

Contributors for Volume 42, Number 4

Zeke Baker is a PhD candidate in sociology at the University of California, Davis. His dissertation “Meteorological Government” investigates the relationships between climate knowledge and government from the late eighteenth century until recent decades, primarily in the US context. He recently published “Climate State: Science-State Struggles and the Formation of Climate Science in the US from the 1930s to 1960s” in Social Studies of Science. He also studies the use of climate information among water managers and national security experts in the United States.

E. M. Beck is an independent scholar researching and documenting southern mob violence. Formerly he was on the faculty of the University of Georgia, University of Michigan, and University of Colorado. He is co-author (with Stewart E. Tolnay) of Festival of Violence: An Analysis of Southern Lynchings, 1882–1930 (1995). His creation of an inventory of threatened lynchings is described in his article “Judge Lynch Denied: Combating Mob Violence in the American South, 1877–1950” that appeared in Southern Cultures (2015).

Juan Cole is the Richard P. Mitchell Collegiate Professor of History at the University of Michigan. His books include Colonialism and Revolution in the Middle East: Social and Cultural Origins of Egypt’s Urabi Movement (1993), Napoleon’s Egypt: Invading the Middle East (2007), and The New Arabs: How the Millennial Generation is Changing the Middle East (2014). He has written widely about Egypt, Iran, Iraq, and South Asia and about the upheavals in the Arab World since 2011, including about Sunni extremist groups and Shiite politics.

Lisa D. Cook is Associate Professor of Economics at Michigan State University, where she is Director of the American Economic Association Summer Training Program and an affiliate of the Center for Venture Capital, Private Equity, and Entrepreneurial Finance and the Center for Russian, European, and Eurasian Studies. She is also a research associate at the National Bureau of Economic Research.

Jonathan Endelman is a PhD graduate (2017) from Yale University in sociology. His publications include “Displaying the State: Visual Signs and Colonial Construction in Jordan” (2015). His areas of interest include state building and the Middle East, transitions from empire to the nation-state, citizen-state relations, as well as comparative historical and political sociology. He was a Fox International Fellow for the 2014–15 year at Boğaziçi University in Istanbul, Turkey where he conducted research for his doctoral dissertation.

Gregori Galofré-Vilà is at the Department of Policy Analysis and Public Management, University of Bocconi, Italy. He is also Associate Member of the Department of Sociology, University of Oxford and Junior Research fellow at Mansfield College Oxford, United Kingdom.

Aravinda Meera Guntupalli works at the Faculty of Health and Social Care and the Social Care Programme at the Open University, United Kingdom.

Bernard Harris is Head of the School of Social Work and Social Policy, Strathclyde University, United Kingdom.

Andrew Hinde is in the Department of Social Statistics and Demography, University of Southampton, United Kingdom.

Trevon D. Logan is the Hazel C. Youngberg Distinguished Professor of Economics at the Ohio State University, where he is also an affiliate of the Initiative in Population Research, the Center for Human Resource Research, the Food Innovation Center, and the Criminal Justice Research Center. He is also a research associate at the National Bureau of Economic Research.

Seth C. McKee is associate professor of political science at Texas Tech University. He is the author of Republican Ascendancy in Southern US House Elections (2010), the editor of Jigsaw Puzzle Politics in the Sunshine State (2015), and author of the forthcoming textbook, The Dynamics of Southern Politics: Causes and Consequences.

Richard McKenzie is a geospatial analyst at the University of South Florida. He contributed spatial analyses to Jigsaw Puzzle Politics in the Sunshine State (2015) and Rotten Boroughs, Political Thickets, and Legislative Donnybrooks: Redistricting in Texas (2013).

John M. Parman is the Paul R. Verkuil Term Distinguished Associate Professor of Economics and a faculty affiliate of the Program in Public Policy and the Schroeder Center for Health Policy at the College of William and Mary. He is also a research associate at the National Bureau of Economic Research.

Nader Sohrabi is visiting assistant professor of sociology at Carleton College. He is the author of “Historicizing Revolutions: Constitutional Revolutions in the Ottoman Empire, Iran, and Russia, 1905–1908” (1995), Revolution and Constitutionalism in the Ottoman Empire and Iran (2014), and “Global Waves, Local Actors: What the Young Turks Knew about Other Revolutions and Why It Mattered” (2002). He is also a Fellow of the Institute for Advanced Study in Princeton, New Jersey.

Frank C. Thames is associate professor of political science at Texas Tech University. He is the author or co-author of articles in Comparative Political Studies, Legislative Studies Quarterly, Electoral Studies, Politics & Gender, and other peer-reviewed political science and economic journals. He is the co-author of Contagious Representation: An Examination of Women’s Representation in Democratic Political Institutions (2013).

Stewart E. Tolnay is S. Frank Miyamoto Professor Emeritus of Sociology at the University of Washington. His research has focused on the history of racial violence in the American South and the Great Migration of southerners to the North and West. He is co-author (with E. M. Beck) of Festival of Violence: An Analysis of Southern Lynchings, 1882–1930 (1995) and (with Amy Kate Bailey) of Lynched: The Victims of Southern Mob Violence (2015).

Subscription Information: Social Science History (ISSN 1527-8034) is published quarterly in February, May, August, and November by Cambridge University Press for the Social Science History Association. Annual subscription rates for Volume 42 (2018): Institutional subscription rate, print and electronic: US $345 in the U.S.A., Canada, and Mexico; UK £236 elsewhere. Institutional subscription rate, electronic only: US $275 in the U.S.A., Canada, and Mexico; UK £191 elsewhere. Single part rates, print only: US $95.00 in the U.S.A., Canada, and Mexico; UK £65 elsewhere.

Individuals who wish to receive the journal must be members of the SSHA. Please visit the SSHA website, <http://ssh.org>, for further details.

SOCIAL SCIENCE HISTORY

VOLUME 42 | NUMBER 4 | WINTER 2018

ARTICLES

Lisa D. Cook, Trevon D. Logan and John M. Parman

Racial Segregation and Southern Lynching 635

Stewart E. Tolnay and E. M. Beck

“Racialized Terrorism” in the American South: Do Completed Lynchings Tell an Accurate Story? 677

Frank C. Thames, Seth C. McKee and Richard McKenzie

The South, Slavery, and Competition in Early US House Elections 703

Zeke Baker

Meteorological Frontiers: Climate Knowledge, the West, and US Statecraft, 1800–50 731

Gregori Galofré-Vilà, Aravinda Meera Guntupalli, Bernard Harris and Andrew Hinde

Climate Effects and Stature since 1800 763

SPECIAL SECTION

Ottoman Legacies of the State

Jonathan Endelman

Ottoman Legacies of the State: An Introduction 795

Juan Cole

Caliphates and Juntas: Ottoman Legacies in Today’s Controversies over Religion and State in the Arab World 797

Jonathan Endelman

In the Shadow of Empire: States in an Ottoman System 811

Nader Sohrabi

Reluctant Nationalists, Imperial Nation-State, and Neo-Ottomanism: Turks, Albanians, and the Antinomies of the End of Empire 835

CORRIGENDUM

Nader Sohrabi

Reluctant Nationalists, Imperial Nation-State, and Neo-Ottomanism: Turks, Albanians, and the Antinomies of the End of Empire – CORRIGENDUM 871

Contributors for Volume 42, Number 4 873

Cambridge Core

For further information about this journal please go to the journal web site at:

cambridge.org/ssh

CAMBRIDGE
UNIVERSITY PRESS