

for the Royal Exchange
Theatre Company

The first prize is £10,000 Make a play for it

Created for the Royal Exchange Theatre Company, the Mobil Playwriting Competition is now widely recognised as a major source of new writing.

The first two competitions were an outstanding success. The second competition attracted over 1,600 entries from 25 countries.

The Mobil Playwriting Competition is open to anyone who can submit an original full length play written in English.

The winning plays will be chosen by a distinguished panel of judges, chaired by Ronald Eyre and including Prunella Scales, Josephine Hart, Gregory Hersov, James Maxwell – and the joint winner of the first competition, Robin Glendinning.

For the winners there's more than artistic recognition. As well as the potential for performance and publication, there is a total of £33,000 in prizes.

To find out more, write to Mobil Playwriting Competition, Royal Exchange Theatre Company, St Ann's Square, Manchester M2 7DH. Closing date: 3 August 1990.

Beckett in Performance

JONATHAN KALB

This book takes a look at the work of one of the twentieth-century's most influential playwrights and it provides a new insight into the particular problems of producing Beckett's work on stage and television.

Much of Jonathan Kalb's material has come from interviews with many Beckett directors and actors and even from rare conversation with Beckett himself.

Samuel Beckett

ANDREW K. KENNEDY

This book provides an original perspective on the prose fiction and drama of the influential Samuel Beckett. Andrew Kennedy links Beckett's vision of a diminished humanity with his art of formally and verbally diminished resources, and traces the fundamental simplicity and coherence of Beckett's work beneath its complex textures.

British and Irish Authors

Vsevolod Meyerhold

ROBERT LEACH

This book traces the career of the Russian theatre director, Vsevolod Meyerhold, from the height of his fame and influence after the Revolution to his demise in the Stalinist era. Robert Leach examines Meyerhold's early years as a founding member of the Moscow Art Theatre with Stanislavsky and Nemirovich-Danchenko, his Symbolist period, his experiments with commedia dell'arte and other popular forms, to his glittering triumphs in the Tsarist imperial theatres and beyond.

Directors in Perspective

Theatre in Spain, 1490–1700

MELVEENA McKENDRICK

This is the first book to examine the rise of Spain's extraordinary national theatre in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries in all its aspects – the commercial theatre, the court drama and the Corpus autos, the organisation of theatrical life, the playhouses themselves and their public, the literary and moral controversies, and the plays as literary texts.

German Classical Drama

Theatre, Humanity and Nation, 1750–1870

F. J. LAMPORT

This book is an historical and critical survey of the great tradition of German drama in the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries. It provides an introduction of the great authors and works from Lessing, through Weimar Classicism, Schiller and Goethe, to Kleist, Grillparzer and Hebbel. F. J. Lamport traces the rise and development in the German-speaking world of the last form of 'classical' poetic drama to appear in European literature.

Ibsen's Lively Art

A Performance Study of the Major Plays

FREDERICK J. MARKER and
LISE-LONE MARKER

This study of Ibsen's works explores key stage productions of six major Ibsen plays, from Peer Gynt to John Gabriel Borkman. The authors push beyond the more familiar confines of English Ibsen into the less commonly traversed territory of German, Russian, French and, in particular, Scandinavian theatre culture.

New Books on Theatre Studies

Players and performances in the Victorian theatre

GEORGE TAYLOR

Looks at different theatrical genres to reveal the range of Victorian actors, and how changes in repertoire, organisation and the social function of entertainment affected the 'purpose of their playing'. Drawing evidence from handbooks, reviews and biographies on the psychology, physiology and aesthetics of acting. George Taylor furthers our understanding of theatre history and Victorian cultural life.

Titus Andronicus

ALAN C. DESSEN

Provides a comparative account of major productions of Titus Andronicus, focusing upon particular problems of staging and interpretation, and attempts to overcome them. Arguing that Titus Andronicus is the most 'Elizabethan' of Shakespeare's plays and therefore the most difficult to stage, Dessen leads the student and interested theatre-goer towards a richer interpretation of the play.
