

Desire, Darkness, and Hope: Theology in a
Time of Impasse: Engaging the Thought of Constance FitzGerald, OCD. Edited by Laurie Cassidy and M. Shawn Copeland.
Collegetown, MN: Liturgical Press, 2021.
xii + 469 pages. $44.95. – CORRIGENDUM

MARY E. HUNT

In the original publication of this book review, the name of a piece included in the edited anthology was misstated.<sup>1</sup> The reference to Constance Fitzgerald's essay "Passion the Carmelite Tradition: Gertrude Stein" should instead be "Passion in the Carmelite Tradition: Edith Stein."

The author apologizes for this error.

<sup>1</sup> Mary E. Hunt, review of Desire, Darkness and Hope: Theology in a Time of Impasse: Engaging the Thought of Constance Fitzgerald, OCD, edited by Laurie Cassidy and M. Shawn Copeland, Horizons 49, no. 2 (2022): 454.