Early Greek Warfare

Horsemen and Chariots in the Homeric and Archaic Ages

P. A. L. GREENHALGH

Dr Greenhalgh reconstructs the history of the chariot and the warhorse in early Greece from the eleventh to the end of the sixth century B.C. He begins with an exciting new theory of the historical reality behind the chariot-warfare of the Homeric nobility and then traces the developments in the warfare of pre-classical Greece, with the help of the vase-painters.

The Hellenistic Kingdoms
PORTRAIT COINS AND HISTORY

NORMAN DAVIS and COLIN M. KRAAY. With photographs by P. FRANK PURVEY

The remarkable series of coins reproduced in this book bear portraits of the monarchs who ruled the Hellenistic kingdoms after Alexander the Great's death in 323 BC. Some of their names still linger in common memory: Ptolemy of Egypt, Perseus of Macedon, Seleucus Nicator and Antiochus Epiphanes of Syria, and Cleopatra, the last of the Ptolemies. These royal portrait coins are important contemporary documents of a period for which evidence is scarce. From the titles and designs that these rulers chose for their coins, we are given a glimpse of their character, policies and the guises in which they presented themselves to their subjects. They are our only sources for the physical appearance of most of the rulers of the time; and, apart from the usually stylized representations of Egyptian pharaohs, they constitute the first series of portraits in human history. Classical Greek Art
480-330 BC

JEAN CHARBONNEAUX, ROLAND MARTIN, FRANÇOIS VILLARD

The art of Western civilization ultimately stems from the art of ancient Greece. It was during the fifth and fourth centuries BC that Greek architects, sculptors, painters and craftsmen achieved those standards and perfected those conventions to which the artists of Rome, Renaissance Italy and much of modern Europe have been successively indebted.

In this study, the sequel to Archaic Greek Art: 620-480 BC, also in this series and by the same authors, Roland Martin discusses the architecture, Jean Charbonneau the sculpture and François Villard the vase-painting of the classical period. As Professor Villard writes, the era 'was a continuous phase of artistic creation, of intense life and experimentation, unfolding in a climate of keen strife and deep-rooted dissension—both national and political in the fifth century, further aggravated in the fourth by the economic and social crisis and by the impending menace of the "barbarian" empires of Persia and Carthage'. The perfectly proportioned creations of the Acropolis symbolize both the essence of classical Greek art, and the position of Athens, during the fifth century under Pericles' guidance, as the artistic capital of the Greek world. After, at the most, fifty years of precarious equilibrium, Greek art began to reflect the instability suffered by the city states during the late fifth and early fourth centuries—until the conquests of Philip and Alexander removed not only the perils which had beset them, but the independence which had inspired their writers, thinkers and artists.

The late Jean Charbonneau, Member of the Institut de France and Member of the Académie des Inscriptions et Belle-Lettres, worked for most of his career at the Louvre, where he was General Inspector of the Musées de France and (from 1930 until 1965) Professor of Greek and Roman Archaeology at the Ecole du Louvre. Roland Martin, Director of Studies at the Ecole Pratique des Hautes Etudes, was formerly Professor of Archaeology at Dijon University. François Villard is Professor of Greek History at the Faculté des Lettres et des Sciences Humaines at Paris-Nanterre. With 436 illustrations, including 63 colour plates and 28 plans. The Arts of Mankind. General Editors: Andre Malraux and Andre Parrot.

Menander: The Girl from Samos

(trans.) ERIC G. TURNER

Menander's art and skill in the New Comedy are well conveyed in this vigorous and amusing play. Like all Menander's work, the piece was lost in the Dark Ages: only in 1905 were two acts recovered and in 1969 a further two and part of another. Professor Turner has completed the play in blank verse, aiming at production on the modern stage, and his translation was produced by the BBC in 1971 and repeated in 1972.

Early Virgil

WILLIAM BERG

Dr Berg's study marks a radical departure from traditional approaches to Virgilian pastoral. He illustrates the use in both ancient and modern poetry of a pastoral landscape to symbolize the poet's 'place' of inspiration and creation, and sees the publication of the Bucolics as a literary event in which the self-consciousness of the Theocritean tradition finds its fullest measure. The Golden Age of the 'messianic' Eclogue IV, like the child who rules it, is interpreted as a monument to poetry rather than to politics. The influence of fellow-poets on Virgil's early work is emphasized throughout.

The book may be read with pleasure both by scholar and general reader for it includes a Latin text with, on facing pages, a new English verse translation of the Bucolics, indicating the ancient structural divisions.

Studies in Greek History

A Companion Volume to 'A History of Greece to 322 B.C.'

