

GRADUATE STUDIES IN ECONOMIC HISTORY

- MSc. Three examined courses and a 10,000 word thesis, □
over one year full-time (two years part-time)

The Sources and Historiography of the Economic History of Early Modern England

Perspectives on the Industrial Revolution

The Economic Analysis of North American History

Economic History: Interpretation and Analysis

The Economy and Society of London, 1600-1800

The World Economic Crisis, 1919-45

Interpreting Modern Business: The USA, Europe
and Japan

British Labour History, 1815-1939

Argentinian Economic Development since 1870

Economic History of Western Europe since 1945

Japanese Economic Development since the Late Nineteenth Century

Cobden, Free Trade, and Europe, 1846-82

History of Accounting

History of Economic Thought

Growth, Poverty and Policy in the Third World
since 1850

Latin America: Welfare, Equity and Development since 1920

The Economics of Less Developed Countries and their Development

Sociology of Development

African Economic Development in Historical Perspective

- The Department of Economic History at LSE has a staff of thirteen and admits over forty new graduates each year. The doctoral programme of research, led by Professor Leslie Hannah and Professor Alan Milward, offers supervision on a wide range of topics leading to an M.Phil. (2 years) or a Ph.D. (3 years).

- For details of graduate studies in Economic and Social History at LSE, contact: Graduate Admissions Office, The London School of Economics, Houghton Street, London, WC2A 2AE, England.

Accounting for Success

A History of Price Waterhouse in America,
1890–1990

David Grayson Allen

Kathleen McDermott, The Winthrop Group

Set within the larger context of American business history, Accounting for Success traces the evolution of the century-old, distinguished accounting firm of Price Waterhouse. Allen and McDermott's work yields important insights into a prominent player in accounting history and on the current competitive challenges faced by both Price Waterhouse and the profession as a whole.

400 pages $35.00

The Aspirin Wars

Money, Medicine, and 100 Years of Rampant Competition

Charles C. Mann and Mark L. Plummer

"A masterful, comprehensive account of aspirin's amazing history. With page-turning wit and insight, The Aspirin Wars illuminates the intricacies and interrelationships of chemistry and biology, politics and espionage, advertising and marketing and regulation and the law. The history of aspirin is enlivened by the colorful personalities from science, commerce and government who have shaped its evolution."

—Bill Barnhart, Chicago Tribune

432 pages $16.95 paperback

Labors of a Modern Hercules

The Evolution of a Chemical Company

Davis Dyer and David B. Sicilia, The Winthrop Group

Labors of a Modern Hercules traces the evolution of Hercules Incorporated from its beginnings as a small maker of explosives to its current status as a multimillion dollar, multinational chemical company. More than just a business history, the Hercules story provides valuable insights into the growth of U.S. companies in general during the 20th century, and the dynamics of the chemical industry in particular.

544 pages $50.00

Available at bookstores, or call 1-800-545-7685/617-495-6192

For a complete catalog of our books, write:

HARVARD BUSINESS SCHOOL PRESS
Boston, MA 02163

PERRY OF LONDON

A Family and a Firm on the Seaborne Frontier, 1615–1753
JACOB M. PRICE

The establishment of English colonies in North America and the West Indies in the seventeenth century created new opportunities for trade. Conspicuous among the families who used these opportunities to gain mercantile and social importance was the Perry family of Devon, who created Perry and Lane, by the end of the century the most important London firm trading to the Chesapeake and other parts of North America. Jacob Price traces this family's dealings and shows how their story reveals both the interrelatedness of social, commercial, and political history as well as the forces shaping English mercantile enterprise in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries.

