Self-Determination, Statehood, and the Law of Negotiation

The Case of Palestine
Robert P Barnidge, Jr

This monograph seeks to advance our understanding of the international law of negotiation and use this as a framework for assessing the Israeli–Palestinian dispute, with the Palestinian people’s unsuccessful attempt to join the United Nations as a Member State in autumn 2011 and the successful attempt to join the same institution as a non-Member Observer State in November 2012 providing a case study for this. The legal consequences of these applications are not merely of historical interest; they inform the present rights and obligations of Israel and the Palestinian people. This work fills a significant gap in the existing international law scholarship on the Israeli–Palestinian dispute, which neither engages with this means of dispute settlement generally nor does so specifically within the context of the Palestinian people’s engagements with international institutions.

Robert P Barnidge, Jr, is Lecturer and Coordinator of International Relations in the Department of History, Politics, and International Relations at Webster University.

Donald R Rothwell and Tim Stephens

The law of the sea provides for the regulation, management and governance of the ocean spaces that cover over two-thirds of the Earth’s surface. Donald R Rothwell is Professor of International Law at the Australian National University, Canberra.

Tim Stephens is Professor of International Law and Australian Research Council Future Fellow at the University of Sydney.

The Rule of Law at the National and International Levels

Contestations and Deference
Edited by Machiko Kanetake and André Nollkaemper

This book aims to enhance understanding of the interactions between the international and national rule of law. It demonstrates that the international rule of law is not merely about ensuring national compliance with international law. International law and institutions (eg, international human rights treaty-monitoring bodies and human rights courts) respond to national contestations and show deference to the national rule of law. While this might come at the expense of the certainty of international law, it suggests that the international rule of law can allow for flexibility, national diversity and pluralism.

Machiko Kanetake is an Assistant Professor of Public International Law at Utrecht University.

André Nollkaemper is Professor of Public International Law and Director of the Amsterdam Center for International Law at the Faculty of Law of the University of Amsterdam.

Diplomatic Interference and the Law

Paul Behrens

On the basis of more than 300 cases of alleged diplomatic interference and the practice of about 100 States and territories, Diplomatic Interference and the Law provides an examination of the main areas in which charges of meddling have arisen – such as lobbying activities, contacts with the opposition, propaganda, the use of threats and insults and the granting of asylum. It analyses situations in which the sovereignty of the receiving State meets competing interests and offers solutions which avoid a conflict of norms. It concludes with useful advice for foreign offices and diplomatic agents and underlines the most efficient ways of dealing with situations of alleged interference.

Paul Behrens is a Lecturer in Law at The University of Edinburgh.

BIICL PARTNERSHIP OPPORTUNITIES

The demand for our work in a constantly changing world is growing and is limited only by our resources. We rely heavily on funding from law firms, corporations, international bodies, foundations, individuals and others. By supporting our work, donors and funders have an opportunity to make a positive and lasting difference around the world whilst raising their profile with our global network of legal practitioners, academics, in-house counsel, government officials, NGOs and students.

- BIICL Fund: Shaping our Future

This Fund provides an opportunity for members and friends to make unrestricted donations, enabling us to expand our team, refurbish our premises and promote our work to a wider audience. It also gives us the flexibility to respond more quickly to global events and to embark on projects or recruitment without waiting for funding.

- Funding for Research Fellowships

We are very grateful to the Vivmar Foundation, the Dorset Foundation and to Herbert Smith Freehills LLP for their ongoing support for Senior Research Fellowships. We are currently seeking funding for further research fellowships. Please see details on our website.

- The Bingham Appeal

The Bingham Centre for the Rule of Law was launched in 2010 and for the promotion and enhancement of the rule of law worldwide. We are aiming to raise £5million by 2020 to fund the Centre's growing network of talented research fellows and portfolio of applied research projects.

- The Arthur Watts Appeal

The Arthur Watts Senior Research Fellowship in Public International Law was founded in memory of the late Sir Arthur Watts, one of the leading international lawyers of his generation. The establishment of the Fellowship has been made possible by the generosity of numerous benefactors.

- Research Projects

Our core funders may also choose to support a specific research project in an area of interest to them. This could be any subject which has an international and comparative law or rule of law focus and can be global, regional or sector specific.

- Internship programmes

BIICL is fortunate to have the assistance of high quality interns from all over the world, and is seeking funding for a number of internships in all areas of BIICL's work.

INTERNATIONAL & COMPARATIVE LAW QUARTERLY

VOLUME 65

PART 2

APRIL 2016

When founded in 1952, the International and Comparative Law Quarterly was the only journal which offered the reader coverage of comparative law as well as public and private international law as well as European Union law. Since then it has maintained its pre-eminence amongst journals of its kind and it continues to offer practitioners and academics wide topical coverage without compromising rigorous editorial standards.

Membership of the British Institute of International and Comparative Law brings with it a subscription to the International and Comparative Law Quarterly, or it is available as a personal annual subscription from the distributor Cambridge University Press.
