

ARABIC SPEAKING COMMUNITIES IN AMERICAN CITIES

edited by Barbara C. Aswad

This collection of essays depicts the community life of an ethnic group about which there is little data. The studies are based on field research and they illustrate similarities and differences in the processes of migration and adaptation of Arab Americans both according to their countries of origin and because of conditions in America.

We can give you an over-view of the Middle East that's a different view.

The Middle East is regularly covered by U.S. newspapers and magazines. But for anyone seriously interested in what is happening there, a considerably more thorough, thoughtful, objective view is needed.

That is precisely what THE MIDDLE EAST provides. Published in London by International Communications, it is the leading English language monthly devoted exclusively to coverage of Mid Eastern political and economic affairs. By focusing with unflinching clarity and perception on current issues, the magazine keeps you abreast of developments, fills you in on the background of recent events and suggests how they may affect the future.

THE MIDDLE EAST is characterized by excellence of writing and a dispassionate view. More specifically, its exclusive interviews with government leaders and periodic surveys of individual countries, markets and industries add to the magazine's value as a regular information resource.

If you need intelligent, wide-ranging coverage of this critically important part of the world, you should be seeing THE MIDDLE EAST each month. We invite you to enjoy its balanced appraisal of the issues...to keep yourself regularly posted on what is happening (and what is likely to happen) in the countries of the Mid East...by subscribing to THE MIDDLE EAST now at our Special Introductory Rate—20% off the usual Air Speeded price!

Cultural Expression in Arab Society Today

(Langages arabes du présent)

By Jacques Berque

Translated by Robert W. Stookey

"In the labyrinth of the vast literary and artistic production of the Arabs during these last thirty years, even the initiated reader needs a dependable guide.... Berque leads us with the hand of a master. Painting, music, novels, essays, poetry—he approaches them subjectively, with his own special style of analysis..." —L'Homme

Modern Middle East Series, No. 3

382 pages, $19.95

Middle Eastern Muslim Women Speak

Edited by Elizabeth Warnock Fernea and Basima Qattan Bezirgan

"The scope of the collection is very broad, ranging from interviews with peasant women, medieval poetry by women, to accounts of the power and influence of 20th-century women. A helpful introduction by the editors provides social, economic, and cultural backgrounds....highly recommended." —Choice

449 pages, illustrated, $16.95

Moroccan Islam

Tradition and Society in a Pilgrimage Center

By Dale F. Eickelman

"... a most significant contribution to our knowledge of Moroccan society and Islam in general .... a very thoroughly researched, sensitively interpreted, elegantly and readably presented case study, which combines meticulous attention to local detail with a convincing account of its wider context." —London Times Literary Supplement

Modern Middle East Series, No. 1

323 pages, illustrated, $15.95

Lebanon in Strife

Student Preludes to the Civil War

By Halim Barakat

This is the only study of Lebanese political life viewed from the standpoint of its central force for change, the students. Because student concerns have reflected the frustrations of the country as a whole, the book provides a clear, thorough, and comprehensive portrait of contemporary Lebanese society and the dominant ideological veins within it.
