WASHINGTON DESPATCHES 1941-45

Weekly Political Reports from the British Embassy Edited by H. G. Nicholas
Introduction by Isaiah Berlin

"The fullest publication to date on wartime domestic affairs in the United States, particularly Washington politics."

—Robert Dallek, The New Republic

"This selection of reports from the British Embassy to the Foreign Office in London provides a unique and fascinating view of the U.S. at war."

—Wall Street Journal

THE PRINCE

Niccolò Machiavelli

A New Translation, with an Introduction,
by Harvey C. Mansfield, Jr.

This new translation brilliantly recreates the subtlety and terseness of Machiavelli's own prose and, at the same time, is written in accessible and idiomatic English.

NATIONALISM AND THE STATE

John Breuilly

"A remarkable tour de force. By directing attention to the great variety of groups involved in the formation of nationalism and their interaction with a wide range of environmental forces, Breuilly makes an original and important contribution to our understanding of nationalism."

—Peter J. Fliess, American Political Science Review

$13.95 422 pages

THE BROTHERHOOD OF OIL

Energy Policy and the Public Interest

Robert Engler

"A significant contribution to the energy debate. . . The Brotherhood of Oil is densely argued and well researched. It deserves attention."

STUDIES IN COMPARATIVE INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT

STUDIES IN COMPARATIVE INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT is an interdisciplinary social science journal, published quarterly, exploring current issues in development theory and practice. For twenty years the journal has analyzed social and cultural change, remaining open to all theoretical, methodological, and ideological approaches. SCID examines the great and sometimes growing differences between societies within each of the three worlds of development, and stimulates the scholarly exchange of views and research findings on the critical and complex relationship between population, technology, and policy in a developmental context.

Articles of enduring interest already published on:

SOCIAL STRUCTURE AND STRATIFICATION • Kwang Chung Kim examines the recruitment of college-educated employees in Korea • Scott Menard explores the ties between fertility, development, and family planning • Julie Fisher on neighborhood improvement associations in the Latin American squatter settlements.

RURAL/URBAN DICHOTOMIES • John W. Bennett examines agricultural cooperatives in the development process • Douglas Barnes and Reeve Vanneman on agricultural development and rural landlessness in India.

DEVELOPMENT POLITICS • John D. Martz investigates populist leadership and the Party Caudillo • John W. Sloan compares public policy in Cuba and Brazil • James Levy and Nick D. Mills, Jr. look at the challenge to democratic reformism in Ecuador.

MILITARISM IN THE THIRD WORLD • Irving Louis Horowitz, Claude E. Welch, Jr., and Augustus Richard Norton review militarization and consolidation in the Third World.

DEVELOPMENT ECONOMICS • Steven B. Butler discusses field research in China's communes • Michael Painter analyzes the political economy of food production in Peru • Douglas K. Midgett on the resuscitation of the Antiguan sugar industry.

DEVELOPMENT PLANNING AND POLICY • Edmond J. Keller evaluates the Harambee School Movement in Kenya • Omar Davies discusses policy issues of economic transformation in Jamaica • Aldo Ferrer on the problems and prospects of the Latin American foreign debt.

Jay Weinstein (Georgia Institute of Technology) is editor of SCID. Members of the editorial board include: C.M. Abraham (Madras University), Aldo Ferrer (Buenos Aires), Wolf Grabendorff (Research Institute for International Affairs, Ebenhausen), Bernard Karsh (University of Illinois), Melvin Kranzberg (Georgia Institute of Technology), Rene Lemarchand (University of Florida), Hiroshi Mannari (Kwansei Gakuin University, Japan), Michael L. Toynbee's Philosophy of World History and Politics

Kenneth W. Thompson

In Toynbee's Philosophy of World History and Politics, Kenneth Thompson seeks to restore history to its proper place in international relations by presenting, from a political scientist's point of view, an extensive analytic study of the work of the historian Arnold J. Toynbee.

Theodore Roosevelt, Culture, Diplomacy, and Expansion

A New View of American Imperialism

Richard H. Collin

Richard Collin tempers the legends of big-stick diplomacy and the Rough Riders by focusing on Theodore Roosevelt as an aristocrat and a gentleman. He argues that the expansion of the Roosevelt era was a cultural expansion, the product of America's coming of age under the guidance of a new type of president.

Foreign Policy in the Early Republic

The Law of Nations and the Balance of Power

Daniel G. Lang

Daniel Lang examines developments in the science of international law and politics in the early American republic and their influence on the nation's founders as they made and debated foreign policy in the first few decades of the country's existence.

Redneck Liberal

Theodore G. Bilbo and the New Deal

Chester M. Morgan

Theodore Bilbo is remembered almost exclusively as the Archangel of White Supremacy. Yet, in Redneck Liberal, Chester Morgan demonstrates that in his first Senate term this flamboyant Mississippi politician also threw his strong support behind virtually every New Deal social and economic program.
