Labor's War at Home

The CIO in World War II

Nelson Lichtenstein

Lichtenstein examines a critical period in American labor history—the years from 1939 to 1946. He focuses on the internal dynamics of the labor movement (especially the CIO) in its relationship with the Roosevelt administration. His book argues that tensions within both the labor movement and American business profoundly affected government policy and labor's relations with Roosevelt and the Democratic Party.

Dreaming of What Might Be

The Knights of Labor in Ontario, 1880–1900

Gregory S. Kealey and Bryan D. Palmer

In their fascinating study of the rise and fall of the Knights of Labor, the authors recreate a working class dream of an alternative to industrial capitalist society. Case studies of the Knights chronicle the social, political, and cultural impact on the order across the province.

SURVEY

a journal of East & West studies

Founded in 1955, Survey has established a reputation as a leading publication in its field.

"Many publications are useful to persons writing on public affairs. A few publications, like Survey, are indispensable. It is among the best sources of information and analyses about the things that matter most to the West."
George F. Will

"Survey has no rivals in its field. It is an indispensable journal." Saul Bellow

"Such contributions as I have read in Survey have seemed to me interesting, original and informative."
Isaiah Berlin

"The excellence of Survey is well established. Those concerned with Communist and East European affairs find it to be scholarly and reliable, often more informative than any other journal and above all always reliable."
Leonard Shapiro

"Survey is admirable both for its intellectual quality and its moral fervour."
Eugene V. Rostow

"Survey is one of the remarkable publications of our day." Ralf Dahrendorf

"I do not see how it is possible for anyone to pretend to follow current international affairs without reading Survey regularly." Irving Kristol

THE WORLD TODAY

STUDENTS OF CURRENT AFFAIRS, to be well informed, need the facts. In THE WORLD TODAY, the monthly journal of the Royal Institute of International Affairs, experts bring to the general reader up-to-date and reliable information on world affairs.

Authoritative and objective, THE WORLD TODAY deals primarily with international problems but also includes articles on internal political and economic conditions in individual countries or regions, written by authors with first-hand knowledge. Short comment in 'Notes of the Month' puts current developments into perspective and provides a background to events of international significance.

Comparative Studies in Society and History is a forum for presentation and discussion of new research into problems of change and stability that recur in human societies through time or in the contemporary world. It sets up a working alliance between specialists in all branches of the social sciences and humanities. Debate and review articles bring the general reader in touch with current findings and issues.

NOTES FOR CONTRIBUTORS

Contributions may be descriptive, analytical or theoretical. Any article not in itself comparative may be accepted if it lends itself to comment that will place it in comparative perspective. Correspondence with the editors prior to the submission of articles will help to enable them to obtain such comment or a companion study. Emphasis in comparative studies may be either on similarities or, if these are significant enough and call for some recasting of generalizations, on differences. All contributions and editorial correspondence should be sent to the Editors, Comparative Studies in Society and History, Department of History, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, Michigan 48109.

Two copies of each contribution, preferably accompanied by a stamped, addressed envelope, should be submitted. Both text and footnotes should be clearly typed with double spacing and wide margins; footnotes should appear on separate pages at the end of the article. Illustrations may be included by arrangement with the editors.

Contributors will receive 50 offprints. Any additional offprints must be ordered on receipt of the first proof.
