ReCALL: Notes for Contributors

ReCALL, the journal of CTI Modern Languages in association with EUROCALL, seeks to fulfil the stated aims of EUROCALL as a whole, which are to advance education by:

- (a) promoting the use of foreign languages within Europe;
- (b) providing a European focus for the promulgation of innovative research, development and practice in the area of computer-assisted language learning and technology enhanced language learning in education and training;
- (c) enhancing the quality, diffusion and cost-effectiveness of relevant language learning materials.

All submissions are refereed. They are accepted for consideration on the assumption that they have not been previously published and are not currently being submitted to any other journal.

Typical subjects for submissions include theoretical debate on language learning strategies and their influence on courseware design, practical applications at developmental stage, evaluative studies of courseware use in the teaching and learning process, assessment of the potential of technological advances in the delivery of language learning materials, exploitation of on-line information systems, and discussions of policy and strategy at institutional and discipline levels. Survey papers are welcome provided that they are timely, up-to-date and well-structured.

The language of ReCALL is normally English. However, papers in French or German will be considered.

Authors should be aware that editorial licence may be taken to improve the readability of an article.

Three free copies of the journal are sent to contributors in lieu of offprints.

Copyright is assigned to the publisher, but the right to reproduce the contribution is granted to author(s), provided that the contribution is not offered for sale. The publisher reserves the right to publish the contribution electronically via World Wide Web.

- Hard copy: preferably laser-printer output.
- On 3.5" disk in Word for Windows 2.0 format or higher (please state version).
- On 3.5" disk in ASCII format.
- On 3.5" disk in Rich-Text-Format (RTF).

Please label your disk with your name, date, the titles of files stored on the disk and the name of the word-processor you have used.

Papers may also be submitted in MIME-encoded format by email.

Texts should not exceed 5,000 words: line spacing 1.5 with a point size of 12 (please indicate word-count at the end of your text). The text should be left-aligned only.

Make sure that graphics and screen dumps are also available on disk and are of sufficient size and quality to be reproduced in a reduced format. Please indicate which graphics package you have used to produce them.

Your text should be laid out as follows:

Title of article: Do not use capital letters, except at the beginning of the title and for proper names. In languages other than English, use standard conventions.

Author: First name, last name, institution.

Biographical information: Brief, no more than 50 words.

Abstract: No more than 100 words.

Text of article

References

If your article includes numbered sections and paragraphs, use the following system:

- 1.
- 1.1.

- 1.2.
- 1.3.
- 2.
- 2.1.
- 2.2.
- 2.3.
- etc.

Use bulleted lists within above system or i., ii., iii. then a., b., c. No brackets.

Abbreviations

Don't use full stops in abbreviations: ICI, OBE not I.C.I., O.B.E.

When referring to the title of an organisation by its initials, first spell out the title in full followed by the abbreviation in brackets, thus: Imperial Chemical Industries (ICI). Thereafter refer to ICI.

Underlining

Don't underline. Use italics or bold for emphasis.

Bibliographical referencing within the article

... as was stated in a recent study (Davies 1995:65) ...

... see also Ahmad et al. (1985:123-127) ...

"... quotation ..." (Davies 1985:15)

Please avoid using footnotes.

References at end of the article

Please pay particular attention to the use of full-stops after initials and the use of commas, colons, brackets. Above all, be consistent. Your text will be returned for re-editing if you do not adhere to the prescribed system.
