The Program Chairperson for the Meeting is Jack Dennis, University of Wisconsin, Madison. An announcement of the program including descriptions of the sections was published in the Fall PS. The complete preliminary program and other information on the 1980 Annual Meeting will be published in the Spring PS.

Pursuant to the action of the Council at its August 28, 1979 meeting (see Council minutes in this issue of PS) participation at the 1980 Annual Meeting will be governed by the following resolution:

Each person participating in the Annual Meeting Program (including courtesy listings as well as the official program) as a chair, paper giver, or discussant is required to preregister for the meeting. All participants who are not members of the Association are urged to become members.

It is understood that persons listed in the preliminary program will preregister before July 1. Persons not registered by July 1 will not be listed in the final program.

The APSA Committee on the Status of Women in the Profession and the Committee on Professional Ethics and Academic Freedom will co-sponsor a panel at the 1980 Annual Meeting on "Survival Politics: What to Do Once You Get a Job." The panelists will discuss how to maintain an effective personnel file, both for "job protection" and for building a record for reappointment, promotion, and tenure decisions; other suggested means for career development; do's and don'ts; protections in the event a negative decision has been made. Those interested in appearing on the panel (providing tips for succeeding as an academician, describing good procedures for evaluation of performance, or relating a personal "horror story") should contact either co-chairperson: Martin Gruberg, Department of Political Science, University of Wisconsin, Oshkosh, Wisconsin 54901; or Barbara Calloway, Office of the Provost, Rutgers University, Newark, New Jersey 07102.
