INTERNATIONAL REVIEW OF THE RED CROSS

CONTENTS

MAY-JUNE 1989
Nº 270

- Dr. Kamen Sachariew: States' entitlement to take action to enforce international humanitarian law 177
The author analyses measures to implement humanitarian law both on the national level and as part of the repression of international crimes. He then examines the mechanisms for implementing the Geneva Conventions and Additional Protocol I from three different angles: the theory of State responsibility, the binding nature of these instruments and the means available to States party to the treaties. Lastly, he deals with the position of States and their practice as regards sanctions and collective measures taken by them in response to breaches of the Conventions.
- Hernán Salinas Burgos: The taking of hostages and international humanitarian law 196
After outlining the general aspects of the crime of hostage-taking under public international law and describing how that law developed historically, the author analyses the provisions in the Geneva Conventions and their Additional Protocols relating to the ban on the taking of hostages in international and non-international armed conflicts and considers the action taken by the ICRC in that connection.
- Jean de Preux: Synopsis IX — Respect for the human being in the Geneva Conventions 217
- 173
