

CONTRIBUTORS

KIRSTEN ANKER, Associate Professor at Faculty of Law, McGill University. PhD (University of Sydney), LLB (University of Sydney), BSc (physics, University of Sydney).

LARRY CATÁ BACKER, Professor of Law and International Affairs, Pennsylvania State University. BA (Brandeis University), MPP (Harvard University Kennedy School of Government), JD (Columbia University).

TOBIAS BERGER, Assistant Professor in Politics and International Relations, Free University of Berlin. PhD (Free University of Berlin), MPhil (political theory, University of Oxford), BA (politics and development studies, SOAS, University of London).

TOMER BROUDE, Professor, Bessie and Michael Greenblatt QC Chair in Public and International Law at the Hebrew University of Jerusalem Faculty of Law and Department of International Relations; Academic Director of the Minerva Center for Human Rights, Hebrew University of Jerusalem. SJD (University of Toronto), LLB (Hebrew University of Jerusalem), BA (Department of International Relations, Hebrew University of Jerusalem).

FRANCESCO CORRADINI, PhD candidate in international law at the Graduate Institute of International and Development Studies (IHEID). MA (international law, IHEID), BA (political science and international relations, University of Padua).

KEITH CULVER, Professor of Management and Associate Dean for Regional Innovation Practice, University of British Columbia.

ANTOINE DUVAL, Senior Researcher at the T.M.C. Asser Instituut. PhD (European University Institute), MA (law and political science, Paris 1 Panthéon-Sorbonne), MA (law, University of Cologne), MA (law, European University Institute).

JULIA ECKERT, Professor, Chair for Political Anthropology at the Institute of Social Anthropology at the University of Bern. PhD (sociology, Free University of Berlin).

MICHAEL GIUDICE, Associate Professor in the Department of Philosophy at York University, Toronto. PhD (philosophy, McMaster University), MA (philosophy, McMaster University), BA (philosophy and law in society, University of New Brunswick).

CAROLINE HUMFRESS, Professor in Medieval History, University of St Andrews, Director of the University of St Andrews' Institute of Legal and Constitutional Research and Postgraduate Convenor of the MLitt in Legal and Constitutional Studies. PhD (University of Cambridge), MA (University of Cambridge), BA (University of Cambridge).

MACHIKO KANETAKE, Assistant Professor of Public International Law and coordinator of the Master's Program in Public International Law, Utrecht University. PhD (Kyoto University), LL.M. (London School of Economics), MA (law, University of Sheffield).

NICO KRISCH, Professor of International Law at the Graduate Institute of International and Development Studies (IHEID). PhD (law, University of Heidelberg).

GRÉGOIRE MALLARD, Professor in the Department of Anthropology and Sociology and Director of Research at the Graduate Institute of International and Development Studies (IHEID). PhD (Princeton University).

RALF MICHAELS, Director at the Max Planck Institute for Comparative and International Private Law in Hamburg, Global Law Professor at Queen Mary University of London and Professor of Law at Hamburg University. LL.M. (University of Cambridge).

TOMÁŠ MOROCHOVIČ, PhD candidate in international law at the Graduate Institute of International and Development Studies (IHEID). LLM (University of Exeter), LLB (King's College London).

AUREL NIEDERBERGER, postdoctoral researcher at the Global Governance Center, Graduate Institute of International and Development Studies (IHEID). PhD (IHEID).

LUCY LU REIMERS, PhD candidate in international law at the Graduate Institute of International and Development Studies (IHEID). MA (international law, IHEID), BA (political science and law, Ludwig Maximilian University of Munich).

BRIAN Z. TAMANAHA, John S. Lehmann University Professor at Washington University School of Law. BSc (University of Oregon), JD (Boston University School of Law), SJD (Harvard Law School).