smith of the Legislative Studies Section.

Legislative Studies Organized Section

The 1991 recipient of the CO Press Award was Gary C. Jacobson, University of California, San Diego, for his paper "The Persistence of House Democratic Majorities: Structure or Politics?" Richard A. Smith of Carnegie-Mellon University, presenter of the award, lauded the paper as "the best effort to date to explain the curious persistence of Republican presidents and Democratic house majorities." The award is given by the Legislative Studies Section each year to honor outstanding scholarship as reflected in the papers presented at each year's Annual Meeting.

R. Douglas Arnold, Princeton University, was awarded the Richard F. Fenno, Jr. Prize for his work The Logic of Congressional Action in which he develops a model that allows him to specify the conditions under which various policy outcomes are likely. The Fenno Prize, presented in 1991 by Barbara Sinclair, University of California, Riverside, honors the outstanding book published in legislative studies, including American, non-American, crossnational and subnational works.

R. Douglas Arnold holding the Richard F. Fenno, Jr. Prize with Linda Fowler of the Legislative Studies Section.

Political Organizations and Parties Organized Section

The Samuel Eldersveld Career Achievement Award was received by William J. Crotty, Northwestern University, for a lifetime of distinguished scholarly and professional contributions to the field. William J. Keefe of the University of Pittsburgh presented the award.

Gary C. Jacobson, University of California, San Diego, was the recipient of the Leon Epstein Award which is awarded in recognition of a book which has made a distinguished contribution to the field. Jacobson's book, Money in Congressional Elections, was published in 1980 by Yale University Press. The presentation was made by Richard Boyd of Wesleyan University.

The Jack Walker Award for an article of unusual significance to the field was awarded to Michael T. Hayes, Colgate University, for "The Semi-Sovereign Pressure Groups: A Critique of Current Theory and an Alternative Typology," Journal of Politics 44 (1978): 134-161. Joyce Gelb, City College of New York, awarded the honor.

Public Administration Organized Section

Herman L. Boschken, San Jose State University, received the Herbert Kaufman Award for his work "Structuring the Analysis of Public Agency Performance: The Case of Urban Mass Transit." The award, presented this year by Kathryn G. Denhardt, University of Colorado, Denver, is given to the best paper in public administration presented at the APSA Annual Meeting.

Conflict Processes Organized Section

Ted Robert Gurr of the University of Maryland was honored with the Conflict Processes Lifetime Achievement Award for distinguished contribution to the study of conflict. The award was presented by Harry Starr of the University of South Carolina.

Representation and Electoral Systems Organized Section

The George H. Hallett Award, presented annually to the author of a book published at least ten years earlier that has made a lasting contribution to the literature on representation and electoral systems, was conferred upon Hannah F. Pitkin, University of California, Berkeley, for The Concept of Representation, published by the University of California Press in 1967. The presentation was made by Bernard Grofman of the University of California, Irvine.

The award for the best paper presented at a section panel in 1990 was given to Mark E. Rush, Washington and Lee University, for his paper entitled "The Variability of Partisanship and Turnout." Dennis Anderson of Bowling Green State University gave the award.

Presidency Research Organized Section

The 1990 Presidency Research Best Paper Award for the best paper presented at the Annual Meeting in presidency research went to Bartholomew H. Sparrow, University of Texas, Austin, for "Raising Taxes and Going into Debt: A Resource Dependence Model of U.S. Public Finance in the 1940s." Mark P. Petracca, University of California, Irvine, presented the award.

The Richard E. Neustadt Book Award for the best book published

Association News

Robert Dahl receiving the career achievement award from Hank Savitch of the Urban Politics and Urban Policy Section.

in 1990 that contributed most to research and scholarship in the field of American Presidency was given to Harold Hongju Koh, Yale University, for The National Security Constitution. Peri Arnold of the University of Notre Dame awarded the honor.

Urban Politics and Urban Policy Organized Section

The Career Achievement Award recognizing a lifetime of contributions to the development of scholarship in the field of urban politics was awarded to Robert Dahl of Yale University. A former president of APSA, Dahl's book Who Governs? was at the center of pluralist debate for years and continues to have an enduring impact. Hank Savitch of the University of Louisville presented the award.

The Best Book Award for works on urban politics published in 1990 was given to Mike Davis for his study of Los Angeles entitled City of Quartz (Verso). Steven Erie of the University of California, San Diego, made the presentation.

Robert M. Stein of Rice University received the Special Award for Best Book on Urban Policy, for the best book on a special topic within the field of urban politics published in 1990. Stein's book Urban Alternatives: Public and Private Markets in the Provision of Local Services, published by University Press, examines institutional history and administrative reform.

Women and Politics Research Organized Section

The Best Paper on Women and Politics Award, given to the best paper on the subject of gender or women and politics presented at the 1990 APSA Annual Meeting, went to Christine Di Stefano, University of Washington, for "Rethinking Autonomy." Maria J. Falco of Depauw University made the presentation.

Foundations of Political Theory Organized Section

The First Book Award for the best book in political theory written by an author at the beginning of his/her career was bestowed upon Stephen T. Leonard, University of North Carolina. Leonard's book Political Theory in Political Practice was published in 1990 by Princeton University Press.

Computer Users Organized Section

The Best Political Science Software Award was accepted by Bahram Farzanegan, University of North Carolina at Asheville, for INS4, a computer simulation of international relations.

Ellen Vasu and Michael Vasu, North Carolina State University, received the Best Research Methods Software Award for SocStatSim, a program introducing students to statistical analysis.

G. David Garson of North Carolina State University presented both awards.

Political Communication Organized Section

The 1991 Ithiel de Sola Pool award for the best paper in political communication presented at the 1990 APSA Annual Meeting was received by Diana C. Mutz, University of Wisconsin, Madison, for "Information and the Politicization of Personal Experience." The award was presented by W. Russell Neuman of Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Michael Frazier, Russell L. Adams, and Mitchell Rice.

Committee on the Status of Blacks Honors Adams and Puryear

Russell L. Adams, chair of the Department of Afro-American Studies, Howard University, and Paul L. Puryear, professor of government and senior associate for public policy studies, Center for Pub-

Matthew Holden, Paul Puryear, and Mitchell Rice.

December 1991