STUDENT-MEMBERS "AT HOME."

It will be remembered that last year the Student-Members for the Session held an "At Home" at University College, Gower Street, before the end of the Summer Term, which was considered highly successful. A unanimous desire was then expressed that similar meetings should be arranged in the future. It is therefore hoped to hold an "At Home" at about the same time in June as last year and at the same place. Notices will be sent to Students in due course.

The object of such gatherings is to enable Students to know each other more intimately, and to discuss questions and problems which have interested them in the various courses of lectures given during the Session.

OBITUARY NOTICE

By the death of Mrs. Gilliland Husband, announced in The Times of Thursday, March 7th, one's thoughts are carried back to incidents which should have a particular interest to members and friends of the Institute of Philosophical Studies. Mrs. Husband was the daughter of Samuel Gilliland, of Brook Hall, Londonderry. After studying Philosophy at home with her brother Louis, and in Leipzig under Dr. Dix, she came to London in the 'eighties and joined the recently formed London Ethical Society—the first of its kind in England—of which, as member of Committee and lecturer, she was a warm supporter.