N. G. L. Hammond

Greek history abounds in fascinating questions. Who were the Greeks? Who founded Mycenae? Who started the Dorian invasion? Why did the Greeks defeat the Persians at Marathon and at Salamis? How did Athens combine full democracy with firm leadership? These are among the questions treated here with a full exposition of the archaeological, literary, and topographical evidence. 7 plates 3 23 text figures £12.50

A History of Macedonia

Volume I: Historical Geography and Prehistory

N. G. L. Hammond

Macedonia was once a world power. Its origins, growth, organization, and achievement until the Roman conquest form the subject of the three-volume study being written by N. G. L. Hammond and G. T. Griffith. The historical geography, touching on all periods of history, is essential to the whole work. 20 text figures 23 maps £13

The Athenian Empire

Russell Meiggs

Few subjects in Greek history have nourished such lively controversy as the nature of Athenian imperialism in the fifth century B.C. This is the first comprehensive attempt to re-examine all the literary and epigraphic evidence, old and new, in detail. 11 pages of maps £7.50

INDIA

Sir Mortimer Wheeler, our Chairman and a former Director General of Archaeology in India, writes "The treasures of India are amongst the most spectacular in the world". Read his introduction to this fascinating and fabulous sub-content in our new Art Treasures Tours of India brochure. We have a selection of 22, 24 and 25-day tours, planned in consultation with Sir Mortimer, ranging from the Mogul masterpieces in the north to the famous Hindu temples of Madras and the deep south; from the picturesque submontane kingdom of Nepal and the rarely visited state of Sikkim to the forested island of Ceylon, now called Sri Lanka, with its buried cities of a bygone age; from the fairyland of Kashmir to the erotic temples of Orissa; and from Rajasthan "the abode of kings" to Andhra Pradesh, a land that breathes history.

4 DEPARTURES: Jan. 19; Feb. 12; Mar. 9; Apr. 13, 27; Sept. 14, 28; Oct. 5, 26; Nov. 12.

THE BRITISH ACADEMY

CROMER GREEK PRIZE

WITH the view of maintaining and encouraging the study of Greek, particularly among the young, the first Earl of Cromer founded a Prize, to be administered by the British Academy, for the best Essay on any subject connected with the language, history, art, literature, or philosophy of Ancient Greece.

The next Prize, which is ordinarily a sum of £150, will be awarded in 1974 under the following Rules:—

1. The competition is open to all British subjects and citizens of Eire of either sex who will be under thirty-two years of age on 31 December preceding the award.
2. Any Essay which has already received or is in competition for another prize of the same nature will be inadmissible. A candidate to whom the Prize has been awarded will not be eligible to compete for it again. But an Essay which has not received the Prize may be submitted again (with or without alteration) in a future year so long as the writer remains eligible under Rule 1.
3. Consideration of the adjudicators shall be limited to work submitted to them, whether published or unpublished, not exceeding 20,000 words in length.
4. Essays must be sent in to the Secretary of the Academy not later than 31st March, 1974. They must be typed or printed and should have a note attached stating the main sources of information used.

Communications should be addressed to 'The Secretary of the British Academy, Burlington House, Piccadilly, London, W1V 0NS'.

SLIDES COLLECTION

The Slides Collection contains 4000 coloured slides (2" × 2") covering a wide variety of subjects, including sites on the Greek mainland, the Greek islands, Rome, Italy and the Roman Empire, Etruscan tomb paintings, Roman frescoes and mosaics and Greek vases: objects from the Greek and Roman Life Room of the British Museum are well represented.

Sets and film-strips are available to members, and the Keeper of Slides will be pleased to send a list of these on request.

There are 18 coloured sets (2" × 2"), of which 6 are available as film-strips. There are also 3 black and white sets (2" × 2") and 11 black and white film-strips. All may be bought or hired by members: notes to the sets are included in the hire-price of 50p per set, plus postage.

The subjects of the sets, which are accompanied by notes, include classical sites in Greece, Italy, Gaul and Britain, architecture, sculpture, the theatre, drama, athletics, Cyprus, Sicily and Magna Graecia, Greek papyri, jewellery, terracottas, art in Roman Britain, Roman coins and the Roman Imperial army in Britain.

Three new coloured sets will be available early in 1974, two on Pre-Hellenic Greece (one Minoan, and one Mycenaean), and the third on flowers and trees of the Mediterranean area.

A catalogue of coloured slides is available for 45p. Individual slides may be hired by members for 1½p: duplication costs 25p per slide. There are 10,000 B/W (3¼" × 3¼") slides from which prints or 2" × 2½" slides may be made.

Schools are eligible for membership.

For particulars apply to the Secretary of either Society at 31-34 Gordon Square, London, WC1H 0PP.