Harvard Historical Studies, 111 $30.00 cloth

Harvard University Press

Cambridge, MA 02138 (617) 495-2480

OIL AND REVOLUTION IN MEXICO

By JONATHAN C. BROWN

Anyone contemplating the consequences of foreign investment in Latin America will profit from reading this book. As Brown shows, the dynamic growth of the Mexican oil industry resulted from both the domination of foreign capital and Mexico's own economic restructuring, conditions similar to those under which free-market reforms are being adopted throughout the hemisphere today. $40.00 cloth, illustrated

BUSINESS INFORMATION SOURCES

Third Edition

By LORNA M. DANIELLS

This is the reference work that business people have been waiting for—Lorna Daniells's updated guide to selected business books and reference sources. $35.00 cloth

At bookstores or order 1-800-822-6657.

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA PRESS

Berkeley Los Angeles New York London

GUIDELINES FOR CONTRIBUTORS

General Information

Manuscripts are considered for publication on the understanding that they are not concurrently under consideration elsewhere and that the material—in substance as well as form—has not been previously published.

Three copies of the manuscript should be submitted.

Authors should identify themselves only on a separate title page that provides name, mailing address, and telephone number. Authors must also remember not to identify themselves in the body of the manuscript; specifically, references to their own work in the text should be in the third person, and citations should be written without possessive pronouns—not “See my. . . .”

Each article should be accompanied by a précis of 75-100 words outlining the main point(s) of the paper and placing the article in context. Subheads should be used to divide the manuscript into three or four sections (or more, depending on length).

We do not have an upper or lower page limit, but articles usually run between 25 and 60 typescript pages, including notes and other material.

Articles must contain notes in the humanities style, not references as in the social sciences.

We are always eager to publish illustrations, but authors should not include originals of illustrative materials at the time of submission; photocopies of such material may be included.

Authors of accepted manuscripts will receive two copies of the issue in which the article appears and twenty-five free offprints.

Manuscript Preparation

ALL material—including extracted quotations and notes—must be double-spaced. Legible photocopies or word-processed originals may be submitted. Use of dot-matrix printers is discouraged.

Notes should be numbered consecutively and citations should be placed at the end of the text. Do not place footnotes at the bottom of the page (see word-processing instructions).

Each table or figure should occupy a separate page and should be numbered (in arabic numerals) and grouped together between the text and the notes. The position of these items should be indicated in the text (as, “see Table 3”), but they should not be mingled with the text and no extra space should be left for them there. Each table and figure must be accompanied by a complete source.

We use the 13th edition of The Chicago Manual of Style (1982) and spell and hyphenate words according to Webster’s Ninth New Collegiate Dictionary.

The journal encourages authors to use gender-neutral prose in all cases where it is not anachronistic to do so; male nouns and pronouns should not be used to refer to people of both sexes.

We use the day-month-year form for dates, as 11 February 1990.

Double quotation marks should be used for journal titles and direct quotation; single quotation marks are used for quoted material inside quotations.

Sample Citation Forms:

Book: Alfred D. Chandler, Jr., The Visible Hand: The Managerial Revolution in American Business (Cambridge, Mass., 1977), 321-22.

Journal: Charles Cheape, “Not Politicians but Sound Businessmen: Norton Company and the Third Reich,” Business History Review 62 (Autumn 1988): 444-66.

Note that we do not include the publisher in book citations. We do not use loc. cit., op. cit., or idem., but ibid. (not italicized) may be used.

Word-Processing Guidelines

The journal can accept disks of all standard sizes and densities, but they must be formatted in MS-DOS; we cannot use Apple or MacIntosh software. WordPerfect is directly compatible, but we may be able to accept your document if it can be converted into an ASCII file.

Potential contributors should submit hard copy, not diskettes, initially, but it will save considerable work for all parties in the event of acceptance if authors working on PCs follow a few rules from the beginning:

In general, use as few formatting commands as possible.

Do not justify or half-justify the right-hand margin.

Do not hyphenate words at the end of lines.

Do not use hard returns except for new paragraphs or required page ends except as absolutely necessary (for example, to break between text and notes).

Do not use special fonts; underline material that is to be set in italics.

Most important, do not use the word processor’s automatic footnote functions: do not embed notes in the text. Notes should be keyed in at the end of the text (after any tables) or as a separate file.

A80386-16
S40337
16262006
© © 1985 '86