Race and Class in the American South Since 1890

Edited by Melvyn Stokes and Rick Halpern

An accessible overview of the twentieth century history of the American South. Topics covered include labor, intellectual and women's history. The authors all address the same theme: the slow loss of Southern distinctiveness and the effect this process has had on issues of race and class.

De Gaulle and the United States

A Centennial Reappraisal

Edited by Robert O. Paxton and Nicholas Wahl

◆ Based on new archival material

An analysis of the turbulent De Gaulle-U.S. relationship from 1940 to 1969 featuring vivid recollections of French and American eye-witnesses including Henry Kissinger and the former French Prime Minister, Pierre Messmer. The authors also explore the roller-coaster of American popular feeling about De Gaulle and address larger issues of American vs. European approaches to foreign policy.

An Ethical Education Community and Morality in the Multicultural University

Edited by M.N.S. Sellers

◆ Essential reading for all students, faculty and administrators.

This book considers the ethical basis of fundamental university policies with special emphasis on how issues of community and diversity influence education. Four key questions are addressed:

- What should the aims of universities be, given their changed demography?
- How should university curricula reflect multicultural society?
- Does the new environment require special treatment of campus speech?
- What role should affirmative action play in promoting diversity or community in the academy?

The Culture and Commerce of the American Short Story

America's Workshop

ANDREW LEVY

A cultural and historical account of the birth and development of the American short story from the time of Poe, describing how America – through political movements, changes in education, magazine editorial policy, and the work of certain individuals – built the short story as an image of itself.

The Cultural Politics of the New Criticism

MARK JANCOVICH

Mark Jancovich examines the development of the New Criticism during the late 1920s and early 1930s, and its establishment within the academy, through the works of three leading American writers, Robert Penn Warren, John Crowe Ransom, and Allen Tate.

Discrepant Engagement

Dissonance, Cross-Culturality and Experimental Writing

NATHANIEL MACKEY

This book addresses work by a number of authors not normally grouped under a common rubric - black writers from the United States and the Caribbean and the so-called Black Mountain poets. Nathaniel Mackey advances a cross-cultural mix that is uncommon in studies of experimental writing, insisting that parallels, counterpoint and relevance to one another exist among writers otherwise separated by ethnic and regional boundaries.

Niedecker and the Correspondence with Zukofsky, 1931–1970

JENNY PENBERTHY

The forty-year correspondence between Lorine Niedecker and Louis Zukofsky is one of the closest and most productive in recent literary history. This volume opens with a substantial introduction tracing the life and work of Niedecker and how her relationship with Zukofsky influenced her poetry. At the same time Jenny Penberthy attempts to disengage Niedecker from her own myth of Zukofsky.

The Grounding of American Poetry

Charles Olson and the Emersonian Tradition

STEPHEN FREDMAN

Stephen Fredman asserts in his latest work that American poetry is groundless – that each generation of American poets faces the problem of identity anew and discovers for itself fresh meaning.

The Regenerate Lyric

Theology and Innovation in American Poetry

ELISA NEW

Elisa New presents a major revision of the accepted account of Emerson as the source of the American poetic tradition. The author challenges the view that Emerson not only overthrew New England religious orthodoxy but founded a poetic tradition that fundamentally renounced that orthodoxy in favour of a secular, Romantic approach.

New Essays on Rabbit Run

Edited by STANLEY TRACHTENBERG

The hero of John Updike's most popular and critically acclaimed novel is a middle-class American who isn't 'especially beautiful or bright or urban.' The essays in this collection examine the technical mastery and thematic range that makes this work an enduring achievement in modern American fiction.

NOTES FOR CONTRIBUTORS

- 1 All contributions and editorial correspondence should be sent to: The Editor, Journal of American Studies, History Department, Lancaster University, Lancaster LA1 4YG, England.
- 2 Articles should generally contain about 6,000 words. Longer or shorter articles, or articles in two or more parts, may be accepted by arrangement with the Editors.
- 3 Submission of an article is taken to imply that it has not previously been published, and has not been concurrently submitted for publication elsewhere.
- 4 Contributions should be clearly typed or printed in double spacing (including footnotes), with a wide left-hand margin. Diagrams, maps and illustrations may be included.
- 5 Spelling may conform either to British or American usage, providing it is consistent throughout.
- 6 Footnotes should be used sparingly: in general, to give sources of direct quotations, references to main authorities on disputable questions, and evidence relied on for a new or unusual conclusion. They should be numbered consecutively, and may most conveniently be placed, in double spacing, at the end of the article.
- 7 For guidance on matters of style, contributors should refer either to The Chicago Manual of Style (13th edition, 1982) or to the Journal of American Studies Style Notes, copies of which may be obtained from the Editors.
- 8 Contributors should keep one copy of the typescript for correcting proofs.
- 9 Notes intended for the Editors or Printer should be on a separate sheet.
- 10 First proofs may be read and corrected by contributors provided that they can give the Editor an address through which they can be reached without delay and can guarantee to return the corrected proofs to the Editor, by airmail where necessary, within three days of receiving them.
- 11 Proof corrections should be kept to an absolute minimum. They should be confined to errors of the typist or printer unless the Editor authorizes otherwise.
- 12 Contributors of articles and review essays receive 25 free offprints. Extra copies may be ordered according to a scale of charges.
- 13 Contributors need not be members of the British Association for American Studies. Unsolicited typescripts can only be returned to overseas contributors who send International Reply Coupons (not postage stamps). Typescripts from the UK will not normally be returned.
- 14 Contributors of accepted articles will be asked to assign their copyright, on certain conditions, to Cambridge University Press, to help protect their material, particularly in the USA.
