Index Libycus: A Bibliography of Libya, 1957-1969 With Supplementary Material, 1915-1956

Compiled by Hans Schluter.

An important contribution to reference works on North Africa, this work is the only complete index to materials concerning the growth and history of Libya. Because Libya has no national bibliography, Index Libycus is an indispensable guide to a wide range of subjects covering the humanities and the sciences — including economics, communications, medicine, public health, law, politics, religion, history, education, geography and geology. An alphabetical list of authors facilitates the use of material in the volume. Available now.

Chiefship in Western Tanzania

A Political History of the Kimbu

Aylward Shorter

One of the riddles of African history is why chiefdoms proliferate. This critical study of the historical traditions of the Kimbu people reconstructs the process of formation of chiefdoms in their country, and sheds light on the history of neighbouring peoples in Western Tanzania who came under Kimbu influence. 6 plates 17 tables 13 maps £7.50

The Historical Tradition of Busoga

Mukama and Kintu

David William Cohen

This book reconstructs, through the collection and analysis of the family and state traditions of Busoga, the founding of the Busoga states and the events which have given rise to the popular traditions of the Adamic figures Mukama and Kintu. 12 maps £3.75 Oxford Studies in African Affairs

Church and State in Ethiopia

1270-1527

Tadesse Tamrat

The author reconstructs the history of Christian Ethiopia during the period when the state suddenly grew into an extensive empire, bringing under its control many pagan Falashe and Muslim peoples. From the rich historical records of medieval Ethiopia she has been able to fill many gaps, and to cover the history of the whole period as part of a single dynamic trend of development. Frontispiece £5.50 Oxford Studies in African Affairs

The External Trade of the Loango Coast

1576-1870

The Effects of Changing Commercial Relations on the Vili Kingdom of Loango

Phyllis M. Martin

This study traces the development of trade in the Loango Coast area, starting with the pre-slave area, through the slave-trade period, and the legitimate trade that had developed by the mid nineteenth century. 4 maps £4.50 Oxford Studies in African Affairs

Indirect Rule and the Search for Justice

Essays in East African Legal History

H. F. Morris and James S. Read

These essays examine aspects of the search for justice which was a recurrent theme during the colonial period. They trace the development of official policies in East Africa, and the application of the doctrine of indirect rule during its heyday. Tables £5.50 Oxford Studies in African Affairs

The Emin Pasha Relief Expedition

1886-1890

Iain R. Smith

Stanley's last great African expedition, to 'relieve' the Governor of the equatorial province of the Sudan at the time of the Mahdist revolt, is probably the best-documented expedition that ever went through Africa in the nineteenth century. This vivid and scholarly account utilizes the very full records that exist, including the remarkable diary of Emin Pasha himself. 6 plates 4 maps £6.50 Oxford Studies in African Affairs

The Azande

History and Political Institutions

E. E. Evans-Pritchard

This book is a reconstruction of a once famous people, the Azande of Central Africa, mostly of those in the Sudan. It relates the development of their institutions to their historical experience, and gives a background to the author's earlier books on this people. 6 plates several maps and figures £4

A History of the Kingdom of Nkore in Western Uganda to 1896

S. R. Karugire

This is an attempt to reconstruct the history of one of the interlacustrine Kingdoms (Nkore) from its beginnings around 1500 to the end of the nineteenth century. The work also traces the development of Kingship institutions and other aspects of Government, relating these to the social organizations such as the clans. 5 text figures £4.50 Oxford Studies in African Affairs

Priests and Politicians

Protestant and Catholic Missions in Orthodox Ethiopia 1830-1868

Donald Crummey

The main emphasis of this book is on the central role of missionaries in the genesis of modern Afro-European relations; and the apparent motives of Ethiopian leaders in dealing with representatives of an alien society. A variety of missionary strategies is revealed and discussed, and significant new light is cast on internal Ethiopian developments. 4 plates 3 maps £4 Oxford Studies in African Affairs

Colonist or Uitlander?

A Study of the British Immigrant in South Africa

John Stone

Since the establishment of South Africa as a Republic outside the Commonwealth in 1961, the number of British immigrants has risen sharply. This book attempts to explain the nature of the migration in terms of a general sociological model, supported by data drawn from a sample survey of post-war British immigrants. 8 text figures £5 Oxford Studies in African Affairs

The Failure of South African Expansion 1908 - 1948

Ronald Hyam

The Union of South Africa established in 1909-10 brought together Cape Province, the Transvaal, the Orange Free State and Natal, and envisaged further expansion. This is a study of the repeated failure of the expansionists' hopes, with an epilogue surveying the continuing failure down to the 1960s when the new-found independence of Lesotho, Botswana, Swaziland and Rhodesia transformed the situation. Based on Dr. Hyam's own research, this book contains much hitherto inaccessible material from the Government archives.

Swaziland

The Dynamics of Political Modernization

Christian P. Potholm

This study analyzes Swaziland's political development since World War II, with special attention to the turbulent events leading to her independence in 1968. The primary emphasis is on the forces that prompted the involvement of the traditional Swazi king in modern political activity, his formation of a mass-based party, and his extraordinary success.

A new edition of a unique and authoritative compendium on the history, dynastic genealogies and administrative development of the Provinces of Northern Nigeria:

GAZETTEERS OF THE NORTHERN PROVINCES OF NIGERIA

Edited, with a new introduction and prefatory notes, by A. H. M. Kirk-Greene

At first, the Gazetteers were the standard background reference books of colonial administrators posted to their respective Provinces, but they subsequently acquired a reputation with the post-independence generation of Africanist scholars as valuable sources of local knowledge.

In his deeply-researched introduction to this first-ever composite collection of the Gazetteers, Mr Kirk-Greene traces the history of this genre of administrative literature in Nigeria, and discusses its role in field administration throughout the changes in provincial nomenclature over the past seventy years. In addition, he provides tables and checklists, specifically devised for the newcomer to the subject, of the structure of what used to be Northern Nigeria. Each volume includes a separate Prefatory Note and basic bibliography for the history of the area covered. For easy reference, the contents of the volumes have been arranged so as to group together the principal Hausa/Fulani emirates, the central kingdoms and the highland chieftaincies. To the original eleven volumes of 1920–21, the editor has added the Gazetteer of Plateau Province (1934) and two further volumes are in preparation: Ilorin Province (1929) and Sokoto Province (1938).

No modern researcher on Northern Nigeria, whatever his discipline, will wish to be without this classic record of the earlier administrative and economic development of the various Provinces that today make up the six Northern States of Nigeria.

Ancient Ghana and Mali

Nehemia Levtzion

This is the first complete history of the ancient kingdoms of Ghana and Mali, two empires which mark the dawn of African history as we know it. By skilfully sifting the available evidence—old chronicles by Muslim scholars, Arabic and Portuguese texts and existing oral traditions—Dr Levtzion vividly reconstructs these great and fascinating kingdoms.

CONTRIBUTIONS

Contributions to the Journal are welcomed. They may be submitted in either English or French and, except with the prior approval of the Editors, should not exceed about 6000 words. Two copies should be submitted, clearly typed with double spacing on quarto paper, and with a left-hand margin of at least 1½ in. (4 cm.). A summary of the contents of the article, not exceeding about 300 words in length, should be attached on a separate sheet. Footnotes, which should also be typed with double spacing, should be numbered consecutively throughout the article, and should include all bibliographical references; there should be no separate bibliography. First references should be complete, in standard form, so as to permit unequivocal identification of the book or article in question. Subsequent references should be by author's name and short title. Articles may be illustrated with line drawings and maps and, should the Editors agree that it is necessary, also with half-tone plates.

Galley proofs will be sent, if necessary by airmail, to each contributor (or his nominee) provided that the Editors have been given an address through which he can be reached without delay. Corrections should be kept to the minimum, and should be corrections, not new material. If they are to be incorporated in the master proof corrected by the Editors, it is important that the contributor should return the galleys, by airmail if necessary, to the Editor named when they are sent out (and not to the Cambridge University Press), within ten days of his receipt of them.

Contributors of articles and review articles receive 25 free separates. Additional separates may be obtained at reasonable cost, provided that they are ordered before publication on the special form sent out with the galley proofs.

All contributions and books for review should be addressed to The Editors, The Journal of African History, School of Oriental and African Studies, University of London, London, W.C.1.
